ELKTON, FEBRUARY 25, 1871.

Safety of the Tennessee.

The steamer North America arrived at New York, from Rio Janeiro, on Tuesday morning last, bringing the joyful news that the steamer Tennessee, which sailed from New York, about the middle of January, with the San Domingo Commission on board, had arrived safely at San Domingo on the 1st of February, after a pleasant voyage. The length of time which is required to receive news from the island, there being no telegraphic communication, seemed an age to the fast Americans, and much anxiety was created in the public mind for the safety of the vessel, which was happily dispelled by the arrival of the North America.

The Commission intend to start home in four weeks. The news brought reports the people of San Domingo universally favorable to annexation to the United States. The Commission consists of ex-Senator Benjamin F. Wade, Andrew D. White, President of Cornell University, and Hon. Samuel G. Howe, of Boston.—The Secretary of the Commission is Allen A. Burton. The scientific men attached thereto are Professor W. P. Blake, mineralogist; Professor Pary, of the Agricultural Department, as botanist; Professor Newcomb, of Cornell University, general naturalist; Professor Ward, of the University of Rochester, geologist; Hon. Geo. Geddes, president of the New York Agricultural Society, formerly State engineer, in the agricultural interests; and an assistant mineralogist from Yale and an assistant botanist and mineralogist from Harvard College. General Sigel went in a private capacity, and Professor C. F. Cram, of Cornell University, went in the capacity of private secretary to President White.

A number of newspaper men also went with the expedition, amongst them C. C. Fulton, of the Baltimore American. Some very interesting letters from San Domingo are published in the American, written by Mr. Fulton. We have room for only the following extracts:

THE PEOPLE OF SAMANA.

When we landed at Samana there was a general feeling of disappointment at its appearance, but on mingling among the people and conversing with them we found most of them of more than ordinary intelligence. Their sad stories of intestine war and of the almost annual plunder of their town, by roving guerilla bands, excited the sympathy of both the Commissioners and members of the press, with scarcely an exception. We were welcomed everywhere with smiling countenances, and everybody appeared anxious to extend to us all the hospitality in their power. We were invited into their houses and refreshments spread out—any attempt to pay them for what we wanted drawing forth such evidences of offence that there could be no mistaking their genuine feeling of good will.

The town of Samana was first settled by a colony of one hundred and fifty colored people sent out by the Pennsylvania Colonization Society from Philadelphia forty-one years ago. I met several old colored men who claimed Philadelphia as their place of nativity, one of whom told me they were raised on Coates street. Others were from New Jersey, and one from the interior of New York. They were all adherents of Baez, and denounced Cabral as a drunken thief and vagabond—a kind of highwayman, encouraged in his outrages by Hayti, where he always found a safe retreat.

POPULARITY OF ANNEXATION.

If Mr. Sumner and Carl Schurz had stood alongside of General Sigel here to-day and listened to the sad stories of rapine and murder detailed by these old American colonists, I think they would have had all the sympathy of their natures aroused. They said they never had any security until that "old flag" had come to them (pointing to the American flag flying at the entrance of the harbor,) and they had prayed for its coming for years. Every season, as soon as their crops were gathered, the guerillas would come down upon them, sweep off their crops, horses and cattle, burn their dwellings, and murder them in case of resistance. When they talked about annexation the tears streamed down their old furrowed cheeks, and their eyes sparkled with joy in anticipation of its consummation.

These old Pennsylvania colonists are solid and rugged looking men. They say that although many of their companions are dead, that they and their descendants now number about five hundred, and if protected from the guerrillas would be happy and prosperous. They were at work with some of their sons helping to build the new Methodist Church.

The people generally speak English, Spanish and French. About two-thirds of them are colored, and the remainder Spanish. We met one family of French Creoles, originally from New Orleans, named Marciacq, consisting of father, mother, daughter and two sons, who had been driven from Hayti last February, when Salnave was massacred. The daughter, a fine-looking young Creole, is the widow of Salnave, who was massacred at that time. They were waiting anxiously for the settlement of the question, desirous of remaining, determined to "return to the States" in case American protection is not guaranteed to them.

