The Work before the Republican Party. Now that the candidates of both parties are placed in the field, the real work of the campaign should begin in carnest at once, every man holding Republican sentiments, and who condemes the course of the Democratic party in its catering to the lowest classes and basest passions of humanity, the battle had raged for the past few weeks. should be seen and talked to, and urged to do his duty as a citizen of the republic who wishes his posterity to inherit the blessings numbers who have manifested a lukewarmthe skillful devices of the Democrats to aid the men to place and power, who did their worst to weaken the hands of the Administration during the war and prevent supplies and reinforcements being sent forward to the army, on which his life and freedom from a loathsome bondage in rebel prisonpens depended. The new Jail and Court House, it is true. will cost the county, it is reputed, when finished, $65,000, in place of $36,000, which P. C. Strickland offered to give bonds to build it for; and when the Commissioners determined to build it in the manner they at last adopted, and Mr. Strickland offered to superintend the work for $1,500, it was thought advisable to give the job to a good partisan, at five per cent commission, who will receive for his supervision over $3,000: and although a good many appropriations were doubtless kept back which should have gone into the levy of the present year. so as to make the expenditures have a diminishing tendency-a little innecent trick that all the Boards resort to-yet we hold that the present Board had a reasonable excuse for these things. The Court House being occupled by the Court, and the Odd Fellows' Hall engaged for the panorama, the dernier resort for a place to meet was the vacant store-room in the Hall.

The delegates got together about 12 oclock, and effected an organization by the selection of Mr. Wm. Lindsey, of Chesapeake City, as President, and Mr. Milton Young Kidd for Secretary. The organization completed, the delegates adjourned for dinner and something to drink.

The "Last of the Pequods" is an interesting account (with a fine portrait engraving) of Eunice Mahee, the last of a powerful New England tribe of Indians, by Benson J. Lossing. In "Water, its Ways and Uses," we have a piece of popular science, set off by appropriate illustrations. The most important essay in the number, however, is Mr. Fancher's "Was Adam the First Man?" It is here contended that the Mosaic record itself furnishes "strong intimations that other nations than the descendants of Adam dwelt on the earth." "Perhaps," says the writer, "the conceived theories of what revelation teaches will meet with disastrous overthrow; but whon readjusted upon correct principles, there will be no antagonism with revelations." The Districts were all called for a candidate for Surveyor, but no names were presented, and it was finally referred to the Central Committee to look up a candidate for the office.

The labors of the Convention being finished, Groome was called on for a speech, and mounting a desk, he accepted the nomination with the customary compliment of thanks, and proceeded to give a short creed of his prospective political future. And first he planted himself on the platform of Toombs and Stephens, of Georgia, and announced his opposition to the Fifteenth Amendment and the mode of its adoption—he voted in favor of negro testimony once upon a time in the Legislature, which, by the way, was a very wide departure for expense to make it he best magazine in the career of the convenience of the platform of the convenience of the convenience of the other leading magazines, $4 per year, and the publishers premise to spare no pains in the career of the publishers premise to spare no pains in the career of the publishers premise to spare no pains in the career of the publishers premise to spare no pains in the career of the publishers premise to spare no pains in the career of the publishers premise to spare no pains in the career of the publishers premise to spare no pains in the career of the publishers premise to spare no pains in the career of the publishers premise to spare no pains in the career of the publishers premise to spare no pains in the career of the publishers premise to spare no pains in the career of the publishers premise to spare no pains in the career of the publishers premise to spare no pains in the career of the publishers premise to spare no pains in the career of the publishers premise to spare no pains in the career of the publishers premise to spare no pains in the career of the publishers premise to spare no pains in the career of the publishers premise to spare no pains in the career of the publi

One day one of his neighbors called to see what was going on. When he (the farmer) saw he was caught in his fun exclaimed: "Ha! Mr. M., there is not much money in farming but a great deal of amusement." Just so with "Sassy Fras, Esq.," it is not his regard for truth and sobriety he writes, but the amusement

The Cause and Cure of Consumption. The primary cause of Consumption is deraugement of the digestive organs. This derangement produce deficient nutrition and assimilation. By assimilation mean that process by which the nutriment of the fosconverted into blood, and thence into the solids of the the slightest predisposition to pulmonary disease, or if they take cold, will be very liable to have Consumption of the Lungs in some of its forms; and I hold that it will be impossible to cure any case of Consumption without first restoring a good digestion and healthy minilation. The very first thing to be done is t cleanse the atomach and bowels from all diseased mucus and slime, which is clogging these organs so that they cannot perform their functions, and then rouse up and

WM. J. JONES. Syrup, that all ulcers and cavities are healed up sound, and my patient is cured.

