The President's Message.

The President's Message.

The message was delivered to Congress, at one o'clock, on Monday. It is generally pronounced an able, bold, clear document on our National affairs, and will be accepted by the Republican party and the people generally with satisfaction. We herewith append a synopsis of the message, which is all that our limited space will allow:

With the restoration of Georgia to representation in Congress, which may be expected very soon, the work of reconstruction will be complete, and, the President says:

"In conclusion, I would sum up the policy of the Administration to be a thorough enforcement of every law, a faithful collection of every tax provided for, a prompt payment of every debt of the nation, a reduction of the taxes as rapidly admit—the reduction of taxations and tariff to be so arranged as to afford the greatest relief to the greatest numbers. The new Government of France having The new Government of France having applied to our Government to use its good offices in the interest of peace, the President answered that the established policy and the true interests of the United States forbade all interference in European questions jointly with European Powers.—Should the time, however, come when the action of the United States can hasten the return of peace by a single hour, that Should the time, however, come when the action of the United States can hasten the return of peace by a single hour, that action will be heartily taken.

But little is said in the message about Cuba, except that reparation for damage to the persons or property of American citizens has been made by Spain.

The annexation or purchase of San Domingo is again pressed on the attention of Congress, and the opinion expressed that it will fall into European hands so soon as it is ascertained that the purchase has been abandoned by the United States. San Domingo now has a population of 120,000 souls, and the President says it is capable of supporting a population of 10,000,000 of people in luxury. The people yearn for the protection of our free institutions and laws, and the President asks, "Shall we refuse them?" Its possession by us will build up a coastwise commerce of immense magnitude, which will go far towards restoring to us our lost merchant commerce. The President concludes this branch of his Message with a review of the many advantages to flow from its early acquisition, and recommends that a joint resolution be passed authorizing the Executive to appoint a commission to negotiate a treaty with the authorities of San Domingo for its purchase, and then it can be determined by a resolution of annexation, as in "The Report, as a whole, is concise and clear in statement, abounds with interesting statistics, and contains many important recommendations, whose adoption will contribute largely to the economy and efficiency of the postal service.

"Mr. Creswell shows that the affairs of this deartment are in a healthy, and, in utive to appoint a commission to negotiate a treaty with the authorities of San Doming for its purchase, and then it can be determined by a resolution of annexation, as in the case of Texas.

The President is very decided on the question of the Alabama claims, and says that our unalterable convictions are that the British Government was guilty of gross negligence. The appointment of a Commission to settle these claims, and pay them by the Government, is recommended, so that the Government, is recommended, so that the Government may own them, and have full possession and responsible control of all the demands against Great Britain.

The unfriendly course of the Canadian authorities towards our fishermen, and the statutes for condemnation of American vessels, the President says, will not be permitted, and if attempted it would become his duty to take steps to protect the rights of citizens of the United States. Any attempt to enforce the claims put forth will be held responsible. Congress is asked to empower the President to suspend by proclamation the operation of laws authorizing the transit of goods in bond to Canada, and, if such an extreme measure should become necessary, to prohibit vessels of transition of American lines of transit. the transit of goods in bond to Canada, and, if such an extreme measure should become necessary, to prohibit vessels of the Dominion of Canada, from entering the waters of the United States, which he cites various precedents in other countries to show belong exclusively to the commerce of the United States.

The following extract from the Report of the United States.

will give some idea of the importance of of the United States.

The encouragement of American iron ship building is strongly recommended.—The building of a State Department is urged as a matter of necessity.

Such measures as will lead to an early resumption of specie payments are strongly recommended.

On this subject the President says:

The average value of gold as compared with national currency for the whole of they are 1899 was about 131, and for cleven months of 1870 the same relative value has been about 143. The approach to a specie basis is very gratifying, but the fact cannot be denied that the instability of the value of our currency is prejudicial to our prosperity, and tends to keep up prices to the detriment of trade. The evils of a depreciated and fluctuating currency are so great that now, when the premium on dold has fallen so much, it would seen that the time has arrived when by wise and prudent legislation Congress should look to a policy which would place our currency at par with gold at no distant day. The tax collected from the people has been reduced more than eighty millions of dollars per annum. By steadiness in our present course, there is no reason why, in a few short years, the national tax-gatherer may not disappear from the door of the citize almost entirely. With the revenue stamp stand dispensed by postmasters in every community, a tax upon liquors of all sorts and dispensed by postmasters in every community, at ax upon liquors of all sorts and dispensed by postmasters in every community, at ax upon liquors of all sorts and such as a constant beautifully, and the state of the constant in the course, which were delivered and 3.254 were filed. The number containing postographs was $3,5437.

