ELKTON, MAY 3, 1873.

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

Local Miscellany.—Money sold at the Mutual Building Association on Saturday night last at 134 and 147 premium.

There will be a strawberry festival in the Presbyterian Church, at Chesapeake City on May 27th, 28th and 29th inst.

Rev. Robert P. Kenedy will preach in the Presbyterian Church of Chesapeake City, next Sabbath, May 4th, at 10½ A. M., and 7½ P. M.,

The Engineers have been busy this week making preliminary surveys for the Elkton & Massey's Railroad. The line through Partrige's hill has many advantages over all others and is likely to be the one adopted.

Port Deposit has got a steam fire engine.

The fishermen on North East river have been catching more herring this week than they could manage. They sell for 50 cents a hundred on the shore. Shad have not been plenty this Spring. May day was a gala day on the shores.

On Monday next, seven wise men will be elected Town Commissioners for Elkton, the ensuing year, who will be dubbed fools and asses before the year is out. The pay is nothing, and strange to say some are found soliciting the nomination. What a mania for office!

Dr. Kennedy, Homœopathic physician removed to our town this week, and has hung out his shingle on Main street, opposite Church street. His card is published in to-day's paper.

The lot of ground belonging to Trinity Church was fenced in this week, on which to build the Rectory. We have no doubt, if the same spirit of enterprise which is now manifested in the congregation continues, before many years pass we shall see a building erected, which will be—not only an ornament to our town, but will also greatly add to the already bright prospects for the future advancement of the church, under the untiring efforts of the new and popular Rector. A fine organ arrived last Tuesday, and will aid very materially in the church service, which, beautiful at all times, will be still more solemn and impressive when the rite of comfirmation is administered on the 11th of May, by The Right Rev. Bishop Lay.

A Concert by a company of the first Amateur Singers, of Baltimore, will be given at Port Deposit, on Friday evening 9th of May, for the benefit of St. James Episcopal Church.

Rumored Rail-oad Change.—A rumor is in circulation, with what foundation we can not say, that the management of the Philadelphia, Wilmington & Baltimore Railroad is about to be transferred to the Pennsylvania Central Railroad Company; that arrangements are now being made, and will be completed for the transfer about the middle of May. Messrs. Felton and Kenney, it is said, are to be elected directors of the Pennsylvania Central.
Middletown Transcript.

Election of Officers.—At the regular meeting of the I. O. G. T., of Elkton, the following officers were elected for the ensuing term on Monday evening April 28th. W. C. T., T. C. Crouch; W. V. T., Joanna Sloan; W. R. S., Mattie Wingate; W. F. S., Lizzie Walmsley; W. T., M. H. Crouch; W. C., S. J. Smith; W. M., W. H. Davis; W. D. M., Ada Gray; W. I. G., Laura Witworth; W. O. G., E. W. Draper; W. L. H. S., Mary J. Ricketts; W. R. H. S., M. C. Walmsley; D. G. W. C. T., L. M. Haines.

$500,000 Prize.—A lucky fellow named Pemistan, of Philadelphia, has drawn a $500,000 prize in the Havana lottery. Drafts for the amount, less the usual discount ($420,000) are on their way from Havana by steamer. The drafts were cut in two and forwarded by different steamers, as a better protection against loss.—This large prize will serve as a powerful incentive to five hundred thousand fools to invest in the lottery, each hoping that he or she will draw a capital prize. This prize is the largest ever drawn by an American.

Alleged Attempt to Poison a Family.—A colored girl was lodged in Jail at Elkton last week for an alleged attempt to poison the family of Mr. Benjamin B. Price, of Sassafras Neck, where she had been employed as a servant, by putting poison in the coffee. Mrs. Price first tasted the coffee and found it very bitter, caused by some foreign substance that had been put in it, she inferred. Suspicion immediately rested on the girl for having poisoned the coffee, and Mr. Price tried to make her drink some of it, which she refused to do, when she was arrested and committed to Jail.

