The Cecil Whig

ELKTON, MARCH 4, 1871.

Santa Domingo Notes.

Mr. C. C. Fulton, of the Baltimore American, accompanied the St. Domingo Commission, and is now writing letters home to that paper. The following extracts will interest our readers:

THE CLIMATE, &C.

This is what is call the dry season of the year, but it is by no means dry, as I learned to my cost on being caught in a perfect avalanche of rain coming in from the Tennessee, which lays out about two miles from the landing place on the river. It lasted about a half hour, and when I landed the water was running out of the gates of the city in a solid stream about ten inches deep. These showers come up without any premonitary signs, and there are two or three of them every day, followed by beautiful rainbows. In a moment after they cease the sun shines out bright and beautiful.

Notwithstanding the thermometer stands at about 85 degrees, there are literally no flies here, or at least they are so few that I could not discover one in the store of our young townsman, Richard Friend, this morning, when he was purchasing lots of sugar from the country people, which they bring in stowed in matting bags on the backs of their mules Every morning they bring him from two to three thousand pounds.

Then another blessing is that there are comparatively no mosquitoes here, at least there are none at this season of the year. We are sleeping on cots in the hall of the palace, with open windows, without nets, and they never trouble us.

We were also expecting to find an abundance of fleas here, but thus far they have not troubled us, or at least I have heard no one complain of them.

The heat is oppressive in the sun, but there is no difficulty of keeping cool in the shade, and comfortable also. The evenings are always cool and pleasant, and there is but little dew falling until towards morning.

The general warmth the whole year round may be judged from the fact that, as in all tropical regions, window glass is scarcely known, and never required.—Windows are kept wide open night and day, and such an article as a blanket is hard to be found, even in the best families. The only house in the city that I have yet seen with window glass is the palace now occupied by the members of the press.

Young children, especially of the lower classes, seldom wear any clothing, and can be seen at all hours of the day running about the streets perfectly naked. Infants in their mothers' arms are generally entirely naked, and their mothers are very slenderly clothed.

THE GENERAL HEALTH.

There can be no doubt that Santo Domingo is the healthiest of all the islands of the Caribean Sea. The only disease that I can hear of is an intermittent fever similar to that prevalent in the south, and in its lighter stages resembling our chills and fever. What is called the vomito, or yellow fever, is seldom known, and is not half so frequent as at New Orleans, and not often fatal. The remedy here for these fevers is a tea made of bitter orange, which grows wild in the woods, and they also rub the body with the juice, which is a quick and certain antedote. Our entire party of thirty-two are in excellent health, all of us better than when we left home. Professor Howe left home quite sick, and has gained so much in health and strength that he has already invaded the interior on the back of a ball, and talks of taking an overland journey on the same kind of an animal.

MILK AND HONEY.

This is undoubtedly a land of honey, if not of milk. The latter article appears to be scarce, probably from the want of dairymen, but honey is a drug in the market. In the merchantile sections of the city beeswax is stacked in piles, and whole cargoes of it are sometimes shipped off.

President Baez this morning whilst strolling around the city informed one of the press men that he had a piece of ground ten leagues square that literally swarmed with bees, and every tree had its hive. Some of these hives were in hollow trees, and packed with honey from the ground to the height of forty feet. In some of the ruins here in the city bees are kept, and the logs of hollow plantain trees, are packed with bees and honey from end to end.

THE RUINS OF SANTO DOMINGO.

The ruins of this city are the remains of palaces, monasteries and churches of a high order of architecture, and of the most extensive dimensions. The palace of the son of Columbus, which stands near to the palace which we occupy, must have been a magnificent establishment in its day, almost equal in size to the President's house, surrounded by walls and bastions. The ruins of the Jesuit College, in which was said to have been located a branch of the Spanish Inquisition, covers a space of ground not less than ten acres. The church of the institution still stands, and has been converted into a theatre,'in which a ball is to be given to the Commission and the press by the citizens, on next Tuesday night. A stroll in any direction within its walls indicates that it was once the abode of regal magnificence, and that here the Catholic Church of past aged must have been the ruling power of the island.

THE PEOPLE OF THE CITY.

The members of the Government and their families and the merchantile classes are of the highest order of respectability and intelligence. The ladies and children are seldom seen on the street, but when they are they will compare in richness of dress and neatness with our own wives and children at home. The only time at which they can be seen is going to and from the churches. At night the piano and guitar can be heard in all sections, accompanied by rich voices rendering Spanish airs. The lower classes are like those of other sections of the world, careless in their attire, and their children are either naked or half dressed, as the case may be. They however appear honest if they are not industrious, and all keep something to sell as a mode of living in preference to work. About one day in every week is a church holiday, and on those days no one is allowed to work. If caught doing any manual labor on those days they are promptly arrested and fined.

