We Should Raise More Calves.

The profit from the cows in butter and The extensive use of these watches for the last fifteen cars by Railway Conductors. Engineers and Express years by Railway Conductors, Engineers and Express-men, the most exacting of watch wearers, has thoroughly demonstrated the strength, steadiness, durability and demonstrated the strength, stradiness, durability and and the stomach or rennet 25 cents, accuracy of the Waltham Watch. To satisfy that class In view of the high price of all kinds of cattle for the past few years something should be done to prevent this annual slaughter.

The remedy which I would suggest, is of being offered up as holocaust on the altar of mammon; for this and nothing else it is. Dairymen have an idea that the raising of young stock will interfere with butter making.

Let us consider whether we cannot recon-those who buy any other watch merely pay from 25 to 50 per cent, more for their watches than is necessary.

These time-pieces combine every improvement that a long experience has proved of real practical use. Have time-pieces continue to be produced, a stock of young cattle may at the same time be coming on, in which there making originating in this country or in Europe, only those were finally adopted which severe testing by the most skilfal artizans in our works, and long use on the part of the public, demonstrated to be essential to correct and enduring time keeping.

Among the many improvements we would particularize:

The invention and use of a centre-pinion of pseuliar construction, to prevent damage to the train by the treak age of main-prings, is original with the American Watch Company, who having had the refusal of all other constructions, adopted Forg's patent pinion as being the best and faultles.

Hardened and tempered hair-prings, now universally admitted by Watchmakers to be the best, are used in grade of Waltham Watches.

All Waltham Watches have dust-proof caps, protecttory to me) is as follows: As soon as I commence making cheese every day, I dip off sufficient whey for the night's feeding as soon as it separates from the curd, and heat it boiling hot; then having wet up in a small quantity of whey or water the amount of oil meal I wish to feed at night, put it into a tub or cask (white oak or ash is best,) and turn on the boiling whey. This will cook the oil-meal sufficiently, and at the same time prevent the whey from souring, even during the most unfavorable weather, and if covered up will be warm enough to feed at night when the weather is cool, and feed at night when the weather is cool, and uncovered will be about the right temperature (90 degrees) when the weather is warm. For the morning's feed I use whey alone, and take it from the vat as soon as whey gets up to about 90° which it soon does, in the process of cooking the cheese. If oilmeal is used with skim milk to feed calves, it should be cocked by turning upon it sufmeal is used with skim milk to feed calves, it should be cooked by turning upon it sufficient boiling water to cook it thoroughly, but in either case it is necessary to first wet the meal, to prevent its lumping. Oil meal, or what is the same thing, oil cakes ground fine, is the best substitute for the fatty matter taken from the milk in the manufacture of butter and cheese that I have found, and calves fed upon it, cooked and fed as above directed, will do well without any new milk.

Horses .- A few carrots with their grain will aid digestion and appetite and improve their coats. Exercise daily. Train colts so that no breaking will be needed, and that none of spirit or of harness result.—

Keep working and carriage horses sharp shod, well groomed and blanketed when standing out, or in cold stables after exercise. Ventilate stables, and abolish high-feeding racks.

Cons.—Dry off four to six weeks before calving. Give generous feed of hay and roots, but not much grain. Cut hay or straw, steamed, and a little bran or meal added, is profitable. Keep the skin healthy by frequent carding and brushing. Those about to calve should be turned loose into separate, roomy stalls. Watch their time, the give assistance if needed but do not separate, roomy stalls. Watch their time, to give assistance, if needed, but do not interfere, unless absolutely necessary, and then use gentle means. Allow the calf to have the milk for four or five days. The effect of the first milk is medicinal and essential to the health of the young animal. After calving, let the cow alone; she will lie down awhile, and then get up and begin to eat. Then offer her a warm bran mash, made with scalding water, but allowed to cool to about blood heat. Keep her upon her usual feed, with the addition allowed to cool to about blood heat. Keep her upon her usual feed, with the addition of roots, to promote the flow of milk.

Sheep ought to have free, open yards or a more extensive range, for exercise and fresh air are essential to their health.— Shelters must be well ventilated, not crowded, and the sheep turned out daily except in severe storms. Pregnant ewes should have little grain, but roots with hay.— Those yeaning early will need separate, clean, not over-littered apartments, and careful attention, that the lambs be not fatally chilled.