The essential thing to be done in curing Consumption to get up a good appetite and a good digration, so that the body will grow in flesh and get strong. If a person has diseased lungs,—a cavity or abovess there,—the cavity cannot heal, the matter caunot ripen, so long as the system is below par. What is necessary to cure is a new order of things,—a good appetite, a good nutrition, the body tog grow in flesh and get fat; then Nature is helped, the cavities will heal, the matter will ripen and be thrown off in large quantities, and the person reguln health and strength. This is the true and only plan to cure Consumption, and if a person is very bad, if the lungs are not entirely destroyed, or even if one lung is entirely gone, if there is enough vitality left in the other to heal up, there is hope.

I have seen many persons curred with only one sound lung, live and enjoy life to a goad old age. This is what Schenck's Medicines will do to cure Consumption. They will clean out the stomach, sweeten and strengthen it, get up a good digestion, and give Natice it easists that in the lungs, whatever the form may be.

It is important that while using Scheck's Medicines, care should be exercised not to take cold; keep in-doors in cold and damp weather; avoid in light air, and take out-door exercise only in a genial and warm sunshine. I wish it distinctly understood that when I recommend a patient to be exertised in regard to taking cold, white using my Medicines. Ids os for a peical reason. A man who has but partially recovered from the effects of a lead cold is far more liable to a relapse than one who has been entirely cured; and it is precisely the same in regard to Consumption. So long as the lungs are not perfectly healed, just so long is there imminent danger of a full return of the disease. Hence it is that I as atrenuously caustion pulmonary patients against exposing themselves on an autophere that it not genial and pleasant. Confir Elkton, Sept. 30, 1871-te J. T. McCULLOUGH, Trustees.

152 ACRES, MORE or LESS, with a good proportion of Weedland and Meadow, well adapted to grazing and dairy purposes, and the upland is unampassed for fertility.

The improvements consist of a large Roughiston of the Meadow of t OBITUARY.—Died, near Principle Furnace, on the 12th of September, of Congestive Fever, after four days of suffering, IRNA WILSON, daughter of Wm. T. and Sarah A. Wilson, which was a partie of Wm. T. and Sarah A. Wilson was a called any 2 non-tended and 21 days.

In the was a suffer, which was a pattern for a more interesting young error, than the subject of this notice. In all the walks of life, she was a pattern for those of her ago to follow. As a daughter, she was dutifal and obliging—so much so that her place cannot be titled. As a sister, she was watchful and affectionate; being the eldest of the family, she was considered the leader, and by her amilable disposition and matronly desertment, she sided in monding the characters of the younger members of the family. As a scholar, both in common and Sabbath school, she was always attentive, moster and dignified; beight and intelligent, she had acquired a better education than most young ladies of her age ever obtain. Her pernet, brothers, sisters and the community at large, have sustained an irreparable hose. But while we mourn her unitnely end, we have the consolation of knowing that our loss is her gain, for she has entered upon that state of rest, where sorrow can never enter. She calls on her parents and surviving friends to come and view her gilltering crown and join with her in singing the song of the Redeemed from earth, in that land of Eternal Rest. N. B.—All the creditors of the said Abner Kirk are hereby positive to file their claims, with the proper youthers attached, with the Circle of the Circuit Cour-for Cecil county, within four months from the day o sale.

THE AMERICAN WASHER! PRICE, $5.50. The American Washer Saves Money,

Time and Drudgery. Pite Patique of Washing Day no Longer Dreaded, but Economy, Efficiency, and Clean Clothing Stre. But Economy, Efficiency, and Class Commiss Str. .

In calling public attention to this little machine, a few of the invaluable qualities, (not possessed by any other washing machine yet invented) are here enumerated. It is the smallest, most compact, most portable, most simple in construction, most coasily operated. A child ten years old, with a few hours' practice, can thoroughly comprehend and effectually use it. There is no adjusting, no screws to annoy, no delay in adapting! It is a lways ready for use! It is a perfect little wonder! It is a miniature giant, doing more work and of a better quality, than the most elaborate and cestly. One-half of the labor is fully award by its use, and the clothes will last one-half longer than by the old plan of the rab board. It will wash the largest blanket. Three shirts at a time, washing thoroughly! In a word, the addution of any fabric, from a quilit to a Lace Curtain, or Cambrier Handkerthief, are equally within the capacity of this LITTLE (EM)! It can be fastened to any tub and taken off at will.

No matter how deep-rooted a priquice may exist kerchief, are equally within the capacity of this LITLE, REMI I can be fattened to any tub and taken off at will.

No matter how deep-rooted a prijudice may exist against Washing Machines, the moment this little machine is seen to perform its wenders, all doubts of its cleaning efficacy and utility are bunished, and the doubter and detractor at once become the fast friends of the machine.

We have testimonials without end, setting forth its numerous advantages over all others, and from hundreds who have thrown aside the unwieldy, unless machines, which have signally failed to accomplish the edget promised in prominent and lond sounding advertisements. It is as perfect for washing as a wringer is few wringing. The price another paramount indocument to purchasers, has been placed so low that it is within the reach of every housekeeper, and there is no article of domestic economy that will repay the small investment so soon.