It is amusing to see the throngs of country people coming into the city on their donkeys, with immense paniers, loaded with fruit, bags of sugar or jugs of rum, for sale. There are a few carts in the town, and two or three buggies, but all transportation outside the city is on horseback or on mules or bulls. They are all fine riders, being, like the old Virginian, almost born on horseback. Their ponies are strong and lithe, with a quick pacing step that is universal. There are few walkists here, except from necessity, and the possession of a pony, with saddle and bridle, is regarded as an evidence of gentility, making its possessor a cavalier, as distinguished from the common herd.

Saturday is called beggars' day, from the fact that they are not allowed to ply their vocation on any other day of the week. This morning they can be seen everywhere, the lame, halt and blind, but they seem to be prohibited from importuning the people. They sit on the corners in silence, and speak to you with their eyes in mute appeal.

THE CHURCHES, BELLS, &C.

The ringing of bells is a feature of city life, the universal clangor breaking forth at stated hours in rapid stroke, whilst the bells of the Cathedral seem to be struck every hour during the day. The bells have a sweet silver tone, and were doubtless brought here from Spain. The old bells of the ruins still hang in the belfies, and are looked upon with reverence.

The Cathedral, which is situated directly on the piaza, is an immense structure, cruciform, as large as the Cathedral of Baltimore, and has about twenty altars in it. Here is preserved the cross first planted on the island by Christopher Columbus, with other relics of the first settlers of the New World. The Cathedral itself was commenced in 1615 and finished in 1645, it having required thirty years for its construction.

The old church of St. Domingo, close by the quarters of the Commissioners, is said to be still more venerable, having been built prior to 1500. It is open at all hours of the day, and worshippers can always be found with their children kneeling at some of the altars. They contain many curious paintings, and the figures surrounding the altars are decorated in the most fantastic dresses and colors.

—Special attention is invited to advertisement of Amos Hillborn & Co., 44 N. Tenth street, Philadelphia. This is an old and reliable Furniture, Mattress, Feather and Bedding Warehouse. Purchasers can buy of them with the most implicit confidence.

The Rising Sun.

This is the title of a new paper started at the enterprising village of that name in the Sixth District of this county, the first number of which was received this week, Mr. Wm. H. Pennington, Editor. We hope this new candidate for literary honors and popular favor will meet with a hearty support. We will deign to be so officious as to volunteer one little grain of advice, as the sum and substance of all our experience, and it is contained in one word, Cash. Don't trust, Rising Sun, or you will never rize to the zenith. If you commence with cash, in advance, you will always get your own. If not your patrons will very generously divide with you and give you the smallest share, very probably.

The American Exchange and Review for February is an excellent number.—"Bolivia and Brogil in the Amazon Valley" contains much information on that region of country, which is soon to be opened to a more extensive commerce with the world than heretofore, by a projected railroad connecting the navigable waters of the Amazon, above and below the Madira rapids. But the paper on Colorado will be of general interest at this time when that new territory is exciting so much interest, as one of the most promising fields of emigration. American History is continued. The Department of Mining and Metallurgy, Money Department, Insurance Department, Railways and Transportation, Patents, Arts, and Science, etc., are all peculiarly interesting to those who desire to keep posted in these popular subjects.

A Musical Treat.—Our musical friends will do well to examine Peters' Musical Monthly, a magazine published by Peters, the New York Music Publisher, at $3 a year. It is issued on the 15th of every month, and contains in each number thirty-six pages of the latest and best music, printed from full-size music plates. The March number contains nearly $5 worth of music in sheet form. Send 30 cents for a sample copy, and you'll most likely become a subscriber. Address, J. L. Peters, 599 Broadway, N. Y. P. O. Box, 5429.

Peace.—Peace has at length been obtained between France and Prussia. The Germans made their entrance to Paris on Wednesday last. No resistance was made. The whole of Alsace, constituting the departments of Haut and Bas Rhin (Upper and Lower Rhine), including the fortified town of Strasburg, is to be retained by Germany, from which it was rested by France in 1648. Metz, in Lorraine, also will remain in the possession of Germany. The sum of $1,000,000,000 is to be paid in three years; and a number of French fortresses are to be garrisoned by German soldiers, at the expense of France, until the whole amount has been handed over to Prusssia.

Peninsular and State Items.

DELAWARE.

It has been decided to tear down Asbury M. E. Church, Wilmington, and erect a handsome new edifice, 65 by 112 feet.

Three hundred and seventy new buildings were erected in that city in 1870, at a cost of $765,300. This is an increase over any previous year.

The Indian Queen hotel, in Wilmington, has been sold to a Savings Bank for $36,000.

