

FOR PRESIDENT, ULYSSES S. GRANT, OF ILLIAOIS. FOR VICE-PRESIDENT,

HENRY WILSON,

"Gen. Grant neter has been defeated and he neter will be."-Honace Grenter. " While asserting the right of every Republican to his untrammeled choice of a candi-date for next President until a nomination is made, I renture to suggest that Gen. Grant will be far better qualified for that momentous trust in 1872 than he was in 1868."-HORACE GREELEY, speech on 5th January, 1871.

A storm of misrepresentation and abuse of the Administration and General Grant has been resorted to, which has never been approached in the history of American politics since 1840. By dint of falsehoods and pharisecical assumptions of honesty, and pompous, arrogant claims of superior ability, statesmanship, and all the other virtues known to the political world, it was thought by these clever politicians who united round Horaco Greeley, that the country could be carried by storm, and that their arrogant boasting and audacious assertions would be accepted by the people without question. This game of brag has utterly failed and the honest masses, both of the Republican and Democratic parties very soon began to inquire into the truth of those astounding statements of the Greeley and Brown "crowd." Inquiry proved the greater part of them to be false. of course, and the antecedents of their over-virtuous "Reformers" were hunted up, which proved them to be a set of amstill telling, about Grant's military despot ism, nepotism, corruption, &c., &c., every one are proven to be false as fast as examined into, and the result is what might be expected, that every day the Republican cause with General Grant as its standard bearer is growing stronger in the hearts of honest people, who are determined to rebuke this ontragous attempt upon their intelligence, by a set of ambitious politicians, under the false livery of "Reform." The floating vote which aims to be on the winning side, have had their eyes opened have them opened still wider by Maine publican tell? in a few days, when the stampede to Grant will be so irresistable that we fully expect to see the Democrats kick Greeley out of their ranks as an arrant, humbug, and go in a body to the Louisville nominees, preferring to be beat in a quiet old-fashioned way, then being made fools of and gain nothing, by the man they all so despise.
