ELKTON, MAY 16, 1874.

The Misrule in the Southern States. The Governments of some of the Southern States have been a great scandal to the country, while affording a fruitful theme to that class of politicians whose acts were the primary cause of the deplorable state of affairs complained of, and to that other class, who, failing to procure front seats in the Republican party, endeavored to set up housekeeping on their own account, and christened themselves "Liberals." That the condition of affairs in Louisianna, in South Carolina, Arkansas, and in other of the secession States to a less degree, has been deplorable, none pretend to deny or to The misgovernment in these States has been a great material loss to the country, as well as scandal to free institutions. But those who have suffered most directly from the rascality of adventurers are the most to blame for their misfortunes. As matters have turned out, it would have been much better for the property owners, had the revolting States been reduced to territories the Washington Monument Society would when the rebellion was conquered, as was recommended by Sumner or Thadeus Stephens; or the property of the leading rebels confiscated and protection guaranteed to the purchasers by the Federal Government. These measures seemed like harsh remedies at the time, but they would have been lenient compared to the ruin which has fallen upon the property of the whole State, or rather of all those States. The magnificent estates of the influential leaders in the rebellion have wasted away, and with them the whole property of these commonwealths in which they were located, has been ruined whole property of these commonwealths in the they were located, has been ruined which they were located, has been ruined the click of the click o as well. Under territorial government this deplorable condition could not have happened. Protection to life and property would have been made secure and order evolved out of chaos, by proper management .-Emigration and capital would have poured into the war-wasted States at the return of peace, had proper protection and encouragement been secured to them, and an industrious, intelligent and honest constituency would have controlled the State govcrnments. But in place of governing the late revolted States as history teaches that all

conquered States have been governed, till labor and society had been completely reorganized, a half-way policy was pursued, which neither punished the guilty or protected the innocent. The classes accustomed to rule in the days before the war. while it was thought unsafe to trust them with the control of political affairs, immediately on the restoration of peace, were left free to make their neighborhood very uncomfortable for those who were not disposed to adopt their way of thinking about the war, and its calamities; and the honest and enterprising men who went South to seek new homes and make the country what it should be, a land of plenty, intelligence and order, were met by the old settlers as enemies, ostracised, thwarted in their business and in numerous instances and stopping almost entirely that desirable class of immigrants, they but added to their own calamities. Another class speedily appeared in their midst, who went to country. This class soon received the epithet of "carpet-baggers." They asked no favors or countenance from the ancient aristocracy. These new adventurers were politicians, political adventurers, who had nothing to lose. They had a very sharply defined purpose. That purpose was to possession of the State House. Brooks country. This class soon received the epiwho is to blame so much as the men who have suffered most by these adventurers? By their own acts they effectually prevented honest settlers and men of wealth and enterprise from going among them, and thus invited the very class who despoiled them and others who deserved a better fate. While the general Government restrained the former governing class from assuming control of the State governments because it dared not trust it them, left their property in their possession and them the power to obstruct every attempt to restore the country by immigrants from the Northern States. Par better would it have been for these States had they been reduced to the condition of territories, and the estates of the leading rebels confiscated. While this course would have hardly been worse for the men thus despoiled, for they are in a vast majority of cases about as hopelessly ruined, as if confiscation had swept their property into the treasury, the great mass of comparatively innocent citizens would have been spared the miseries and want which have fallen upon them. The plunder of South Carolina, the anarchy have disgraced the nation. It was human act as the Southern people have done, and it was a deplorable piece of mismanagement, in the Federal Government not to save them from being the architects of their own ruin, by enforcing order and protecting life and property. Far better that a few of the guilty should have suffered severely, than that the whole people be brought to the condition which they have suffered and are still suffering.

THE VALUE OF COUNTRY WEEKLIES AS Adventising Mediums.—Extract from a paper read by Howard Owen, Editor of the Kennebec Journal, before the Association Kennebec Journal, before the Association of Maine Editors and Publishers, at the annual meeting held in Augusta, February 23rd, 1874: "There are small counrulary 2510, 12-4: "Incre are small country papers running along on a few hundreds circulation—not reaching a thousand—whose value as advertising mediums could not be made up by two or three thousands in the girculation of the larger. thousands in the circulation of the larger papers. They are the home, fireside papers. They are the home, fireside papers of the people; to be read and re-read by their local patrons—advertisements and all. The advertisement itself, though it may be foreign, becomes localized by appearing in the columns of the local paper—just as a strange child is adopted into a family and is each local column. seems to possess so much interest in the anthe will soon feel like a new man, or rather like a local paper, may be simply glanced at as it man who has received a new least of life, and the comes to the home in the columns of the general newspaper of wide circulation."

GENERAL NEWS.