Wm. B. Wiggins, formerly a well-known Conveyancer and Deputy Pension Agent, in the above city, and who left there rather mysteriously, a few months since, leaving a bad record behind, in connection with his business, was recently arrested, by the U. S. authorities, in Monroe county, West Va., taken to Wilmington, and held to bail in the sum of $5,000, for his appearance at Court.

St. Paul's Roman Catholic Church, Wilmington, has just put in a $3,000 organ—the largest in the State.

On the 20th ult., Outten D. Jester, a druggist at Delaware City, was almost instantly killed by the accidental discharge of his gun.

Hon. P. F. Causey, ex-Governor of Delaware, died at his residence, in Milford, on the 18th ult., aged 70 years.

The store house occupied by John Blizzard at Carey's X Roads in Sussex, was destroyed by fire recently. Every thing destroyed—no insurance.

Rev. John T. Gracey will not return to India.

KENT.

The mailcarrier from Chestertown to Kennedysville lost the mail bags, in which were several registered letters, last week, but did not look for them, because he had two passengers who wished to meet the train. The mail was afterwards recovered.

Two colored men fell from the gravel train on the Kent road below Kennedyville, last week, and were both injured, one having his leg broken, and the other his back, and it is thought his spine.

QUEEN ANNE'S.

The 5th and 6th Divisions (Queen Anne's and Kent counties) of the 1st Collection District of Maryland, have been consolidated, and will hereafter be known as the 5th Division, and be under the charge of the Assistant Assessor of Queen Anne's county.

Congress has appropriated $5,000 for the purpose of cleaning out Queenstown Creek.

CAROLINE.

A two-story frame dwelling, in Denton, owened by Robert A. Nicols, was destroyed by fire recently. Loss estimated at $3,000, on which there was insurance in the Cecil Company, of $1,800.

DORCHESTER.

Two weeks since, a little son of Jacob Corsey, residing in Straight District, had his clothes take fire, from burning grass and was burned so badly that he died in a few hours.

WICOMICO.

Engineers have been surveying and sounding the river at Salisbury, and if they report favorably, the chanel will be widened and deepened.

A new paper is to be started in Salisbury, called The Bachelor. It will not "take" with—the ladies, and particularly old maids,

Irish potatoes are so scarce in Wicomico, that farmers will have to send to the city for seed.

During a heavy wind storm, on the 17th ult., the steeple of the M. P. Church, in Salisbury, was blown down.

Shad and herring made their appearance in Saulisbury last week.

HARFORD.

The stock-holders of the Bel Air Building Association are not in want of money; and consequently, the amount of the installments paid in for the last few months is lying useless in the treasury. The directors propose to loan it to outsiders.

A horse, bridle and saddle were stolen from Richard Kerby, residing near Abington, last week, by a negro named James Washington, who had been living in the neighborhood. The property was recovered and thief arrested in Baltimore, and brought back to Harford.

☞If you want to be in a good humor all the week, get your washing nicely done by 10 o'clock Monday morning and have the clothes ironed and put away before night. Now if you don't know how to do this, just inquire at Moore & Bro., who manufacture that famous "Wilmington City Soap." Ask your grocer for it.

Where is It?—We have heard a man ask where Independence Hall is, but we have never yet met one who did not know that the great Oak Hall Clothing House of Wanamaker & Brown is at the southeast corner of Sixth and Market streets, Phila.

☞We would call the public attention to the justly celebrated "Wilmington City Soap," manufactured by Moore & Bro.—It works like magic! and no good housekeeper who has once used it, will be without it.

—Several communications this week are unavoidably laid over for want of room. Correspondents would oblige us by sending in their letters for publication as early in the week as possible.

LETTER FROM OMAHA.

Omaha, Neb., Feb. 24, 1871.

Dear Whig:—I am glad to see, by your last week's paper, that some of your citizens were about to organize a colony to one of the Territories. This is the right step in the right direction, and you are to engraft into your by-laws one of the most praiseworthy features—no grog sellers to accompany the expedition. Add another amendment to the law—no drinker of the ardent shall be a member, and my word for it, your colony will never regret it; for if you can find a spot, on what is termed this green earth, where the liquid fire is not to be had, I don't know where it is situated, but would like to.*

On this subject, I was recently in conversation with an intelligent mountaineer, who has been connected with some such organizations, and he is favorable to small companies—not to exceed fifty in number.—Where the companies are too large, they are sure to disagree and disband, which is often attended with disastrous consequences

You will find a great advantage from having all trades and professions. The colony can soon be self-sustaining, and wield a considerable influence for good.

