Temperance Convention of Baltimore, human race out of the Bible and what is it worth to us?

"Humanity and Reason," he tells us, "stand aghast" at the picture he draws as perance Alliance, auxiliary to the National Temperance Society, (an organization nov necessarily flowing from the doctrine of the universality of the fall.

Guided by reason alone there are many things occurring frequently in the world at which "humanity and reason stand which "humanity and reason stand cause, have resolved to call together a STATE TEMPERANCE CONVENTION, to meet by earthquakes, or overflowed by the burning lava of volcanoes. Manhood, ago and helpless infancy destroyed by thousands. Humanity shudders; reason and science stand dumb, confounded, speechless, at their utter impotency to administer the least grain of consolation. It requires the "faith," which the lecturer holds in such supreme contempt, to hold up to man the light man needs in such darkness.

If not one in a thousand million of the so-called wild races of man have "either the means or the capacity to embrace the command to his disciples, "Go ye unto all the world and preach my Gospel to every creature and disciple all nations," gave them a commission which was incapable of being successfully executed.

For The Cecil Whig. THE BURR LECTURES. I have neither the desire nor intention of prolonging an unprofitable discussion with Mr. Burr. I attended all his lectures, and listened attentively to all he had to say, endeavoring to pay him all the respect due from one gentleman to another. I had been led by the previous announcement of his coming, to understand, that his purpose was to overthrow the philosophy of Darwin, and harmonize the teachings of scientific investigation with the revealed word of God, and having peculiar reasons for desiring light on that subject I attended nightly, hoping to be instructed. or appreciate the learned lecturer's arguments and illustrations. I ventured to express some doubts as to the propriety of introducing such subjects in a popular lecture before a mixed audience of young and old-educated and uneducated people, for the reasons given in my former article.

In what I had to say of his Scripture references I spoke of them as "sinister." On looking into Webster, I find that word defined "weak," "imperfect," "unlucky," "inauspicious." If these terms do not apply to every reference he made to Bible texts, I am indeed ignorant and wholly unable to judge. But the word is offensive to Mr. Burr. and we are told that "among gentlemen

The indignation of the lecturer at such bad manners on my part impels him to vindicate his one claim to gentility by the profuse use of such terms as "ignorance and folly," "presumption and ignorance," "ignorance, bigotry and prejudice," and in the pride of his assumed intellectual superiority, he condescends to "pity the degradation into which my intellect has fallen erecting a fine new house and furniture by the misuse of God's sacred word!" I confess I am greatly indebted to him for

This is truly very sublime reasoning and exceedingly dignified. According to the lecturer's mode of interpreting the Sacred Record, Adam had no children but Cain, Abel and Seth, because they alone are named; and Seth had no other children than Enos, although 105 years old at his birth; and Enos no other children than Cainan, although 90 years archal table, given in the 5th of Genesis. with him in the Ark."

Whether the waters covered the whole earth or not, they swept away every living creature, man and beast then living on the face of the inhabited earth, or the Sacred Record contains a gross falsehood. Christ in warning his disciples of the terrible scones that will attend the end of the world and the final destruction of all things upon the earth, refers by way of illustration to the flood as one of the known facts of history-Matt. xxiv: 37, 39, 39; Luke YVII: 26, 27. "But as the days of Noe were, so shall also the coming of the Son of man be. For as in the days that were before the flood they were eating and drinking, marrying and giving in marriage, until the day that Noe entered into the Ark,

And know not until the flood came and And know not until the flood came and took them all away; so shall also the com-ing of the Son of man be."

Either the reference was an apt and proper reference, intended accurately to characterize the final destruction of all things earthly; or the Blessed Christ was trifling But we are told the learned Jewish " Rabbies" " should be allowed to interpret their their philology and history. Jewish his-