Suine.—Allow breeding sows, near farrowing, potatoes or other succulent food, with bran or boiled corn-meal. Give them clean, well littered sties, but not straw enough to endanger the young by covering them so that the sow will lie upon them.— Poles, ten inches above the floor, and about eight inches out from the sides, all around the pen, will prove a great safeguard.

Implements.—Have all in repair and readiness for spring work. In the end, buying is cheaper than borrowing. Consult advertisements, send for catalogues and circulars for information about new implements, and always get the best.—Agriculturist.

The Essex Hog.

The improved Essex is considered one of their most valuable breeds by English breeders. It was originated by Lord Western, of Essexshire, England and was derived from the native logs of the Shire, crossed with the neapolitan, the latter of which they closely resemble both in form and color, but are larger and have more symmetry of form are much hardier and have better constitutions. They have been quite extensively bred and deceminated by W. Fisher Hobbs of England, who had unusual facilities for obtaining very choice animals facilities for obtaining very choice animals on which he made considerable improve-stephens in his book of the farm, says of them: As to the breed which shows the greatest disposition to fatten, together with a due proportion of lean, I never saw one equal to that which was originated by Lord Western, of Essex: they are exceedingly gentle, indisposed to travel far, could attain if kept long, great weight, and are so compact in form, small of bone and offal, and they invairiably yield greater weight of pork then was judged before being slaughtered, and more delicious ham was never cured than they afford.

In regard to a color it might be observed that in their case it is not even "skin deep," being entirely confined to the outer or scurf skin and hair, and when dressed by the ordinary method of scalding and scraping are quite white. The meat is of superior quality, the fat being firm, the lean white, fine grained and rich in flavor.

These animals are quite free from cutaneous diseases as like the Berkshires; they have a thick tenacious scurf skin which protects them, however much they may be overseed to sun, storms, mud. &c. And as Stephens in his book of the farm, says of protects them, however much they may be exposed to sun, storms, mud, &c. And as compared with the Suffolks, they attain rather more weight at a year old, are stronger in the bone, and leaner in the ham.—American Stock Journal.

is natural Vitality and Color. A dressing which is at once agreeable, healthy, and effectual for preserving the hair. Faded or gray hair is soon restored to its original color with the gloss and freshness of youth. Thin hair is thickened, falling hair checked, and baldness often, though not always, cured by its use. Nothing can restore the hair where the follicles are destroyed, or the glands atrophied and decayed. But such as remain can be saved for usefulness by this application. Instead of fouling the hair with a pasty sedi-The undersigned having assumed the entire control of his Mill, takes this method of informing the public that e is now prepared with the best of machinery and the est mechanics to furnish ment, it will keep it clean and vigorous. Its occasional use will prevent the hair from turning gray or falling off, and consequently prevent baldness. Free from those deleterious substances which nake some preparations dangerous and injurious to the hair, the Vigor can only benefit but not harm it. If wanted Mouldings of all Kinds & Patterns. merely for a

HAIR DRESSING, nothing else can be found so desirable Containing neither oil nor dye, it does not soil white cambric, and yet lasts long on the hair, giving it a rich glossy lustre and a grateful perfume. Prepared by Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., PRACTICAL AND ANALYTICAL CHEMISTS, LOWELL, MASS.

RENOVATE YOUR FEATHERS,

EAVE FOR BALTIMORE-

And remore a most prevalent cause of disease. The New Machine, patented September 24th, 1867, by O. C. Monroe, will most effectually accomplish this, without the least possible injury to the Feathers. The subscriber offers to the citizens of CECHTON nel vicinity a rare chance to avail themselves of the inpuralleled benefits of this unrivated the most successful patent of the kind ever efford to the public. And I venture the prediction that it never will be excelled, for it proves to be exactly what all conditions and qualities of Feathers, from cutticly new to old and nouth worn, need to render them as perfect as age, quality and condition will adult of their being The Cleansing is done entirely by the action of Steam & Vaporized

FEATHER Dressing & Renovating Machine,

Carbolic Acid; giving the appearance and essential qualities of NEW FEATHERS, and relieving them from all liability to moth by the removal of all gammy and glutinous mat-ter from the quill. Our facilities are such that by short notice we can take and return look the same day, well dressed, ready for Two Dollars per Bed. Physicians and scientific men in hundreds of town broughout the United States, who have had Feather Beansed by this process, have given it the very highes recommendations.
