

It may not be unworthy our Consideration, to see if some proper Persons, may not be induced to come into that way of Trade.

J. In Falconar.

London, May 15th, 1755.

P. S. I have from Tryd, we find the French Agent, will not come into our valuable Medals with us, but that we must be Obliged to find it out with him, I think we ought in Justice to our selves, to acquaint the Merchants of the Out Ports, with what we have been saying, and what we aim to do for the Good of the Trade. I make no doubt they will gladly come into the like Medals with us. In short I think it will be our Interest to settle a Correspondency with the Out Ports, as directed by our Resolutions given into this Meeting the 13th of March last.

J. In Falconar.

I am not a Judge, whether the Difficulties that attend the Execution of Mr. Hud's Project, be insuperable or not, as seem to be suggested in these Objections, but will only remind the Reader, that Mr. Hud, in the Paragraph of his Letter before recited, promises to Answer any Objections that can be made to his Scheme: Whether he will do it in such a Manner, as to give Satisfaction to the other Gentlemen, we must leave to Time to discover; in the mean Time I can only say, that I really believe, however those Two Gentlemen may disagree upon the Means for the Relief of the Trade, yet that they have both the same good End much at Heart, and I should be very unjust to all the other Gentlemen in the Trade, if I did not say, that they unanimously