The Commissioners and all our party made inquiry of all classes of people as to the question of annexation, and were assured that there was not a voice raised in any part of the Republic against it, except by a few who were in the interest of Hayti, which Government desires to possess itself of the whole island. The fact is very apparent that Hayti is the cause of all the trouble here, hoping to ultimately induce the people to consent to annexation to that country.

A Home Truth.

A correspondent in urging the advantages of the proposed railroad from Elkton to Middletown, in last week's Democrat, takes the following very significant view of the farming interests of this county. The same views have frequently been urged by The Whig. The writer says:

"After all, this [section of] country has got to turn attention to the fruit business, and in order to do so we want quick transit, to enable us to grow perishable commodities. As we cannot compete with the great grain growing States, we must have railroad facilities or our communities and counties must decrease in value.

In conclusion I must say for the benefit of all, that the farmers must abandon the use of patent manures, and go back to the old standards—ashes, lime and home-made manures. Farmers should not buy what they can make. They should take more interest in making manure, and this is a saving of money. If the course of farming continues for another ten years as it has for the last ten, our county will be in a destitute situation. The county is not as flourishing as it was before the war, and one great cause is the use of bogus manures. Farmers cannot buy both, one or the other must be abandoned, and I say throw off all flimsey manures and take the good. The neglect of ashes, lime and barnyard manures is the cause of our poverty."

The italics are our own, and the declaration contained in that part of the writer's remarks, is a startling fact which should claim the earnest consideration of our farmers. Fruit growing would not prove so remunerative in other parts of the county as in Sassafras Neck, to which section the above remarks are more particularly applied, but a departure from the exhaustive system of patent manure and wheat farming here urged, is applicable to all parts. For five years our farmers have complained of poor crops, and all this time the price of grain has been running down, showing that the crops have been a general average through the grain supplying parts of the country, and that increasing thinness of lands, together with a less favored climate for the production of cereals, is a fact that stands face to face with our agriculturists. The decrease of grain farming and fruit growing—the latter in those localities which experience has proved adapted to it—is the only way out of the slough of despond in which our agricultural friends are at present floundering.

Fire at Denton.

Dr. Tall, of the Denton Journal, visited Elkton, on Monday last, but we were absent from our office when he called. A fire broke out in the building next that in which the Journal printing office was located, and the damage to the type and fixtures of the Journal by fire and water, and the unavoidable hurry which is inseperable from such occasions, was quite serious. The Cecil Company has an insurance on the office which will probably cover the loss, but the injury resulting from having a printing office knocked into "pi," can only be estimated by those who have to restore order. The Insurance Company will lose quite heavily by the fire. The proprietor of the Journal has our sympathies for his misfortune. We can well appreciate the annoyance and loss from having his business thus rudely interrupted by fire, a loss which Insurance Companies cannot remedy.

Magazines for March.

Godey's Lady's Book.—The embellishments for March commence with a handsome steel plate entitled—"Lights and Shadows by the Wayside." Colored Fashion-Plate, containing six figures. A handsome Alphabet, printed in colors. "Flooded Out," a wood engraving. A plate of Promenade Dresses. An Extension Sheet of fashionable costumes. In the Work Department will be found the usual variety of fancy and useful work. Lamp screen; infants boot in crochet; chemise trimming; fluted trimming; foot-cushion; children's clothing, with directions for making; embroidered basket; case for holding silks, etc., etc. Marion Harland's story improves in interest. The Book is an old favorite among American ladies of refinement and taste, and constantly increases in popularity. Price of the Book $3 a year; or clubbed with The Whig, a copy of each one year $4, always in advance.