-The Grand Army annual reunions were held at Harrisburg this week. -The wife of Governor McCook, of rado, died on Tuesday, in Washington, of pneumonia. -Ex-Senator Tombs has paid President Grant a visit of respect, and expressed much pleasure at the cordial reception given him. —A caucus of the Democrats of Connecticut legislature have decided upon Mr. Wm. W. Eaton to succeed Mr. Buckingham in the United States Senate for six years from the fourth of March next. -More crevasses are broken in the Mississippi levee, near Memphis, and great destruction has been caused by the flood. A small town, called Friar's Point, has been nearly swept awey. The second of the magnificent steamers that are being built on the Delaware for the China and Japan trade was launched from Roach's yard at Chester on Wednesday. This vessel is named the "City of Tokio," and is in all respects similar to the "City of Peking," which was launched some weeks ago. -On motion of Mr. Morrill, of Vt., the Public Buildings Committee were directed to ascertain if the material in the present unfinished Washington Monument would be sufficient for the erection of an arch, to consent to such an arrangement.

—A petition was presented by Senator Conkling from the Working-Men's Convention for an adjournment of Congress sine dis. There reasons for this request was that Congress while in session served only to keep up a state of uncertainty in financial matters, which was about as uncomplimentary a request as could well be complimentary a request as could well be made to that body of bellogged statesmen.

answering the circular, 514 sustain the veto, 408 oppose it, and 11 are non-committal. Of these sustaining the veto 295 are Republican, 217 are Democratic. Of those opposing the veto 234 are Republican and 174 Democratic. Indiana, Missouri and Kansas are the only States where a majority of the papers oppose the veto.

-The first instalment of Mennonite emigration from Russia to the United States was landed at Baltimore on Wednesday, by the steamship Hermann from Bremen. There are 185 of the emigrants, and they will settle in Dakota or Nebraska. They came from the vicinity of Odessa, and appreciate that the 23 000 Menuposite in represent that the 25,000 Mennonites in Southern Russia are anxious to emigrate. The Russian Government is throwing every obstacle in the way of these industrious and comparatively wealthy people leaving the country, but they are determined to forsake a land where they will be complete to do military duty.

—Two members of the Yellowstone expedition have returned to Bozeman, Mon-tana, and the rest are on their way there. The command penetrated nearly to the Tongue river. They were continually harassed by the Indians from the 1st to the 26th of April, and fought four battles 26th of April, and fought four battles with the savages, who attacked them in bands of from one hundred to a thousand. In these conflicts they had one man killed and two wounded, and they report that 100 Indians were killed. They report that rich mines exist in the Big Horn Mountains, but the vigilance of the Sioux prevented any prospecting.

—There was more fighting at Little Rock

-There was more aghting at Little Rock on Tuesday. A company of Brooksites went to the Cairo and Fulton Railroad to their business and in numerous instances robbed and murdered. This spirit speedily put a stop to the immigration of a desirable class of citizens, who honestly proposed to build up and restore the waste wrought by the war and the shiftless system of slave labor which existed prior to the rebellion. While successful in driving away the detested Yankee strangers who had come to benefit the helpless people, and stopping almost entirely that desirable ed to their respective quarters. It is stated that the Brooksites lost eight in killed and wounded, while only three Baxterites were wounded. An excited crowd of peostay but not to develop the resources of the country. PURE GROUND BONE.

To the Experimental Furm Club. West Grove. Pa. GENTLEMEN:-I herewith submit you a report upon the fertilizers sent to me by J. I.

No. 1. Waring's Pure Ground Bone. This is exactly what it purports to be, and is entirely free from adulteration. It con-Bone Phosphate of Lime, . . 45.78; 20.97 P. 2; O. 5. Organic and Volatile Matter, - . 37.91, and 3.281 Nitro.

The most satisfactory guarantee of the purity of our Ground Bone, is that our mill is open at all times to the thorough in-

Some farmers have thought it necessary to purchase other fertilizers, fearing that Ground Bone is too slow in its action. The general experience of our customers, however, seems to show that when ground as fine as ours is prepared, it acts with satisfactory promptness. The following letter from a well known and reliable citizen, of Lancaster county, Pa., which appeared in the Oxford Press of 12th Mo. 3d, 1873, without any agency on our part, is to the point:

Futtor, Laucatter course, 11th Mo., 2d, 1873.

Entrop Prins:—As you wished a report about my wheat crop of 1873. I will give the following: From one acre the yield was 46 dezen alreaves, which, when threshed, yielded 50 tashed and 12 pounds of where the control of the acre too pounds of Waring's howe had been harrowed in, and 13 touched and the wheat drilled. It was semewhat injuried by fly in the fall of 1872. One acre alongside the above, and treated in the same manner, accept without the bone, yielded 22 dozen, making 16 busheds and 8 founds the thacer. Distreme in favor of Waring's ground bone, in my experience, of 20 busheds and 4 libe, to the acre. By delayting price for bone it leaves a gain of $12.0 per acre, when wheat is $1.20, in favor of jutting on the bone. These experiments we have tried for our own and others' advantage. We have tried other fertilizers and received but little in return for our great outley.