Resignation of Dr. McCabe.—Dr. John Collins McCabe, pastor of St. Ann's P. E. Church, Middletown, last Saturday called a meeting of the Vestry of his church and tendered his resignation. The Vestry adjourned without taking any action on the resignation until Monday, when it was accepted and resolutions of regret adopted. The resignation will take effect at the termination of the present quarter. Where Mr. McCabe will go, is not yet known, but he will probably remove from the State. His loss will be severely felt in the church, in the Masonic fraternity and in the community at large.—Every Evening.

Insanity of a Teacher.—We are called on to make the painful announcement this week, of the terrible affliction of insanity in the Principal of the Elkton Public School, Mr. Chamberlane. He was noticed last week to act strangely. He has a wife and family residing at Havre de Grace, from which town he came to act as Principal of the Public School at this place, a few months ago. Mr. Chamberlane had been in the habit of going home to Havre de Grace on Friday evening and returning to Elkton on Monday morning. On last Friday evening he went home as usual, but returned to Elkton on Saturday evening, and showed unusual reserve, and a disposition averse to conversing with, or speaking to any one. On Monday he did not attend the school and refused for sometime to give up the key of the school room to the Trustees, or reply to any questions asked him. His strange proceedings satisfied all who saw him that his mind was deranged. On Tuesday, Rev. Dr. Martin, Episcopal minister, of Havre de Grace, who had formerly been the unfortunate man's pastor, was sent for by Rev. Mr. Skinner, Rector of Trinity Church in this place. And after consultation with Drs. Tuft and Ellis, who advised his removal to a hospital, it was determined to take the unfortunate man to an asylum in Baltimore, under the superintendence, we believe, of the Episcopal Church.

After a good deal of persuasion on Tuesday night, Mr. Martin prevailed upon the patient to accompany him, and assisted by Mr. John Wilkinson, he was taken to the train which passes Elkton at half past one o'clock at night, and safely conveyed to Baltimore, where Mr. Martin took charge of the unfortunate man and conducted him to the hospital. He refused to speak to any one during the proceedings, but would quietly comply with any request after a little persuasion and kind treatment. We have heard of no cause for his aberration of mind.

Killed by the Cars.—We take the following item from the Camden Press. The lady was the wife of Mr. David Parker, who formely lived at Cherry Hill.

A sad accident occurred upon the line of the West Jersey Railroad, near Woodbury, last Wednesday afternoon, 24th. The train due in this city a few minutes after five o'clock, while approaching the former place, ran over and instantly killed a lady who was lying on the track, but who was not observed before it was to late to stop the train. The body, terribly mangled, was taken up and conveyed to the station at W., at which place it was given to the coroner, by whom it was soon identified as being that of Mrs. Rebecca Parker, a sister of Hon. J. L. C. Tatem of Gloucester county, and Wm. P. Tatam, Esq., of Camden. It is believed that Mrs. Parker was suffering from an aberration of her mind at the time of the accident. She had left her home but a few minutes before the sad occurrence, and was not missed by her friends until they were informed of her death.

A Valuable Quarry.—A quarry of what is said to be a very superior quality of Surpentine Stone has recently been opened in Nottingham township, Chester county, Pa., on the Maryland and Pennsylvania line, and near to Rising Sun. The quarry is owned, we believe, by Mr. Martin of Rising Sun and Mr. Dunlap of Pennsylvania. Parties from Boston and New York have examined the stone and proposed to purchase the entire quarry. The stone is capable of reviewing a fine polish and has been pronounced superior to that generally in use. A piece of the rough rock weighing 8 or 10 pounds has been left at our office by Mr. Gray, of the Elkton Foundry. The specimen is of a light green color and when dressed we judge would prove a very handsome stone. Its caapcity to withstand fire adds to the value of this particular kind. Some specimens in use are easily destroyed by heat.

☞The following item was prepared for last week, but was overlooked.

