SAN DOMINGO.

The Santo Domingo question which served so admirable a purpose for Sumner and that party of politicians who would be leaders of the Republican party, whether the people would follow or not, to make an attack upon the President, in a concerted effort to hunt him down, has lately assumed a new and important phase, which will not fail to prove of the deepest interest to the people of this country.

After the wanton and scandalous attack sound policy and wisdom of annexing the in Georgia. The organization will be known as the "Samana Bay Company of Santo Domingo." This company of New York and Boston capitalistis have obtained almost unlimited privileges over the Bay and Peninsula of Samana, with further privileges to construct railroads through any part of the convertion will serve to show the character of the grant the company have acquired.

"For the purpose of increasing the commerce of the Republic as well as of establishing by means of steamships and other works of internal improvement, and of the country by means of railroads and other works of internal improvement, and of the country by means of railroads and other works of internal improvement, and efficient aid to the Dominical Covernment in preserving its independence and maintaining order, it has been decreed that all the rights, privileges, and maintain the rights, privileges, and maintain the rights, privileges, and entimate the convention to the "Samana Bay Constant State of the Country by means of steamships and other works of internal improvement, and of the country by means of railroads and the rights, privileges, and maintain the rights, privileges, and entimate the convention to the "Samana Bay Constant State of the Country by means of steamships and other works of internal improvement, and of the country by means of railroads and provided the business of the bay, the silands, and aven the reference of the convention to the "Samana Bay Constant State of the Country by means of railroads and provided the business of the convention of the convention of the convention of the convention of the privileges, and maintain the rights, privileges, and maintain the rights, privileges, and convention to right to construct wharves in the water or on the islands of the bay, and to collect for its own use port dues, wharfage, and all

In fact they choose to sacrifice the alter of the demagogue, to endeavor to pull down a man, of whom they were jealous without a cause, except that the people had taken up and showed their determination to sustain him. The jealousies of these men have succeeded in defeating the Government in procuring San Domingo, but the people elevated above their heads the man against whom they hurled all the shafts of their malice.

MANUAL OF WEEDS.

This is the title of a very useful and instructive little volume, by Dr. Ezra Michener, of New Garden, Chester county, Pa., who is a distinguished botanist. As a manual of botany the work will prove of immense value to the shildren of the farmer, who by its aid may become acquainted thoroughly with all the civilized countries of the world.

The intelligent operator will first inquire, what is this weed? Is it an annual? a biannual? a per-annual? at what season does it ripen seed? has it any other mode of reproducing its kind? and that? what crops does it affect? are its fragmentary roots ricarious, and capable of producing new plants, when suffered to tremain in the new plants, when suffered to remain in the soil? when these, and similar inquiries have been duly answered, he will have learned two important lessons,

CONGRESSIONAL.

The Credit Mobilier investigation still goes on in Congress without adding much that is of interest to what has already been published. Mr. Alcorn presented a bill in the Senate on Tuesday, proposing an appropriation of $30,000,000 for constructing levees on the Mississippi, for the reclamation of 20,000,000 acres of waste land, embracing 1,000,000 acres of corn land of unsurpassed fertility, 2,500,000 adapted to sugar and 7,000,000 of the best cotton land in the world.

THE NEXT PRESIDENT.

Although it is quite early to speculate as to who will be our next President, or to consider the claims of any man or section, we quote the following ripple on the surface of public opinion, without entering particularly on this line of discussion:

Maryland proposes to name the next resident .- Philadelphia Item. President.—Philadelphia Item.

It is a little early in the day to "name" the next President, unless Maryland and the Item mean the President for the term ending March, 4, 1877, which we will not be captiously critical enough to suppose that they do not mean. Maryland has some good Presidential on both sides of the house.

good Presidential on both sides of the house. Among the Democrats there are Governor Whyte and Reverdy Johnson, John W. Garrett, and half a dozen other strong men. Reverdy is, it is true, a little musty, but he is "as gentlemen and a scholar." He may be President, but we doubt it. Among the Republicans the only really strong man that we know of is our present Postmaster-General. If the commercial portion of the community were called upon to select a President from Maryland, they would undoubtedly take Mr. Tome, who is one of the merchant princes of America. As we said, however, it is too soon to talk about a accessor to General Grant.—Washington successor to General Grant .- Washington

"Mr. Foley is one of the best of guessers. The year is 1877, and the man is Creswell, if we may judge from the signs of the times, and from the Maryland and Southern papers. If Pennsylvania should 'subscribe,' the question will be settled in his favor. Mr. Creswell's course commends him to public respect, confidence and gratitude. Should he succeed with postal telegraphy, the people will bless him. Certainly he is in the line of succession."
