

The Cecil Whiff

ELKTON, JANUARY 11, 1873.

The Army of Law and Order.

It has been long since discovered that armies are very expensive, but doubtless necessary appendages to civilization.

The legions of the battle field have long intervals of repose between their destructive campaigns, while the cohorts of justice are almost constantly on active duty.

The army is controlled by a Commander-in-Chief called the Court, who directs its movements, and exercises general supervision over all its parts.

The Sheriff has two lieutenants and two deputies, who are called by the title of Bailiffs.

The State's Attorney has immediate command of the forces in the field, and it is his duty to lead the forces into the field and direct the movements of the battle.

The policy adopted for the development of the coal trade continues to exhibit desirable results.

The rapid increase in the traffic of the road requires a constant increase of its facilities in all the working departments.

The rapid enlargement of the business of the Company at its Marine Station on Locust street caused additional space and facilities to be required.

The necessities of the commerce of the port, in connection with the increase of the coal trade, have led to a third track from the coal regions Eastward.

TEACHERS' ASSOCIATION.

The regular monthly meeting of the Teachers' National Association of the 6th, 7th and 8th Districts, was held in the Old Academy, at Port Deposit, on last Saturday afternoon, the 5th instant, and in the absence of the President, was called to order and presided over by the Vice-President, John A. Calhoun.

Next, a resolution was passed, requesting that Mr. Frank Tveris, President of the school board, use his influence with that body in having a time set for holding the Teachers' Association to suit the convenience of the teachers, many of whom favored the holding of it during the last week of February as the most appropriate and convenient.

On motion, Miss Biddle was appointed as a member of a committee to confer with the teachers of Elkton, with a view to making arrangements for the accommodation of the teachers during the time of their attendance upon the Institute, those teachers constituting the remainder of the committee.

The following resolution was offered: That this Association is interested in having a successful meeting of the Institute, and that, therefore, all of the teachers of the County be earnestly requested to attend.

The deferred literary exercises for the next meeting are as follows: Essays, Mr. Gifford and Miss Carter; Address, Mr. Jos. Trainer; Discussions, "Is Education as important for woman as man, and is her brain educationally as capable of development?" Miss Biddle and Mr. Passmore, and "the best method of teaching English Grammar, and making it interesting."

Select readings, Miss Vandiver and Mr. Roberts; Refereed questions, Mr. Quigley and Miss Jennie Wilson.

On motion, it was resolved that the next meeting of the Association shall be held at the "Brick Building" at Port Deposit, on the first Saturday in February. The other teachers of the County are invited to attend, together with the teachers of the above named districts. Association adjourned.

On Monday, Congress reassembled and went actively to work. Among its first acts was to order public investigation in the Credit Mobilier affair, and a trust was consequently made, by its strength of the previous proceedings, Mr. McComb's testimony, appeared in Tuesday's papers, which was very lengthy and important.

Mr. Morton offered a resolution, which was ordered to be printed, directing the Joint Committee on Privileges and Elections to report at the next session on the subject of Presidential elections.

This movement will undoubtedly result in adopting the one-term principle for President, which was suggested by the President in his message to Congress.

A resolution was offered in the House, making the President and Vice-President elect by direct vote of the people. One objection was raised, which was not sustained.

The Secretary of War states the probability of the sale of the land in the District of Columbia, to be in the hands of the Government.

The rapid enlargement of the business of the Company at its Marine Station on Locust street caused additional space and facilities to be required.