Shooting Affair.—A shooting affair occurred at Cecilton, on Wednesday night, 16th inst., in which John Pizer received two balls, one through the wrist and the other grazed his hip, fired by Thomas Jones, son of Thomas P. Jones. "A woman was at the bottom of it." Pizer has a step daughter, a young lady, whom Mr. Jones had been waiting on, much to the dissatisfaction of Pizer, it seemed, who had threatened to shoot both the girl and her lover, when the dark of the moon made it safe to proceed. The girl charges Pizer with abuse and violent threats against her life, and shows a letter of the most abusive and obscene character, which she alleges Pizer wrote to her. On the night above stated, young Jones was in Cecilton, in conversation with a friend on the subject of Pizer's threats, when that personage passed along the street, going in the direction of the house where the young lady resided. There was no man about the house where the young lady was staying; only two other women. His comrade, who was first to recognize Pizer, called Jones' attention to him, and they concluded, from the course he was going, that he intended to visit the house where the lady, the subject of contrition was, perhaps to execute his threats, as the night was dark. Jones immediately started for the house, taking a short cut across a lot, and was crouched down near the house to await further developments, when he saw Pizer coming directly toward him, he having left the street also, and was approaching the house by the lot. As he came up, Jones saw he had a hand in his pocket, as if ready to draw a weapon. Without waiting for any further development, Jones raised up and fired. Pizer did not halt or turn till a second shot from Jones' pistol fully aroused him to a sense of the dangerous neighborhood, when he beat a hasty retreat, his foe giving him a couple more shots to accelerate his speed. One of the balls, as above stated, wounded Pizer in the wrist of his pocketed hand and another grazed his hip cutting the clothing, convincing Pizer doubtless, that Jones is a most provokingly credulous fellow, and when a man threatens to shoot him, he thinks he means what he says, and acts about forestalling him after the most approved border style.

Pizer's wounds are not dangerous.—Jones gave bail to answer, and we are informed, intends to have Pizer's answer before Court for his ugly threats.

Fatal Accidental Shooting.—The following account of accidental shooting we clip from the Baltimore American, which is another warning to careless people who point guns at each other. The gun would not go off when tried at the pigeons, but the moment it was pointed at a man it went. And a gun is sure to do that almost always, especially if pointed by a friend. The deceased has a brother in this town:

On Saturday morning, about 8½ o'clock, a case of accidental shooting occurred at the public house of Mr. Henry Crey, on Madison street, near the bridge over Jones' Falls, by which J. Andrew Crow came to his death almost instantly. As far as the facts can be learned, it appears that on Friday afternoon, John Bell, the bar-tender, a young man about nineteen years of age, and J. Andrew Crow, a boarder in the house, aged about 5[illegible] years, were carelessly playing with an old gun that had been lying about the house for some time. They took it into the yard and endeavored to fire it off at some pigeons that were flying around, but without success. The gun was then put back in the place from whence it had been taken, and nothing more was thought of the matte. On Saturday after breakfast, Mr. Crey was engaged in whitewashing the fence around his yard, and hearing a report of a gun in the house, hastened in, where he found Crow lying on the floor shot in the head, the contents of the gun having enterd the left eye. A physician was at once summoned, but in about half an hour Crow expired. The young man Bell stood by the bar in an almost frantic condition. he and Crow having been on the most intimate terms.—Bell, by the advice of friends, proceeded to the Middle District Station House and gave himself into the custody of Captain John Mitchell. There appears to have been no witness to the unfortunate transaction, no one being in the room but Bell and Crow. Bell states that both of them having endeavored to discharge the gun on Friday, neither thought for a moment that it would go off, and that he playfully pointed it at Crow, remarking, "Jim, I'll shoot you," when instantly, without any intention on his part, the gun went off, with the unfortunate result above stated. The deceased was a native of Cecil county, where he had a number of relatives. The Coroner of the District, Dr. Walker, was notified, and the jury, after hearing the facts above stated, rendered a verdict of death from accident. Bell was held at the Station House, greatly distressed at this sad result of his thoughtlessness, and after the rendition of the verdict he was discharged.

More Railroads Through Cecil.—The following was published in the Baltimore Sun of the 24th ult.

