PROPRIETOR.

The hay crop, in point of value, is seems absurd to me. It is this: considered second to no other grown in the United States, and yet in some parts think it improves it." There is a thick CASH STORE, the United States, and yet in some parts of the country where stock live out of doors and shift for themselves all wind doors and shift for themselves all wind ter, this crop is not appreciated. My object, however, is to say something to the people residing where it is appressible to have even this sort it is not desirable to have even this sort.

SHIRTS, DRAWERS, The great improvement in harvesting as having bottled fruit without any mold machinery at the present time makes whatever. I think the reason white the hay crop very profitable. The mold forms, is, that the lid of the can is BOOTS and SHOES, farmer cuts his grass by horse power not applied soon enough, and many and puts it into his barn by horse power. ladies consider this as part of the prois the great stock food of the country, that she always waited three or four and those who wish to grow more stock must first contrive to grow more grass.
To do this they must make their land better—must till it better. Where they now grow one ton to the acre, they must first correct the grant land better are always bubbles of air that have to come up." "Oh, fellow acret are grant three tons of cured the state of air that have to come up." "Oh, fellow acret are grant land and those who will be supported that have to come up." I invite all to call and examine my stock, as I am determined to sell cheaper than the cheapest.

we to enrich our land to produce such little care will obviate the difficulty. Well, how is this to be done? In the first place put in underdrains of tile two feet deep and two rods apart, leading towards the lowest point. This will loak off the surplus water which keeps the ground cold so late in the spring of the ground cold so late in the spring of the ground cold so late in the spring of the ground cold so late in the spring of the ground cold so late in the spring of the ground cold so late in the spring of the ground cold so late in the spring of the ground cold so late in the spring of the ground cold so late in the spring of the ground cold so late in the spring of the source that the fruit perfectly so late in the spring of the source that the fruit perfectly so late in the spring of the source that the fruit perfectly so late in the spring of the source that the fruit perfectly so late is the same of the source that the fruit perfectly so late is the source that the fruit perfectly so late is the same of the source that the fruit perfectly so late is the same of the source that the fruit perfectly so late is the same of the source that the fruit perfectly so late is the same of the source that the fruit perfectly so late is the same of the source that the fruit perfectly so late is the same of the source that the fruit perfectly so late is the same of the source that the same of the s the year, then plew deep so as to have quick about putting on the cover, and an outlet for the roots of grass and other letting the cover alone, until you want creps. In this way the land will ed this lesson after her peaches had all soon be able to grow three tons of hay fermented.) It is not necessary to bury to the acre, and corn and wheat in pro- the bottles in the earth, or to have a try, but as a general rule has not been it will keep almost anywhere, but by successful. One cause of this failure is, the stove; if you don't no it right, and that our soil is not worked deep enough, let in the air with a knife, or some other and another probably is, that our climate is too dry for parsnips and other roots that are chiefly composed of water. In the eastern and some of the midplace, but it will succumb to the atmosdle States, the great question with the farmer is how to increase the capacity of his soil. He cannot compete with western and southwestern farmers in growing wheat, which was formerly the crop that he depended on to put money in his purse. He must now turn his attention to milk, butter, cheese, vegetables, fruits and other gardening productions to feed the population of our great eastern cities, and to do this he must improve the capacity of his land, as above suggested. Make it produce three tons of hay to the acre, this will give him more milk, butter and cheese, more money with less labor. Let me BOOTS AND SHOES, urge again in conclusion, that he begin at the foundation, by under-draining with tile. This he will have to do but once, for if well done, it will last for

MRS. SMITH .- I find that cabbage, cauliflower, and all leaves used as greens, if boiled in hard water, preserve their color better than if the water is soft. Unless they are very young and tender, their flavor will be much improved if, when half cooked, they are taken into a colander, cold water poured over them, and then placed in a fresh pot of boiling water with some salt, and boiled briskly until they are done. Mrs. Fisk.—Asparagus, I prepare in this manner: Cut it in pieces, and boil until nearly done in salt and water, then drain; put into a stew-pan flour and butter, stir them together, and moisten with a spoonful or two of milk or veal gravy; into this work the yolk of an egg and a little cream; put in the asparagus, and boil all together two or three Always on hand and for sale Cheap minutes: serve on buttered toast.

