The Publishers of Our Fireside Friend, Chicago, announces this week in our columns, their second Annual Distribution of premiums to subscribers. This excellent Story and Family Weekly is now in its third volume. Its success has been great. It is firmly established as one of the leading weeklies of the Union, with the largest circulation of any paper in the West. Its success may in no slight degree be attributed to its method of distributions last year gave general satisfaction. Their list of premiums is tine and secures to every subscriber for 1873 a premium either in cash or some one of the valuable articles mentioned in the list. We cheerfully recomor some one of the valuable articles mentioned in the list. We cheerfully recommend the paper. Their plan of distributing premiums is a notable part of their well conducted enterprise and our readers need flection of the House, right and left. dent of the Philadelphia Press gives the following account of the preparation for the occasion:

"The arrangements for the inauguration ceremonics are fully matured and will be carried out upon a scale far exceeding any display heretofore attempted in the history of the Republic. There will be about fifty different military and civic organizations in the procession, each preceded by a band of music, which will form a parade only equalled at the time Grant and Sherman's armies were reviewed here at the close of the war in 1865. The inauguration ball building is the largest over creted, being 300 by 150 feet, and its complete appointments for comfort and convenience are unsurpassed. The West Point and naval cadets will attend the ball in force, as well as a number of the officers and members of the other military organizations.

The President, Vice President, Cabinet Ministers, Senators, Representatives, foreign ministers, and distinguished civilians from all parts of the Union, will be in attendance.
