ELKTON. FEBRUARY 10, 1872.

Lead Option.

We notice that our temperance folks of Cedi are making a feeble effort in petitioning the present legislature in favor of "Local Option," as a remedy for the gigantic evils of intemperance. Occasionally a petition signed by a few hundred and unitive description of the temperance of the local option, and the petition of the temperance of the local option, and the petition of the temperance of the local option, and the local option of the temperance of the local option, and the local option of the temperance of the local option option option of the temperance of the local option adays, by liquor men. Such attacks are met by a smile from them. If the organized workers in the cause of temperance hope to achieve the overthrow of the business, they must direct their concentrated efforts upon this one point, instead of stopping to deal damnation to every man who shows the inherent weakness of human nature by tasting a glass of wine, or, it may be, something stronger, when it comes too temptingly in his way, for his weak nature to resist. They must emulate Blacher, who pushed on to Waterloo, in place of stopping to fight Napoleon's Marshal, well knowing that if the head was crushed that the limbs would succumb without further effort. With lodges organized in every Election District, the temperance reformers, with a proper and determined, or rather industrious effort, should have been able to send in thousands of names, against the license law, in place of hundreds, as they are doing. Such petitions might have been able to send in thousands of names, against the license law, in place of hundreds, as they are doing. Such petitions might have been alle prepared and ready for forwarding when the legislature met. Plain, simple addresses could have been published, stating the grounds taken menting severely on the runnored action of fireat Brittain to repudiate the Tracty of Washington, and made some remarks comenting severely on the runnored action of the published, stating the grounds taken menting severely on the runnored action of the published, stating the grounds taken menting severely on the runnored action of the published, stating the grounds taken menting severely on the runnored action of the published, stating the grounds taken menting severely on the runnored action of the published, stating the grounds taken in the Committee on the proposition to the sole of the port. An appropriation to the way and Marcha and merchand from the Committee on Finance Committee on Finance Committee on the proposition to the structure of incorporation to the published, stating the grounds taken and propos washington, and made some remarks commented by the anti-license party, and deputations sent to every church to ask the active co-operation of each denomination in the work. An ordinary amount of commonsense thought, embodying a definite plan of action, in which each member had some well defined part of the work allotted to him or her, and who would be responsible to the Society for the fulfillment of that task to the letter, might have accomplished inconceivable results, and with less labor, perhaps, than has been fritted away in idle forms, and, shall we say, silly ceremony, perhaps, than has been fritted away in idle forms, and, shall we say, silly ceremony. A number of boys and girls banding to gettler, and attaching cabalistic letters to their names, as the insignia of official first intended to do, and the reconstitutive to ceremony, and attaching cabalistic letters to their names, as the insignia of official first intended to do, and the reconstitutive the results without works. There can be no objection to ceremony, accompanied by a corresponding amount of intelligently directed work; but we fear that a very large per cent. of the brothers and sisters of the cold water army, though having a very vivil perception of the ceremoies and social enjoyments afforded by their orders, have but a dim conception of the wast work they have undertaken, and an intelligent mode by which it shall be done, if accomplished at all. True reformers are stern, have but a dim conception of the vast work they have undertaken, and an intelligent mode by which it shall be done, if accomplished at all. E. WHITEMAN & SONS' CATALOGUE FOR 1872.—This extensive firm of Baltimore whose business is the manufacture and dependent of the advertising appendix, deden implements kept by the tirm. It also, embraces a list of the most useful vegetable seeds and grains, and useful tables of reference for farmers, in the measurement of small lots of lands, the weight of grains, fruits, roots, etc., etc.; also the constituents which compose the principal crops grown by the farmer. Altogether this will be found to be a most useful and convenient hand book for every farmer. The price of the "Guide" asthe work is styled by the publishers, is 50 cents, cheap enough doubtless for the information of practical value it contains; but we think it is a value it contains; but we think it is a short sighted policy of the Messrs. Whitman, however, to offer it for sale at all, when a liberal distribution of fifty or one mainder of the day in drawing for seats. hundred thousand copies of the "Guide" among the farmers of Maryland and adjacent States South, would pay the firm tenfold as the very best advertising medium they could make use of. Our notion of business are, if we were in the Messrs. D. Z. Evans, of Town Point, by the Secre-Whitmans' place, would be not to sell a tary of Grand Lodge, or, as the Society single copy, but distribute fifty free for called by its members, " National Grange," every one they can hope to sell. This is a Mr. O. H. Kelley, who at the same time somewhat lengthy and altogether gratui. forwarded to Mr. Evans a copy of the Contious notice as we are entirely unacquinted stitution and By-Laws of the Association, with the gentlemen of the firm, either in a and who is prepared to correspond or conbusiness or any other capacity.