MRS. BLAND.—Lettuce should be freshly gathered and placed for an hour in cold water, then carefully picked and trimmed. The water should all be drained off or absorbed by a clean napkin. Then cut it fine, pouring over it two or three tablespoonfuls of strong vinegar, and mixing with it a teaspoonful of sugar. In another plate, rub together, with a wooden spoon, a table-spoonful of sweet-oil, the same of made nustard, the yolks of two hard-boiled eggs, a little salt and pepper. Then mix this with the prepared lettuce, tasting it, and adding more of whatever ingredient is lacking. Pepper-grass is quite an addition to this dish. The rings, and used to garnish the dish.

I would like the ladies to try the English mode of serving them .-They are not so apt to cause indigestion when prepared in this way as when cut up raw in vinegar. Cut them in thin slices, lengthwise, and soak them in vinegar and salt for half an hour.— Dry them in a clean towel, and fry in butter, a very light brown. To the butter in which they were fried, add a little flour, the yolk of an egg, and some meat gravy; mix all well together, pour over the cucumbers, and serve.

Mrs. Lester.—We shall soon have new potatoes, and as they are not very healthful, being eaten frequently before they are fully ripe for the table, I suggest that they be first boiled, then mashed, mixed with the yolk of an egg, salt, milk, and butter, and baked half an hour. In cooking potatoes, there cannot be too much promptness in pour-ing off the water from them the minute (SUCCESSORS TO WM. McCRERY,) they are done. A water-logged potato is unpalatable, and not fit to be taken into the stomach. Hints on Canning Fruit.

The season when fruit will be plenty is fast approaching, and those house keepers who have seen how much their canned fruit was enjoyed the last winter, will be making calculations to put up a large supply the present summer. There is nothing healthier, and really, hardly anything cheaper, than canned fruit. It may seem unnecessary to those who are already adepts at the art, to write anything on this subject; but I can assure such, that there are hundreds of hushels of fruit spoiled every year.

A lady not long since was telling me that last fall she put up three baskets of as handsome peaches as were ever gathered, and every bottle was spoiled. I constantly hear the ladies talking about their spoiled fruit. There is an other remark I often hear, and which seems absurd to me. It is this:

For all the purposes of a Laxative Medicine.

For all the purposes of a Laxative Modicine.

Perhaps no one medicine is so universally required by everyloody as a cathartic, nor was ever any hefore so universally adopted into use, in every country and among all classes, as this mild but efficient purgative Pill. The obvious reasonis, that tit is a more reliable and far more effective that it never fails through any fault or neglect of its composition. We have thousands upon thousands of certificates of their remarkable cures of the following complaints, but such cures are known in every neighboring, and we need not publish them. Adapted to all ages and conditions in all climates; containing neither calomel or any deleterious drug, they may be taken with safety by anybody. Their sugar coating preserves them ever fresh and makes them pleasant to take, while being purely vegetable no harm can arise from their use in any quantity.

They operate by their powerful influence on the internal viscera to purify the blood and stimulate it into healthy action—remove the obstructions of the stomach, bloweds, liver, and other organs of the body, restoring their irregular action to health, and by correcting, wherever they exist, such derangements as are the first origin of disease.

Minute directions are given in the wrapper on the box, for the following complaints, which these Pills rapidly cure:— For Byspepsia or Indigestion, Listless—should be taken moderately to stimulate the stomach had restore its healthy tone and action.

For Liver Complaint and its various symptoms, Billious Hesdache, siek Headache, Junadice or Green Sickness, Bilious Colle and Billious Fevere, they should be taken moderately to stimulate the stomach of the Headache, siek Headache, Stew H

the system. With such change those complaints disappear.
For Bropey and Bropsical Swellings they should be taken in large and frequent doses to produce the effect of a drastie purge.
For Suppression a large dose should be taken at produces the desired effect by sympathy.
As a Disney Pill, take one or two Pills to promove digestion and relieve the stomach.
An occasional dose stimulates the stomach and bewels into healthy action, restores the appetite, and invigorates the system. Hence it is often advantageous where no serious derangement exists. One who feels tolerably well, often finds that adoct these Pills makes him feel decliedly better, from their cleansing and renovating effect on the digestive annuarius.
