CAULKS FIELD THE WINNER
 The Caulks Field 4-H Club was declared the winner on Saturday night of the Kent 4-H Radio Program Contest. The announcement was made at the 4-H Radio Dinner held at the First Methodist Church, Chestertown. Mrs. George Thoma, Manager of Radio Station WCTR presented a beautiful trophy to the Caulks Field Club. The trophy is a revolving one and will be awarded to the winning 4-H club each year. It was provided by station WCTR. The winning program was developed by the Caulks Field club and presented on November 7th. It dealt with the waterfowl hunting season and the duck nesting project of the club. Local Leader Mr. James Goodman and past president Robert Dierker deserve much of the credit, however, all members of the group worked on the project and took part in the radio program. The second best radio program last year, in the opinion of the evaluators, was the Worton Busy Beavers presentation on December 19 of the Christmas Story. It was probably the most professionally done and was a very close second. The unique sound effects of the Caulks Field program was the deciding factor in the placing. All programs were considered good and high praise was given all who were present at the dinner. Evaluators, a secret until Saturday night, for 1964-65 were Mrs. Kay Dagggett, Mr. Roland Sharretts, Mrs. Elizabeth Lusby, Mrs. Elsie Weanert, Mrs. Helen Sutton, and Tommy Crow.

It was decided to continue the contest for another year which begins on June 5. Additional evaluators will be needed and the schedule of programs will be announced.

4-H SUNDAY:
 With most of the Methodist ministers away at annual conference last Sunday, 4-Hers did most of the morning services at three churches. Last Sunday was 4-H Sunday in Kent. At Wesley Chapel the service was in charge of Anna Dulin with Robert Dierker and Shirley Willis as speakers. At Galena, seven 4-H members took part with James A. Weanert as guest speaker. At Kennedyville, the guest speaker was former 4-H member E. Rankin Lusby, Executive Secretary of the Maryland Farm Bureau with 4-H members taking part. On May 23, Rev. Wyllie will conduct a special service with 4-H members as guests at Shrewsbury.

4-H LEADERSHIP CAMP:
 Five Kent 4-H members will be attending the Maryland 4-H Camp for Camp Counselors at The Rocks in Harford County next weekend. The group will assemble after school on Friday, May 21 and the program will conclude with lunch on Sunday, May 23. Representing Kent will be Eleanor Gent, Linda Elliott, Janet Crew Elizabeth Joyce and Joyce Dulin. The Kent County camp dates are June 16-19.

HOW ARE YOU ON FACES? Pictured above is the 1948 contingent from Kent which attended the Rural Women's Short Course at University of Maryland. Many of them still retain their interests in the program and some are planning to attend the 39th annual course which will be held from June 14th to June 19th. Scores of interesting courses are offered throughout the day and fine programs are planned for the evenings. Reservations are now being accepted at the County Agent's office by Mrs. Wilson Cohey. The deadline is May 26th. A fee of $25 covers housing, food, classes, assemblies and bus transportation for the various tours. Since space is limited, those persons interested are urged to contact Mrs. Cohey as quickly as possible.