Will, J. Roll, R. C. Biddle, privor in the first to a fact the course, the first and has been directed to the fact can be a fact to a special section of the state when the course, the first and not the courty when the present and revenue stamp and the proposal almost entirely. With the revenue stamp dispensed by postmasters in every community, a tax upon liquors of all sorts and tobacco in all forms, by a wise adjustment of the tariff which will put a duty only upon those articles which we could dispense with, known as luxuries, and on those which we use more of than we produce, revenue enough may be raised after a few years of peace and consequent reduction of indebtedness to fulfil all our obligations. A further reduction of expenses in addition to a reduction of the interest account may be relied on to make this practicable.

On the new question of "Revenue

On the new question of "Revenue reform," the President strikes Senator Trumbull and his party a damaging blow are turnished to the public at the value of the postage stamp impressed upon them, which is in Great Britain half a penny, being one-half the established inland letter rate of postage. The advantages claimed by their use consist in the increased celerity and ease of business and social intercommunication, by dispensing with much of the ordinary enistolary form and appli-Trumbull and his party a damaging blow in the following paragraph:

Revenue reform, if it means this, has my hearty support. If it implies a collection of the revenue for the support of government, for the payment of principal and interest of the public debt, pensions, &c., by directly taxing the people, then I am against revenue reform, and confidently believe the people are with me. If it means failure to provide the necessary means to defray all the expenses of the Government, and thereby repudiation of the public debt and pensions, then I am still more opposed to such kind of revenue reform. Revenue reform has not been defined by any of its advocates to my knowledge, but seems to be accepted as smething which is to supply every man's wants without any cost or effort on his part. A true revenue reform cannot be made in a day, but must be the work of national legislation and of time. As soon as the revenue can be dispensed with, all duty should be removed from coffee, tea, and other articles of miversal use not produced by ourselves.

The necessities of the country compet us to collect revenues from our imports. An army of assessors and collectors is not a pleasant sight to the citizen, but that on a tariff for revenue is necessary. Such a tariff, so far as it acts as an encouragement to home production, alfords employment to thome production, alfords employment to those at living wages in contrast to the proper labor of the Otl World, and also in the development of home resources.

The accompanying report of the Postmaster General shows a most satisfactory working of that department. With the adoption of the recommendations contained therein, particularly those relating to a reform in the franking privilege, and the adoption of the correspondence cards, a self-sustaining postal system may speedily be looked for, and at no distant day a further reduction of the rate o postage be attained. man. Last winter 1 saw several persons there whose lungs had been badly diseased, but who, under the heading influence of the climate and my medicine, were getting well.

One hundred miles further down the river Is a point which I would perfer to Palatka, as the temperature is more even and the six dry and bracing. Mellouville and Enterprise are located there. I should give a decided preference to Mellouville. It is two miles from river of lake, and it eems almost impossible to take cold there. The tables in Plotlak might be better, and patients complain at times, but that is a good sign, as it indicates a return of appetite, and when this is the case they generally interace in flesh, and then the lungs heart had. Jacksonville, Hilbernia, Green Cove, and many other places in various parts of Florika, can be safely recommended to consumptives, in winter. My reasons for saying so are that patients are less fladle to take cold there than where there is less even temperature, and it is not necessary to say that where a consumptive person exposes himself to frequent colds, he is certain to distortly. Therefore my advice is, or well down into the State out of the reach of pervading soar winds and fogs. Jacksonville, or almost any other of the localitie I have named, will benefit those whose lungs are diseased a more southern point is carnestly recommended.

For fifteen years prior to 1909, I was professionally in New York, Boston, Baltimore and Philodelphia every week, where I saw and examined on an average five hundred patients a week. A practice so extensive, embracing every possible phase of lung disease, has enabled me to understand the disease fully, and hence, my caution in regard to taking cold. A person may take large quantities of "Schenck's Pulmonie Syup, Seawed Tonic and Mandrake Pille," and yet die if he does not at 1 toking cold.