The charter of the New York, Washington and Western Railroad Company was recorded in the executive chamber on April 16th. The incorporators are Wm. Bell and Wm. G. Thomas, of Perth Amboy, N. J.; Samuel H. Robbins, of Allentown, N. Y.; Benj. H. Smith, of Crawford, N. Y.; Chas. E. Wethered and Samuel Wethered, of Baltimore, and Wm. N. E. Wickes, of Chestertown, Kent county. The termini and route of the road are a point on the northeastern boundary of the District of Columbia, thence by such practicable route as they shall deem expedient to and across the Chesapeake bay, to a point on the Delaware State line, at a point where the New Jersey and Delaware Central railroad shall connect at the said Delaware line with a branch from a point on the main line, to a connection with the Baltimore and Ohio railroad at or near the Relay House, and thence across said road to a point on the main line, to a point on the Delaware State line, where it shall connect with the Delaware State line, where it shall connect with the Delaware and Chesapeake railroad. The road and its branches are to pass through Prince George's, Anne Arundel, Kent, Cecil and Baltimore counties and Baltimore city.

On the same day as the above the charter of the Delaware and Maryland Union Railroad Company was filed in the executive chamber. The incorporators are the same as given in the foregoing charter, the termini to be from a point within the limits of Cecil county, on the south border of Pennsylvania, at or near Octoraro creek, to a point on the western boundary of the State of Delaware, which may or shall connect with a road chartered by said State, with a branch of the main line of said railroad to within the city of Baltimore, to pass through Cecil, Harford and Baltimore counties and Baltimore city. Capital stock, $1,000,000, in shares of $50.

If all the roads that are projected to pass through and centre in Cecil county are built, it will have more lines of railroad passing through it than any other county of equal territory in the Union, not in the immediate neighborhood of a large city.

First and oldest of the roads is the P. W. & B. Railroad passing through the centre of the county east and west; the P. & B. Central, which enters the county about three miles northeast of Rising Sun, passes through the country west of Harrisville, and drops into the valley of Basin run which stream it follows to its intersection with the Octoraro creek at Rowlandsville, near which village it connects with the Columbia and Port Deposit railroad, which is completed from the point of intersection with the P. & B. C. Railroad to Port Deposit, connecting at the latter town with the Port Deposit branch of the P. W. & B. Railroad. The Columbia and Port Deposit road follows the east bank of the Susquehanna river, between the towns from which its derives its name, and will be completed and have the cars running over the ten miles of track in this county the present year.

In addition to these roads the Elkton and Massey's is now being located, which, starting at a point on the P. W. & B. Railroad at Elkton, will traverse the southern part of the county, crossing into Kent county and connecting with the Peninsular roads at Masseys. To connect at Elkton we have the Elkton and Oxford road, for which books have been open and canvassers for stock soliciting subscriptions, with a fair prospect of ultimate success.

Besides the roads actually completed and running through the county and those above named, we have the "Delaware and Maryland Union Railroad" mentioned in the extract from the Sun, the charter for which has been filed in the executive chamber at Annapolis; the line of which follows the Octoraro creek from where it enters the county north of the Rising Sun, to the mouth of said creek, and crosses the Susquehanna into Harford county. This road, if built, and we do not doubt that it will be at no distant day, will open up several of the heaviest and best water powers on the Octoraro creek, that are found in the State; while the old Maryland Canal, along which the Columbia and Port Deposit railroad runs, might, with little cost, be made one of the greatest water powers in the country

Still another road is projected to pass through Cecil, judging from a published notice to stockholders of the "Maryland and Pennsylvania Railroad Company," to meet at the Rising Sun on the 13th instant to elect directors for the ensuing year.

The Columbia and Port Deposit Railroad will be eventually extended from Port Deposit to connect with deep water on the Delaware bay, and will have to pass at, or near Elkton. When this net work of railroads of the county have been completed, it will be difficult to find the same extent of territory remote from large cities, that will at all compare with Cecil in railroad facilities. We may then reasonably hope that the waste places and desert made of the Fourth District, formerly so prosperous and highly cultivated, which "Big Elk" describes in pathetic language, caused by the hegira to Wilmington, will be again colonized and repopulated, and its former Eden-like farms be redeemed from brier and thorn, and made to blossom as in days of yore.

Port Deposit Items.

