The people of the rural districts of Maryland, interested in securing good county roads, are requesed to meet in council in Baltimore, on Thursday, March 28th, at 10 o'clock, A. M., at Raine's Hall, corner of Baltimore street and Post Office avenue, to devise some means by which the great burden which retards the growth and development of the rural districts may be successfully temoved.

The policy of holding a State Convention to discuss this important question has been agitated throughout the State during the past year, and has been universally concurred in as the only means of securing uniform and united action in the matter, and as it effects the interests of every farmer in Maryland, it is hoped every county in the State will be fully represented—either by delegates or voluntary action, as each county shall prefer, without further notice.

The above call is being circulated through the State, and it is to be hoped that it will meet with a hearty response from every county. There is no interest from every county. There is no interest from every belief the post years and hearty response from every county. There is no interest from every county. There is no interest from every holds the state and it is to be hoped that it will meet with a hearty response from every county. There is no interest from every county. There is no interest from every holds and the weighing done by Inspectors under the direction of the Surveyors of Customs.—Mr. Spencer presented a bill to grant general amnesty on condition that it shall not orner anamesty on condition that it shall not evit an amnesty on condition that it shall not orner an amnesty on condition that it shall not evit an amnesty on condition that it shall not evit an amnesty on condition that it shall not evit an amnesty on condition that it shall not evit an amnesty on condition that it shall not evit an amnesty on condition that it shall not evit an amnesty on condition that it shall not evit an amnesty on condition that it shall not evit an amnesty on condition tha though the State, and it is to be hoped that it will meet with a hearty response from every county. There is no interest more urgent than that of good roads; and there is no other expense so heavy on the tax payers as the annual drain for repair of roads. Under present management, the largest part of the money expended on roads is entirely wasted and thrown away. These are deplorable facts, potent to every observant man; and till the road laws of the State are changed there is no hope for improvement. Under existing laws and management, if continued, near half a million of dollars will be expended in this county on roads, in the next ten years, and at the end of that time they will be no better than they are at present. The county ought to be represented by delegates at the convention, and we suggest, for the sake of concert, that the people meet in each district, on Saturday, 16th inst., at their usual places of holding primary meetings, and appoint a delegate for each District to attend the Road Convention in Baltimore, on the 28th inst. The present political system of road making will have to be superseded by one founded on business principle before the prodigal waste of money will be curtailed or the public roads begin to improve. Any man who has a suggestion to make on the subject of road reform let him send it in writing to the Convention, or go in person and lay it before the meeting. The farm property of the county, and with it every other Convention, or go in person and lay it before the meeting. The farm property of the county, and with it every other interest, is depreciated incalculably by our bad roads. In just that proportion which the public roads permanently improve, will the value of every acre be enhanced.

The people of Maryland from almost every city, town and hamlet of the State, have petitioned the Legislature of this State for a law upon the subject of Temperance. They ask legislative relief in some shape from the evils resulting from the license system and the vices which it entails upon our citizens. If they are wise and are governed by a desire to better the condition of their constituents, theywill heed the voice of the people and give them a law restraining the tide of woe and misery that threatens to ongulph the best and noblest interest is being felt all over the land on this subject. Other States are moving in this matter and taking a bold and decided stand in the interest of fallen humanity.—

Schurz presented a remonstrance, with this subject. Other States are moving in this matter and taking a bold and decided stand in the interest of fallen humanity. this subject. Other States are moving in this matter and taking a bold and decided stand in the interest of fallen humanity.—
Stringent laws have been enacted and are being vigorously enforced to stay the tide of drunkenness. Maryland's necessities are equally as urgent. Our young men, the hope of the coming future of our State, are becoming habitual drunkards, and the appetite is such that once firmly acquired, cannot be easily eradicated. To avert these evils the people ask only that they may be allowed the small privilege to say whether license shall be granted or not to sell intoxicating drinks in their midst. Will the Legislature grant them this right—this privilege? That is the important question just now, and the very best citizens of the State, who desire only the public welfare, are moving in this matter and are deeply interested in its success.

A few of those who pander to the pernicious influences of political power have ventured the prediction that the Legislature will turn a deaf ear to the entreaties of the people. The idea has been publicly expressed, and no doubt believed by many, that the "Whisky Ring" will buy up the Legislature in this direction. A gentleman remarked in our hearing last week, and seemed to speak knowingly on this subject.