Scribner's Monthly.—The illustrations, about fifty in all, are particularly excellent and attractive. Prof. Maury's second article on "Weather-Telegrams and Storm-Forecasts" has the leading place, and is profusely illustrated. The Professor treats an important and timely subject in a decidedly graphic and popular manner, and no one should neglect to read these articles who desire to be informed as to the latest developments of science, and the practical adaptations of the latter to the purposes of agriculture, commerce, and the ordinary business of life. Next comes an article on "King Gambrinus and his Subjects," giving an interesting account of a celebrated German beer-house, with splendidly engraved sketches of characteristic scenes, and portraits of some of the frequenters of the place. The picture of The Mournful End, gives a palpable point to the moral of the article. In this number we have also an extremely valuable illustrated paper on Life in the Cannibal Islands, which will be continued in the April number, and contains full and interesting particulars of the history, resources, and prospects of New Zealand. Mr. J. C. Bates, the writer, is an American who has recently returned from a nine years' residence in the Cannibal Islands, and the present series is all the more timely when we learn that a grand attempt is contemplated to induce emigration thither from America. Other articles of striking interest are a graphic personal sketch of Victor Emmanuel's Queen, by Mrs. Kinney; another powerful story by Mrs. Trafton, Will She Ride or Walk? The Celestials in Sunday-school, giving an account of the singular manner in which the Chinese operatives are taught in the Sunday-school at North Adams, Mass.; and The Ancient Fenians, a learned and curious paper by Prof. Seelye. The poetry in this number is by Elizabeth Akers Allen, Lois Brooke, and Mary L. Ritter. Mrs. Allen's "In a Garret," is one of her most beautiful poems. Dr. Holland, in The Topics of the Time, under the head of Lecture-Brokers and Lecture-Breakers, treats of the cause of the decline of the lecture system; and calls attention to the subject of bonuses, commissions, etc., as A Growing Vice of Business. In the Old Cabinet we find a description and explanation of the American Mrs. Jarley's Wax-Work Show, also a Letter to a Young Poet. A new department is added this month, entitled, Beyond the Sea. Home and Society, treats entertainingly of Little Dinners, English Ivies, and The Work-Basket. There are the usual notices of new books, and Mr. Bush, the artist, gives us seven very amusing sketches of a Musical Party. But to many the chief charm of the number will be the new installment of MacDonald's wonderful story.

The Atlantic.—This old New England favorite among periodicals, is particularly rich this month, as the catalogue of its contents will show. The number opens with the leading popular question of the day. The following is the list of contents of the March number: Woman's Rights in Ancient Athens—B. W. Ball. Looking for Pearls. Ups and Downs of the Bonapartes and Bourbons—J. A. Kate Beaumont. III.—J. W. DeForest. John Wesley—G. A. E. Marguerite—John G. Whittier. Our Eyes, and how to take care of them. III.—Henry W. Williams, M. D. Shoddy—E. P. Whipple. Prelude to the Second Part of Faust—Bayard Taylor.—A Passionate Pilgrim. I.—H. James, Jr. Active Glaciers within the United States.—Clarence King, U. S. Geologist. The Mulberries—W. D. Howells. Our Whispering Gallery. III. Recent Literature.—Bret Harte's Poems.—White's Words and their Uses, Past and Present.—Cozzen's Sparrowgrass Papers, etc—Durand's Translation of Taine's Art in the Netherlands.—Warner's My Summer in a Garden.—Blackburn's Art in the Mountains.—Washburn's History of Haraguay.—Verses by H. H.

The Farmers' Mutual Fire Insurance Company of York, Pa.—This Company is one of the best Mutual Companies in the country. The business of the Company is conducted in the most prompt and accurate manner, and losses paid without litigation or delay. Applications for insurance left at The Whig office, forwarded, and the policies procured, without further cost or trouble to persons desiring to insure property in the Company.

"Chats with the aged" treat on a subject—forest culture—of deep interest to the community; but the dialogue plan adopted by the writer, is entirely objectionable. The subject is the poorest conceivable for dialogue. Had the writer treated it in a plain, condensed essay, he could doubtless have made it very interesting.