Something New.—Port has been treating herself to a new fire engine. The old hand engines belonging to the borough have long since become impracticable; hence our "City Fathers" proceeded to a neighboring town and purchased one whose motor is of more recent origin and which will throw a stream over the highest building in town. On Saturday last the "Water Witch Fire Co.," of Wilmington Del., visited town, and gave our citizens a lesson in the use of their new purchase. There are various opinions as to the utility of the enterprise. A good fire department is certainly necessary to the safety of the town and if we may be allowed to suggest, we should say that a first class high school is equally necessary to the proper culture of the rising generation. Let us have one.

[Some first-class low schools should be established in the county first—Ed.]

Rafting.—The rafts are now running in full force, and the lumber trade generally seems brisk.

The Weather.—A few more months of winter will exhaust our stock of coal, which is being disposed of as rapidly as in January. Certainly the Spring is very backward.

Good Templars.—An effort is being made to organize a colored lodge of this Order in Port Deposit. We think every colored man who has at heart the welfare of his long oppressed and downtrodden brethern should unite in this effort to improve their morals, not only in this place but wherever opportunity offers; it will not only teach them temperance, but also make them a pleasant place for social meeting. Our colored friends, if you will but show a disposition to be assisted in this matter, whatever effort is due on our part shall be extended to you.

Pitch Penny.—This is a game which may be seen going on in one locality in town at almost any hour in the day being indulged in by boys and men of all ages and colors, who could command good wages, if they would go to work; and what is worst of all some of our respectable citizens give this miniature gambling countenance by looking on, and apparently enjoying the scene.

For Europe.—Rev. T. L. Poulson, pastor of the 1st English Reformed Church, on Aisquith street, near Jefferson, in Baltimore, will sail for Europe on the 14th of this month. During his absence abroad Mr. Poulson will visit the Vienna International Exhibition. He will return in September.

North East Items.

Lumber Trade.—Davis & Pugh, and McCracken & Bros., are getting in a large stock of lumber. The prospects are that a large trade will be done the ensuing season.

New Fence.—J. H. McCracken is having put up around his residence a very neat fence.

Sale of a Horse.—Chas. S. Perkins has sold to a party in the city, his valuable drawing horse. Price, I hear, four hundred dollars. He has shown considerable speed.

May Day.—May day was celebrated largely at the large fisheries. The day was fine and a good number of countrymen, men, women and children made their annual visit, to spend a day's pleasure away from the busy toils of home monotony.—Every thing went off pleasantly.

Horse Stolen.—Chas. W. Simpers' horse and sulky that were driven away from his livery last week,—of which mention was made in our last issue,—has not been obtained. He was traced to Oak Hill, Lancaster county, and there lost. The thief was an adept in the business, as he covered up his tracks as he went. Mr. Simpers has offered a good reward for his property and detention of the thief.

Fishing.—Great abundance of herring. Shad rather scarce, caught in North East river this last week. Herring we hear are as low as 40 c. per hundred. A continuous procession of all conceivable kinds of wagons, by night and by day, pass through our villiage trafficking in this scaly commodity.

Fourth District Items.

—Notwithstanding the cold, wet Spring and the backwardness of the season, our farmers are making very good progress with their Spring work. The oats for the most part, are up and looking quite green. Now and then we see a field of wheat looking finely; but as a general thing, it is very much in bunches. The pasture fields are improving very slowly, and provender is getting very scarce. Corn-planting will probably commence next week.

—A young man, by the name of R. A. Canan, of this District got his hand badly hurt, while working in Chester, last week. The accident was caused by a pully catching his hand.

—The Spelling School and the Reading School at the "Jackson," have both closed for the season. We hear they have proven quite interesting and instructive.

—It is real amusing to see a young chap driving around the country on Monday morning, in search of a colt, with a saddle and bridle on. Boys hitch your nags secure on Sunday or pay the penalty of hunting them on Monday.

—The Rock Sabbath School is now organized, and every one interested is expected to turn out and go to work in good earnest.

Chesapeake City Items.

Light.—The front of the M. E. Church was beautifully illuminated on Sabbath night last, by a street lamp, purchased and erected there by some friends and members of the church. We hope our Town Commissioners may see the convenience and benefit of street lights.

