acres to his farm without increasing the number of his hands, the amount of his stock, and his intelligence and attention in managing the business, probably does him-self harm;—if it is pasture-land that he self harm;—if it is pasture-land that he buys, and if he uses it for summer stock, or lift be woodland, the case may be changed; but on general principles, if the farm is enlarged without an enlargement of working facilities, the work must be carried on at a disadvantage. Very often, indeed, a farmer wakes up to the idea that the key to all success is to be found in manure; and he devotes himself most energetically to its procurement, sending his men and teams to town to had out night-soil at a season when they should be bus; with plowing, planting, or cultivation. Manufe he has, of course, and his land is made rich by it; but for want of proper care and management, the richness spends itself in the production of weeds instead of crops, and what would have been a source of great profit, with an addition of more men and teams for home work, has been a losing business. Another may believe that his best chance for improvement lies in the employment of abundant labour; and he hires more men and teams than with his general facilities he can profitably employ, or more than he has the head to manage. Another, again, pins his faith to livestock of the finer breeds; and he buys expensive animals beyond his capacity for feeding and grooming. All of these men lose money, and all for the same reason. They give undue prominence to one branch of a give undue prominence to one branch of a business in which the growth of all the

its natural Vitality and Color. A dressing which is at once agreeable, healthy, and effectual for preserving the hair. Faded or gray hair is soon restor with the gloss and freshness of youth. Thin hair is thickened, falling hair checked, and baldness often, though not always, cured by its use. Nothing can restore the hair where the follicles are destroyed, or the glands atrophied and decayed But such as remain can be saved for usefulness by this application. Instead of fouling the hair with a pasty sediment, it will keep it clean and vigorous. Its occasional use will prevent the hair from turning gray or falling off, and consequently prevent baldness. Free from those deleterious substances which make some preparations dangerous and injurious to the hair, the Vigor can only benefit but not harm it. If wanted merely for a HAIR DRESSING, nothing else can be found so desirable. Containing neither oil nor dye, it does not soil white cambric, and yet lasts long on the hair, giving it a rich glossy

Good News for Housekeepers. Whitewashing Superseded! MAXWELL'S PREPARED GYPSUM

A DESCRIPCIL DURABLE AND CHESP ARTICLE. To invect a substance which would supersede the old style of Whitewashing, has long been the aim of the subscriber, and a wish often expressed by housekepers. That desideratum has at last been obtained, and it affords the inventor much pleasure that he can supply the public with a substitute, which while it has all the good qualities of Lime, has none of its objectionable

If I were obliged to fix on any one principle as the foundation of successful farming, I should take that of a just proportion between the different departments of the farm organization. Nothing is more common than to see, among those who are striving after improvements, a great want of balance between one part and another of their establishments. Farming is a composit business. It is like an army advancing on parallel roads, where the only chance of success lies in a simultaneous attack by all the columns. If one is forced in advance of the others, it is defeated for want of support; and the others in their turn are defeated for want of the help that it might have given—the army is "whipped in detail." There can be no success in farming, or at least no such success as we all should strive for, unless a true balance is should strive for a success as we all should strive for a success as we all
