

Leucosticte tephrocotis (Linnaeus) lutea (Gmelin)

The first time I saw him he was a small, thin, dark-skinned boy, about 12 years old, with a very serious expression. He had a very large head, a prominent forehead, and a very long, thin nose. He was wearing a simple, light-colored cloth wrapped around his waist. He was standing in a clearing in a dense forest, looking directly at me. He spoke to me in a language I did not understand, but I could tell from his tone and body language that he was speaking to me with respect and care. He asked me if I was lost, and I responded that I was. He then led me to a small hut in the forest, where he invited me to sit down and rest. He brought me some food and water, and we sat together in silence for a while. I could feel a sense of peace and safety in his presence. After a few moments, he spoke again, this time in English. He said, "I am sorry you are lost. You must be tired. Please stay here with me until you are ready to continue your journey. I will take care of you." I was touched by his kindness and concern. I stayed with him for several hours, until I was ready to continue my journey. He送我到一个安全的地方，让我休息，给我食物和水。他带我到一个小木屋，让我坐下。他用英语对我说：“对不起，你迷路了。你一定很累。请在这里呆着，直到你准备好继续你的旅程。我会照顾你。”

With this in mind you will be able to see why such a number of us are interested in this - and why we feel so strongly about it from a scientific and educational stand point.

It is a common rule of thumb to add 20% to your price to cover the cost of your time and the cost of doing business. This is a good rule of thumb.
However, it is important to remember that you can't charge what you want to charge unless you have the right to do so. You can't charge what you want to charge if you are not qualified to do so. You can't charge what you want to charge if you don't have the right equipment or tools to do so. You can't charge what you want to charge if you don't have the right experience or knowledge to do so.

John R. Green

John

John H. Gandy

Leucostethus leucostethus leucostethus

W. H. Gage
Franklin

E. C. G. -

W. H. STANLEY

January 2 1911

W. H. Langford

Edgar

Edgar A. Munn

End Edna

Eukalyptus

Sept 17

W. E. Morgan

Spurzahn

10. Leucosia sp. (Diptera: Syrphidae) was collected from the same area as the Chrysanthemum plants.

1000 1000 1000 1000 1000 1000 1000 1000 1000 1000

Digitized by srujanika@gmail.com