Correction.—In our items of last week we stated that Rev. Mr. Bristor had secured an Assistant in his school—Mr. Dodson which has since proved to be incorrect; and as yet no Assistant has been procured.

Town Election is to be held on Monday, May 5th. Let every voter come up and vote for suitable men for the offices.

Reading.—A large audience was highly entertained on Thursday evening, 24th inst., by Rev. G. R. Bristor. His selections were from Shakespeare, Dickens, and other popular authors. Mr. B. seems to understand the art of pleasing, and we anticipate the pleasure of hearing him read again soon.

Miscellaneous.—The weather has been fair—The Railroad Surveyors made their appearance near town, on Wednesday last—Mr. W. T. Reed of our town is an elected delegate to the Grand Lodge of Good Templars to be held in London, England, in July.

Markets.—Flour per bbl. $10@$10.50; Potatoes per bushel $1.25@$1.40; Butter, 35@40c., Eggs, 20c. Shad are selling from 30 to 50c., per pair; Herring 75@90c., per hundred.

Rising Sun Items.

Bank.—The superintendent of the new building has commenced active operations, and soon we expect to see a great change in the looks of Centre square.

Farming.—The farmers have "gone in" with a will the last few sun-shiny days—but all, as usual, complain of the cold and wet weather putting them seriously back.

Fishing.—Messrs. Roff & Barber of this place took a little fishing trip to the mouth of the Octoraro a few days ago, and with a scoop net, caught a barrel of Shad.

Fire.—The Barrens, in the neighborhood of the "Gray Horse," was on fire on Sunday last, and gave some of the natives an uneasy time of it.

Succeeded.—Mr. Quinn, alias Baer, the man who stole a check on this bank from the deputy sheriff of the Lancaster City and came here to get it cashed, but failed; then hired a horse and buggy in Lancaster and failed again in trying to sell them for $75; but was arrested, has made a success in the matter of getting five years in prison and fined $200.

—The Government expected to get $110,000,000 from Internal Revenue for the fiscal year ending on the 30th of June. Its expectations will be fully realized and perhaps exceeded. Notwithstanding the continual decrease of taxation, the productive interests by their growth multiply their payments to the Treasury beyond the estimates made.

LETTER FROM THE WEST.

Akron, Ohio,
April 22nd, 1873.

Waking on this Spring day to find our part of fair mother earth shrouded once more in fleecy Winter covering, my thoughts have all the live-long day been turning to "Maryland, my Maryland," and wondering if his frosty majesty has fully released his hold of that part of the "Sunny South." Last week I found three pale violets peeping out from their protecting leaves; but now, alas poor violets! even the snow has deserted them and the air is almost icy cold the wind due north and hail and rain falling by turns.

One would think it were the middle of January instead of nearly the first of May.

This morning this pretty city of Akron looked even prettier than usual, every shrub and tree held its share of the "Beautiful Snow;" some covered thickly with the shining crystals, weighed down, seemingly shrinking from the burden; others bravely brunting the storm their pale delicate leaflets forming cups in which to hold the beautiful gift whose rare loveliness scarce one, out of the thousands that pass by, has eyes to see.

This little Western city, busy and prosperous (and very dirty) is well worth seeing. The dirt is from the bituminous coal we burn, natural cleanliness reigns supreme but there is but little gained, apparently by fighting King Coal. Akron boasts of nearly fifteen thousand inhabitants, about a dozen Churches of different denominations, two paper mills, two reaper and mower works, a rail factory, a chain factory, rubber works, a candy manufactory, a hame factory, knife works (for reapers and mowers) a rolling mill, a forge; railroad machine shops, where both engines and cars are made, a woolen mill, several planing mills——I hope I've come to the end of the list; if I hear of any more I'll tell you some other time.

