Local Miscellany. - The Farthingale Club of this town, propose holding a straw-berry festival when the berries are ripe. What does the "Lazy Club" propose doing? And the new club organizing at the roost?

A new Sabbath School has been organized at the brick school house, near Elk-Mills, S. McDonald, superintendent. It meets alternately in the morning and afternoon. The session will be held in the morning en to-morrow; and in the afternoon Rev. J. A. Brindle, from Newark, will preach at the same place.

The leaky old porch in front of Perkin's harness store, has been this week replaced by a new one, which has been made to extend over the drug store steps.

A number of our citizens have fixed up very nicely their front yards this Spring; but that of Mrs. Young, on Main street, is rather the most attractive.

A little son of Prof. Ascherfeld had his finger badly crushed while playing with a cutting box, on Saturday last, at Mitchel's mill. It is said to be the same machine that took a finger off Leon Johnson's hand several years ago. Mr. F. S. Everist, assignee of J. I. Max-

We do not know of a better prospect for a pushing man who understands the busiiness, than is here presented, and if the property doesn't find a ready purchaser, the times must, indeed, be out of joint. The County Commissioners were in session this week one day only. The Board not being full-Mr. Johnson being absent -no action was taken on the "Twa Brigs" question, which was passed over to a more convenient season. The bonds of all of the tax collectors were approved, except that of Mr. M'Namee, of the 8th District, which was not before the Board.

The Curculto.-Roger H. Kirk of Pleasant Grove Lancester county, one of our most observant farmers, who has tried the experiment, says that the present time, while the plum trees are in blossom, is the come this season. We, like many others, which will be quite an improvement to his proper season to apply fish oil to kill curcelio, the great enemy of the plum. About cello, the great enemy of the plum. About a pint poured around the roots of each tree is sufficient. Mr. Kirk, by this practice has succeeded in raising abundant crops of this fine fruit. Let all who have plum trees try this experiment at once.

Railroad Accident .- The through train from New York, which passes Elkton 1: 50 P. M., on Thursday, met with an accident which might have been attended with serious results. When descending Iron Hill grade, the hind axel of the rear Pullman car broke in the middle, and the train could not be stopped on the down grade till it reached the culvert over the creek .-The car kept the track and no injury resulted to the passengers other than a severe shaking up and fright. A wrecking train was telegraphed for to Wilmington, which came down and took the damaged car back for repairs. The passengers found seats in the front cars and the train proceeded without serious delay.

Heavy Thunder-storm-Man Killed by Lightning .-- The thunder-storm which passed over this County on Saturday night last, was of unusual severity for this season of the year. The only damage we heard of in this neighborhood was done near Bohemia Mills, on the Warwick road. A double-tenant house belonging to Mr. Jos. Price and occupied by the families of Bill Rhodes and Ben Darrah, (colored), was struck by lightning, one of the men, Ben Darrah, killed and the house burned .-When the storm came up a company of celored men were amusing themselves in Ben's part of the house with a game of old sladge. Ben being apparently tinged ments, when the lightnings were crashing fills the hearts of all his friends with unithrough the clouds, quit the game and went up to the second-story for the purpose of retiring. In a few moments after :a bolt of lightning struck the house, set. wrights. ting it on fire and scattered the cardplayers; some of the party making off as fast as they could run to seek some less and Baltimore daily seen on our streets,-a dangerous locality. One of the party, stranger would think things were rushing. Jonathan Hazzard, ran upstairs to rouse the inmates, and found Ben lying on the tloor, struck dead by the electric fluid and his clothing on fire, while two children were sound asleep in bed uninjured. The dead man was hastily conveyed from the Church of this place, Sabbath evening next, to a place of safety. In the meantime the family in the other end of the burning house were fast asleep, not having been disturbed by the raging storm, and would, in all probability, have perished had the slepeers not been aroused and hurried from their dangerous quarters.

Some of the negroes who run like frightened sheep, when the house was struck, found shelter in the store at Bunker Hill, about three hundred vards distant. They appear to have been too much frightened to mention the cause of their sudden flight moments, however, sufficed to convince the to the proprietor of the store. But a few fugitives that Bunker Hill store was not a more secure retreat than Ben Derrah's, for game. a bolt of lightning flashed through the open door of the store among the customers and loungers, sending the tin measures dancing round the counter and passing out at the opposite side of the building, scattered the weather-boarding round, had fled from the first scene of disaster, other parts of town, where they are most in the parlance of the times, "dusted" Town Commissioners. speedily for some other place of refuge.

The body was in an adagneed stage of decomposition, having lain in the water for not less than two, nor more than ten years, do you think one hour and a half to discuss the vexatious law questions before an unprofessional Jury, and the mass of controdictory testimony, of perhaps twenty or thirty witnesses, to much?

The delay, if there be any arising from this course, cannot be chargeable upon the Bar, as under Judge Constable and Judge Price, sitting under the Constitution of 1851 and 1864, counsel were allowed to discuss overy question of law and fact to their and their client's heart's content, unbridled by any rules to stop them at the end of twenty minutes or an hour and ahalf, in many cases leaving the case half discussed and the poor client: unsatisfied, feeling that his lawyer did not say all that feeling that his lawyer did not say all that might have been said in his favor. Yet you argue that under the constitutions of 1851 and 1864 and under Judges Constable and Price, business was transacted

"promptly and in the main satisfactorily." Therefore on your own statement the lawyers are not the cause of the delay. I have written this because I think your article calculated to do injustice to a class that has not deserved it. As far as others are concerned they can fight their own battles.
