On the 9th of March he was attending to his onicial duties, ten miles from Aberdeen. That night, about 10 o'clock, after he had retired to rest, a party of disguised men, numbering, he thinks, at least one hundred and twenty-live, took him out of bed and carried him to the woods. Here he was stripped of coat and vest, and asked to promise that he would leave the country within ten days and never return. This he refused to do. They then took of a stirrup-strap, and one man gave him ten lashes with it on the back, and at every five or ten blows a fresh hand took the strap, and each time he was asked to promise. five or ten blows a fresh hand took the strap, and cach time he was asked to promise to leave the country. After about seventy strokes, he was told that if he did not leave within ten days they would take his life, if they had to do it in his office at Jackson. Knowing from what had transpired in that locality before that they would not their threat time avenuation he aboved.

And this is, no doubt, wisely ordered so, put their threat into execution, he obeyed the order as soon as he was able to move. The only offence they charged upon Col.

The only offence they charged upon Col. Huggins was that he was "collecting money to support a d—d Radical Government, and they would submit to no laws except of their own making."

The attacking party was not made up of drunken loafers, but undoubtedly of the so-called most respectable citizens.

They were all mounted and uniformed in dress and masks; one of the party, when he refused to promise to leave, applied to him some harsh epithet, when the captain of the band ordered him to desist; that "Colonel Huggins was a gentleman, and we can better comprehend this state of affairs by shifting the scene from the bayous and swamps of Mississippi or the Carolinas, to our own county. We will suppose that in place of Col. Huggins, we substitute some one of the United States substitute some one of the United States officers transacting the same business that Col. Huggins was engaged in; or, if you please, to tching a school of colored children; or giving his opinions of political measures and men in office, as we Cecil countians are in the habit of doing, without "fear, favor, or affection," on either the Republicae or Democrat side—it doesn't matter, a man has a right to speak his sentiments of public men and measures, when and where he pleases, without molestation or intimidation. But for any of these offenses, which numbers of us commit daily, suppose we were startled by the news, some morning, that Mr. —, had been taken from his bed, the night before, by a party of armed men in masks, taken to the woods, and there hung to a limb, or shot, or perhaps given 70 lashes, and threatened with death if he did not leave the State by a given time. By shifting the scenes that are being enacted in those States, and imagining them perpetrated in our midst, we may in some measure comprehend the semi-barbarous condition of the ignorant brutality which darkens the land and checks progress and immigration. One such outrage, as detailed at the head of this article, would throw this whole community into a state of the most intense excitement, and the perpetrators would be hunted down and brought to justice with one unanimous approval. But such moral obliquity darkens the civilization of many parts of the late slave States, that those outrages, when committed in the interest of a political party, as they invariably are by the Kuklux Klans, that public sentiment winks at them, and the civil power is regarded with fit is guaranted to the customer without contempt by those secret assassins. Noth- rendering it necessary for him even to visit ing but the strong arm of Federal power seems competent to restrain outrages in that region, till education has raised public opinion and morals to a point capable of self-government.

unavoidably crowded out last week. The "Letter from Georgia" possesses more than usual interest at this time, when Southern outrages have assumed the proportions of insurrection in many parts of the Southern States. The writer's opinion that no organized bands of Kuklux exists, Morgenstein, a magnificent full page cut that no organized bands of Kukiux exists, is unfortunately set aside by too strong and ororwhelming evidence to the contrary to be regarded as problematical any longer.

The "PAIN KHLER" may justly be styled the great medicine of the world, for there is no region of the globe into which it has not found its way, and been largely used and highly prized. Moreover, there is no clime to which it has not proved to be well adapted for the cure of a considerable variety of diseases; it is a spessly and safe remedy for burns, scalds, cuts, bruises, wounds and various other injuries, as well as for dyrentery, diarrhes and lowed complaints generally, it is admirably suited for every race of men on the face of the globe.

It is a very significant fact, that notwithstanding the long period of years that the "Pain Killer" has leven before the world, it has never lost one whit of its popularity, but, on the contrary, the call for it has steedily increased from its first discovery, and at no previous time has the demand for it been so great, or the quantity made been so large, as it is to-day.

Another significant fact is, that nowhere has the Pain Killer were been in higher reputs, or been more generally used by families and individuals, than it has been here at home, where it was first discovered and introduced—That the Pain Killer will continue to be, what we have styled it, the adventuer of the providence Advertiser.
