THE BIRDS.

Town Point, Jan. 12th, 1874. E. E. EWING, Esq.-I was certainly very much pleased with the tone of your remarks on "The Birds" in your paper of the 10th instant, they are just and to the point; and it has long been my conviction that it is a duty which our legislators owe to their constituents to pass a law to provent the destruction of our insectivorous birds; and I hope that our present able rep resentatives, Mr. Groome and Mr. Knight. who so well know the wants of the agricultural population, will introduce a bill to this effect; for the furtherance of which

Respectfully, D. Z. Evans. The above letter, though not specially designed for publication, is so appropriate, contributing to agitate a subject that is of vital importance to the farmers, that we place it before the public. It also suggests a matter that it does not touch on, which is the want of concert and association among farmers. Had the farmers, clubs or associations, this important question could receive consideration, and the Legislature be petitioned for a protective law for the birds, but in the present disjointed condition of rural society, there is nobody authorized to start or manage any moment entertain the idea of a change in movement of the kind; either to procure

I returned to Elkton on the 9th instant, may see fit to send them. Beside the citizens of each school district should be consulted, which is one of the most important duties of Trustees, and which can be done in no other manner; the plan recommended in the resolution would be to adopt a "one man power," which has always proved a dangerous experiment. Some alterations might be made advantageously to the schools laws; but whatever changes may be adopted by the Legislature, let not this be one of them.