Philadelphia Cattle Market.—Beef Cattle, as we have noticed for several weeks past, continue dull, but prices are without material change. About 1900 head arrived and sold at 8½a9c. for extra Pennsylvania and Western Steers; 6½a8c. for fair to good, and 4½a6c. per lb. gross as to quality.—Cows were without change, 200 head sold at $40a70 per head as to quality. Sheep were in fair demand. 15,000 head sold at the different yards at 5a6½c. ℔ lb. gross, as to condition. Hogs were also in fair demand. 5000 head sold at $10a10.50 for common, and $11a12 for prime; the latter rate for corn-fed.

ELKTON AND MIDDLETOWN ROAD

E. E. Ewing—Dear Sir:—I beg to make a few suggestions favoring the railroad from this place (Elkton) to Middletown.—Last winter a charter was obtained for a road from Elkton to Massey's Cross Roads. This road will connect at Elkton with the P., W. & B. Railroad, and thereby all roads meeting at Massey's. The proposed road to Middletown will necessarily have to take the same route as the Massey's. I propose to use the Massey's charter and make a lateral to Middletown. By so doing nine miles of the Massey's road will be completed at but little expense, as the whole nine miles will be on the bed of the old Eastern Shore Road, which is graded to Bohemia River—some twelve miles. At the point where the Eastern Shore Road crosses the county road from Bohemia Manor to Middletown, the distance would not be over four miles: a perfectly level country. At this point I would have a depot, and in a few years, I venture to say, it would be one of the greatest peach depots on the Eastern Shore, as Bohemia Manor and all the adjacent country is particularly adapted to the growth of that valuable fruit. I have been informed that the P., W. & B. Railroad wants a coal road to the Delaware Bay. If so, let them relay the old Frenchtown Road, where this road will cross it, to the Delaware Road, distant but five miles, and they have a continuous road from Elkton to New Castle. I have understood that the corporators of the Elkton and Massey's Road say that if Baltimore city will subscribe $100,000, they will make both roads—to Massey's and Middletown. The road to Middletown will not cost, it is said, over $120,000. If this route was explained to the business men of Baltimore that it connects that city with the Eastern Shore of Maryland and a large part of Delaware, (by either route) I am sure they would subscribe the necessary amount of funds, and the road might be in operation by next winter. Call for a State Educational and Workingmen's Convention.

Baltimore, Jan. 13th, 1871.

To the Colored Men of Maryland. Fellow Citizens:—Having been duly appointed a Committee to draft a Call by very many of our most influential citizens, we issue the following Call for a State Convention of colored men, to assemble in the city of Baltimore, at Douglass Institute, on Wednesday, March 1st, 1871, at 12 M.

The objects of the Convention are:

1. To organize our brethren throughout the State into Educational and Labor Unions, for intellectual improvement and the general elevation of the race.
2. To call the attention of the people of our State and nation to the prescribed and unjust position which we, as American citizens, are compelled to occupy in this our native commonwealth.
3. To mutually consult with each other as to the best mode of securing for ourselves and our posterity homes, land, education, character, influence; and to cultivate art, science, industry, temperance, economy, morals and religion.
4. To further, by whatever influence we can bring to our aid, a full recognition of our manhood, and a fair chance through the race of life.

We cannot but expect good results and a ready response to a Convention convened for the above stated objects, and anticipate the hearty and continuous co-operation of our brethren from the counties and cities of our State, in working out the great reform, tending towards giving equal chance to all human beings.

Any correspondence or information relative to the Convention will be received and attended to by Wm. H. Wood, Corresponding Secretary, No. 11 Lexington Street, Baltimore, Md. Respectfully, Yours,

Crime and its Source.

Even the most superficial observation of our criminal records will serve to show that in the vast majority of cases crime results from intemperance. But closer examination shows that numbers of criminal acts, not ascribed to this origin, really spring from it; as, for example, theft and robbery not committed directly through drink, but indirectly in consequence of the poverty caused by it; murder or maiming not done under the influence of liquor, but through ready anger and want of self-control resulting from the irritability which habitual use of drink brings upon the nervous system.