There are some very handsome buildings with lovely grounds about them, indeed there are sites, very beautiful naturally, on which a fortune has been spent by the owners. The Churches are some of them, plain, rather ancient looking edifices, but three are of brick and of rather singular architecture. The Methodist, tho' by no means of the grand exterior which more than one Church of that denomination can now boast, is a most unique structure. A description of it would be entirely beyond my powers. The Sunday School alone is worth a trip of hundreds of miles to see.—The arrangement is very beautiful and the utmost order prevails, tho' visitors are constantly coming and going. Any one is admitted to the gallery, from which alcoves open for the use of the different classes; only the smaller children use the school room proper, tho' all can be thrown together in a moment by opening the glass doors of the alcoves. The frescoing is very fine. There is a fountain in the centre of the room, behind it stands a piano, back of this again is the Speaker's stand. I believe there are beside two rooms or alcoves for the infant class, one of which contains an organ, the other a melodeon. It is said the school numbers seven hundred teachers and scholars; it may be so but I should not have thought there were so many. Every thing is in perfect order and all looked so happy, and withal so proud of their beautiful school and its belongings that it could but give pleasure and hopeful thoughts to the sourest old anchorite that ever scowled upon "pomps and vanities." The other parts of the building I have not yet seen.—I am told there are numerous rooms, beautifully furnished throughout, one of the finest organs in the West, an engine of two hundred pounds pressure for heating the whole edifice. The Rev. Mr. Ramsey is the fortunate individual who ministers to this extravagant people who have built a Church that takes twenty-one hundred yards of carpeting (Brussels) to cover it, nearly two hundred jets of gas to light it, a big engine to warm it and a fountain to cool it. The architecture, I am told by one of our amiable Professors, is a mixture of Gothic and Romanesque. I think the Episcopal Church, as to architecture, and may be in other ways, is squaresque for such a collection of square towers, capped with what ladies call "Walls of Troy," I never saw. They are going to build, however, when I hope their angles will be less numerous and more graceful.

I must not forget the chief ornament, in appearance, of the town; Buchtel College. It is a most imposing building, on an eminence on the south side, apparently on the edge of the city, but I found after ascending numberless stairs—the elevators are out of order at present—that Akron extends far beyond the College grounds.—From the top, on a clear day, Lake Erie, forty miles distant, can be seen. The building is very large and commands lovely views of the surrounding country; all its interior arrangements seem very good. There is a large refectory, the many small tables set daintly enough. The student's rooms are of good size and prettily furnished, well heated and lighted, and above all well ventilated; each room has a small bath closet attached and there is beside a wash room and bath room for general use. The water is obtained from a well in the rear of the building. The well is 106 feet deep; most of it sunk through the solid rock; the water is forced into tanks in the attic by means of a pump propelled by a 10 horse power engine. The laundry is beautifully arranged, as labor-saving as possible, and the display of snowy clothing we saw on passing this, the ironing room, was very creditable. The Chapel is a very pretty room in the centre of the building and in the third story; prettily frescoed and well filled with intelligent people every Sunday. Over the stand is a painting of Shakespeare; opposite, one of Humbolt; on the right a fresco representing the arts and sciences; on the left one of commerce. The college is attended both by young men and women. There are two literary societies one called the Carey, after the two noble sisters so recently passed away; the other the Greeley. The motto the young ladies have chosen is "Students of Woman's Book, The World." The motto of the other I could not make out. Each society has a fine room for its meetings. A room is one day, to be fitted up for a museum.

This is still an infant institution. The corner-stone was laid by Horace Greeley, two years ago. Now at the end of its first term it numbers one hundred and eighty pupils. There is a gymnasium in the building; to-day it was quite deserted and we saw from the windows a number of girls in a field some distance off, but within college bounds, playing at——base-ball. Think of it ye dainty young ladies, laden down with fashion's fripperies long before you've reached your teens. Yes, base-ball; and they've ordered their uniforms—tunics and Turkish trousers, from—I don't know where, and it don't matter so they have them. There's hope for the coming generation; good bye dyspepsia, laziness and the long train of attendant evils; little girls that play ball out of doors and exercise their brains indoors, won't be likely, when they are women, to base their conversation on their delicate nerves or their ailments, or make their houses and husbands wretched by their weakness of body and mind.

An old gentleman said in my presence a day or two since (with a groan.) "The world is getting wickeder every day." I think it's getting better and better.

Yours very truly,