I hope your colonists will pardon me for a few gratuitous suggestions: If mining for gold and silver is one of the principal objects of the colony, we might suggest Montana or Colorado. If for coal, or iron, or copper, then Wyoming. But if for agricultural pursuits, we would first recommend Nebraska, as superior; the land north of the Platte River being sufficiently high and rolling for any purpose, and for raising stock has no superior, while the land south of the Platte is equally good for grazing and for most kinds of grain, besides being more level, but not so convenient to railroad communication. The Union Pacific Railroad runs through this State over 300 miles, most of which land is superior for all agricultural pursuits. The south side of the Platte will soon be penetrated with railroads sufficient for transportation, &c.

Some portions of Colorado may do for agricultural pursuits, without irrigation, but we fear many portions will require it, in order to succeed in producing good crops. In regard to health, Colorado has no superior. So, also, with regard to Montana and Wyoming. Apart from the cold in the latter, Dakota is equally desirable in this respect, and for lumber and timber, has the advantage of the former, while some portions of Wyoming produce considerable pine timber, at least.

There are many arguments in favor of Nebraska for colonists. It is not liable to be troubled with Indian depredations to the same extent of the other less inhabited Territories, besides the facilities for obtaining all things necessary for comfortable living, as your colonists have been accustomed to, the deprivation of which would always be a source of discomfort to the colony. Lumber and building materials generally are attainable at much less cost beside a ready market for all the products of the colony.

Should your colonists desire or determine to go still further, and reach Oregon or Washington Territories, there are some portions of both which produce superior grain—wheat weighing 70 lbs., in some instances, and fruit of a very superior quality. The same may be said of California and Nevada, with regard to grain and fruit, as well as some portions of Idaho.

But after all, we adopt the opinion of one of your most intimate friends, a member of the Bar, in your town, that Nebraska is good enough for me, and I think could your colonists visit all the foregoing Territories and States, they would be of the same opinion.

There is much excitement, now, over the silver mines of Utah, but we are of the same opinion of their President Young,—that nine-tenths of those who engage in mining loose more than they make; and consequently he counsels his people to let the mines alone and turn their attention to agriculture and manufacturing;—good, wholesome advice, corroborated by thousands who have been engaged in mining in California and Nevada, as well as Wyoming and other points. The mining of coal and iron in Wyoming is destined to be a very successful and paying business. The mining of coal is now paying very handsomely.

The Union Pacific Railroad has thousands of acres of land yet for sale in Nebraska, Wyoming and Utah. I will send you, for the information of your colonists, a catalogue of their lands; any information in regard to their lands will be furnished by Commissioner Davis, on application, who can offer many valuable suggestions to colonists, having had much experience in the sale of western lands.

I suppose your colonists are aware they can each homestead 80 acres, on any of the public lands, at a cost of $14, when they can buy, attached to it, any number of acres they desire, additional.

I hope you will pardon the liberty I have taken unsolicited, and be assured I am ever

Yours, sincerely, Occasional.

LETTER FROM PHILADELPHIA.

Philadelphia, Feb. 27th, 1871.

Mr. Editor:—Having taken to the road again for a livelihood, I will give the jottings of a highwayman.

Leaving Smyrna in the distance Saturday morning we went for this city. I noticed little to interest till we arrived at Wilmington, and its bustling enterprise caused me almost to wish I was president of a pea-nut stand, or something else in the provision way, as that line seems active everywhere when all else is at a dead lock, the contentment shining out respondently on the face of the happy vender, with the thermometer low, is evidence, positive, that he's a contented scorcher in all cases under all circumstances.

Twelve M. got to the city of mud-covered streets, and long-faced mutton-chopped beards, wherein dwelleth disconsolated hearts in consequence of famine, present and more to come. Trade was never known so dull, the weather chilly, and numbers of coal miners starving, contractors and railroads stubborn, people here suffering intensely in consequence of the fight going on between labor and capital.—Indeed some think it will be the dullest season for trade, since the war. Take from Philadelphia the trade of the coal and iron districts and she is paralized for the time. The cessation of several months in coal works is telling fearfully on the iron works, they are closing for want of coal, hence Philadelphians are justly gloomy. Should an adjustment not be brought about early, the Spring trade will not reach 50 per cent of general average of business of previous years; having no Southern, they have left little excepting Western patronage, which will be below low water mark in consequence of low prices of grain and produce generally, on which they mainly depend.

Yours truly, Observer.

"Tired Nature's Sweet Restorer, Balmy Sleep." But there are times when this "Renewer of Strength" is denied us, times when our minds and bodies have been so over-worked and are so worn out that we "woo the drowsy god in vain." The Peruvian Syrup (an Iron Tonic,) renews our strength and makes our rest sweet and refreshing.

☞The "Wilmington City Soap" challenges the world to beat it. It is a pure, harmless, beautiful and effective article, warrented to do all claimed for it. The whole country is beginning to appreciate its superiority. Moore & Bro., manufacturers.