Thus the very large amount of evil which we all ascribe to intemperance in reality falls much short of the truth. This truth has been summed up in a few words by Mr. Thompson in his "Punishment and Prevention," as follows: "There is an unanimous opinion of the fact—expressed in various forms by all who have the means of knowing—that drink is the great cause of crime; that but for drink there would be little crime."

It may be said that in a vast majority of cases vice in the young may be traced to intemperance in the parent as its original cause. Drink breeds poverty, makes a desolate home, and places the young within the reach of every evil temptation. Instead of the parental influence acting as a check, its weight is thrown entirely on the side of wrong-doing. Such children have a weak organization in consequence of the disordered tissues of the parent, and a proclivity towards evil; and can any one wonder if in the atmosphere in which they are placed the evil character of their career becomes almost a necessity fixed upon them before they are old enough to think?

Society which permits such evils is necessarily responsible for them. If it is within the reach of human means to check them society is bound to do it. The difficulties in dealing with evils of this sort are enormous, but as the evils are themselves enormous it is natural that the difficultes should be commensurate with them. As Recorder Hill most forcibly and justly remarked; "The beer-house and the gin-shop are the authorized temptations offered by the Legislature to crime."—Press.

CLEAR AND HARMLESS AS WATER.

Nattan's Crystal Discovery for the Hair.

A perfectly clear preparation, in one bottle, easily applied as water for restoring to gray Hair its natural color and youthful appearance; to eradicate and prevent dandruff; to promote the growth of the Hair and stop its falling.

It is entirely harmless and perfectly free from any poisonous substance, and will, therefore, take the place of all the dirty and unpleasant preparations now in use. Numerous testimonials have been sent up from many of our most prominent citizens, some of which are subjoined; in everything in which the articles now in use are objectionable, Crystal Discovery is perfect; it is warranted to contain neither Sugar of Lead, Sulphur or Nitrate of Silver. Clear and clean as water, it does not soil the clothes or scalp; it is agreeably perfumed, and makes one of the best dressings for the hair in use; it restores the color of the hair more perfectly and uniformly than any other preparation, and always does so, in from three to ten days. Virtually feeding the roots of the hair with all the nourishing qualities necessary to its growth and healthy condition, it restores the decay and induces a new growth of the hair more positively than anything else. The application of this wonderful discovery also produces a pleasant and cooling effect on the scalp, and gives the hair a pleasant and elegant appearance.

Washington, August 5th, 1870.

Mr. Arthur Nattans—Dear Sir: I do not hesitate to say that your Crystal Discovery deserves to supercede all other preparations claiming to restore the growth and color of the hair. I have used it a week now, and my hair has already resumed its natural shade, and has ceased falling almost entirely. I cheerfully recommend it. Respectfully, MRS. ANNIE MOURAIN.

☞ We call special attention to the fact that a limited number of trial bottles will be given away gratuitously to those wishing to try. You will notice that in pursuing this course, our aim is to convince by the actual merits of the article. ARTHUR NATTANS, Inventor and Proprietor, Washington, D. C.

CARBOLIC TABLETS.
Prepared by DR. WELLS.
The most important discovery of the age is this wonderful Healing and Cleansing agent for all diseases and weakness of the Respiratory organs, Sore Throat, Sudden Cold, Hoarseness, Catarrh, Asthma, Dryness of the Throat or Windpipe, disease of the Lungs and for all irritation of the mucous membrane.
All vocalists and public speakers who speak and sing without effort, use these Tablets, their effect in clearing the voice is simply astonishing as can be shown by numerous certificates.
Dr. WELL'S CARBOLIC TABLETS act directly on the mucous membrane and should be promptly and freely taken in all exposure or violent change of weather, as they equalize the Circulation of the Blood and thus ward off all tendency to colds and Lung difficulty.
The proprietors would say, all first-class medicines have their imitations, and they would CAUTION the public against imposition by having other medicines thrust upon them in place of these admirable Tablets.
