Seed corn, if not already selected, should be secured at once. Good sound corn will be scarce in many sections next spring. It is best preserved by hanging it up in traces.

Corn stalks should be drawn in as early as possible after the corn is husked. Let them be free from external moisture.

Root crops should be gathered and stowed away for winter use. Mangels and other beets should be first harvested, as they are most liable to injury

Parsnips may be left in the ground

all winter without injury.

Fall plowing should be continued until stopped by frost.

Wheat may still be top-dressed with manure. Many farmers have found benefit from spreading straw on the exposed parts of their wheat fields.

Harrowing wheat to kill weeds is well worth trying. It should be done when the ground is dry and on sunny days. It will not hurt the wheat, and while in our own case it did not kill all the weeds it certainly destroys a good many of them.

Surface draining should be attended to before the ground freezes.
Underdrainig in Winter can be done very economically, but it is necessary to prepare for it beforehand.

Weeds and other rubbish on the sides of stone walls and ditches can sometimes be burnt to great advantage during dry weather in November.

The rushes and coarse grass on swamp land may be burnt during a high wind. We have greatly improved the quality of the grass on such land by this treatment. Commence the work in the morning so that the fire will be all out before you leave it for the night. It is well to burn the grass near the fences before setting fire to the main body. Have a bunch or two of willows with which to beat out the fire if there is danger of the fences being burnt.

Stones can be drawn to advantage in winter; but it is necessary to loosen them now and place a stone under them to prevent them freezing fast to the carth.

Buildings should be examined and put in repair for the winter. It is a good time to paint them.

Implements and machines that will not be wanted until spring should be washed with petroleum and stowed away for the winter. Petroleum will preserve the wood and keep the iron from rusting.

Manure should be drawn together in a snug pile, and not be left scattered about the yards. It will commence to ferment, and keep on fermenting mod-erately all winter.

Potato tops should be drawn to the yards, where they will be useful as an absorbent and make manure. Leaves and muck may be gathered for bedding and manure. Stow them away under cover where they can be easily obtained as required.

Fences should be examined and repaired. A nail in time saves nine. Cellars should be thoroughly cleaned. See that the windows fit snug and that they can be easily opened and shut. Bank up for winter if necessary. Put as few vegetables in the cellar as possible, and see that you have the means of perfect ventilation. Dry earth is a capital disinfectant. corner of the cellar where it can be obtained as wanted in the winter .-Should your cellar be damp in the spring this dry earth will be useful to scatter on the floor.

Fattening pigs should be pushed forward rapidly and sold as soon as fat. Try to make them eat as much as they can digest. Give all the water they will drink. There is no truth in the idea, we think, that if pigs have access to water the pork will be soft. It is not well, however, to mix so much water with the food as to compel them to take more water than they wish.

If they have cooked food give them some dry corn as well. Young pigs must have warm, dry, and comfortable quarters and the best of food. If the floors of the pens are ding than straw, as they will more per- cial panics. fectly exclude the cold air.

Milch cows should take on more or less fat at this time. Grass is usually not very abundant or nuritious at this season. Give the cows all they will eat, night and morning, of a mixture of one quart of corn-meal to a bushel of chaffed clover hay. If they do not eat more than half a bushel each of the mixture at a meal you may double the proportion of meal to advantage.—
Moisten the hay and sprinkle the cornmeal upon it and stir until well mixed Grain is now comparatively cheap, and it is poor economy to feed straw and hay alone. With us, hay sells for more than corn-meal. Whatever agricultural writers may say to the contra ry, our animals would approve of the plan of selling hay, if need be, and buying corn-meal. We think the animals are right.

American Agriculturist GRAPE VINES.

In whatever style pruning may be done, one or more extra buds should be left on a cane that will be needed in the spring, so as to allow for the win- IMMENSE STOCK ter-killing which often happens. If possible, prune in the fall, for it is often difficult to prune early enough in the spring to prevent bleeding.

GRAPE CUTTINGS .- Save the prun ings of such varieties as it is desirable to propagate. Cut the wood into proper lengths, containing two or more buds; tie in buudles of not more than a hundred, and set in boxes of sand or light loam in the cellar. If bunches larger than a hundred cuttings are put into the earth there is danger of decay. If people generally knew the case with which grapes are propagated there would be more vineyards, or at least more families who would grow their own grapes than there are now. ROOT CUTTINGS may now be made of such plants as propagate in this way. Blackberries and raspberries are readily increased by root cuttings; the roots are to be cut into pieces two or three inches long, packed in a box with sand, and buried in spots free from water and deep enough to be out of the way of frost. Currings of currants and gooselier ries can be made and planted as long as the ground remains open. The main point to be looked out for is to pack the earth firmly around the lower ends of the cuttings. EFFECT OF LIME AND ASHES .- Lime improves poor soils, especially sandy ones, by rendering them more compact and capable of retaining fertility when applied. As a promoter of health and vigor in apple-trees, it is one of the best applications that can be made to the soil. Under its influence trees mature well, the fruit is finer, and trees are freer from disease. Lime may be applied with benefit on most soils and many plants, but is of special value to Poor, soft corn will scarcely pay for the apple-tree and strawberry plant, husking. If it is dry enough to keep in a stack or barn, better stow it away rich soils for the grosser feeding of plants, such as our native plums and

MEDICINAL. EUREKA

VINECAR BITTERS Dr. J. Walker's California Vin egar Bitters are a purely Vegetable preparation, made chiefly from the na-tive herbs found on the lower ranges of the Sierra Nevada mountains of Califorthe Sierra Nevada mountains of California, the medicinal properties of which are extracted therefrom without the use of Alcohol. The question is almost daily asked, "What is the cause of the unparalleled success of Vinigan Bittins!" Our answer is, that they remove the cause of disease, and the patient recovers his health. They are the great blood paritier and a life-giving principle, a perfect Renovator and Invigorator blood parifier and a life-giving pinterpie, a perfect Renovator and Invigorator of the system. Never before in the history of the world has a medicine been compounded possessing the remarkable qualities of Vixioan Birtrans in healing the sick of every disease man is heir to. They are a gentle Purgative as well as a Tonic, relieving Congestion or Inflammation of the Liver and Visceral Organs in Bilious Biseases.

Diseases
The properties of Dr. Walker's
Vinegar Bitters are Aperient, Diaphoretic, Carminative, Nutritions, Laxative, Diuretic, Sedative, Counter-Irritant Sudorifie, Alterative, and Anti-Billous.
Grateful Thousands proclaim VinEGAR Bitters the most wonderful Invigorant that ever sustained the sinking

In their and other abdominal viscera. In their treatment, a purgative, exerting a powerful influence upon these various organs, is essentially necessary. There is no cathartic for the purpose equal to Dr. J.
