Severe Fall.—Our citizen, William King, line-man of the Western Union Telegraph Company, had a severe fall from a ladder: at Nottingham a few days ago. He was at the Lop of a sixteen foot ladder, taking the lines from the top of a building, when the ladder Lurned and threw him headlong to the ground. He alighted close to where Joseph Smith was digging a post hole, who threw out his arms and caught Mr. King's head, thereby preventing it from striking the ground and probably saving him from fatal injury. Mr. King alighted on his shoulders and the shock prostrated him for some time. He soon after recovered sufficiently to walk about, and is now nearly well.—Oxford Press. Bequest of Books.—In the will of the late Edmund Physick, of Philadelphia, admitted to probate lately, is the following bequest:—"I give and bequeath to the Library of Nottingham Preparative Meeting of Friends, my large volume of Isaac Pennington's works, with all my other religious books, desiring that any of my relatives who may desire to read them for instruction on their way heavenwards may have access to them under the regulations of said library."

Bequest of Books.—In the will of the stood that the cordon of difficulties was gradually, but surely closing about him, so that at no distant day he must either, by coin determined effort, break away and become a fugitive or succumb to them; and on the day mentioned he chose the former step.

He is reported having been seen in Baltimore and Wilmington since the uncerimonious leave taking of his friends and of said library."

family in this town, but these reports could not be traced to any reliable source, and his Elkton friends. A letter was left in formal good-bye to them, giving his reasons for going away, which were, as well as we could ascertain, acts he had been compelled, resorted to the hazardous expedient of using his father's name on notes in paya cash payment and a renewal of these obligations with similar paper. This thing of course must have an end sooner or later, and generally a disasterous winding up. The panic and hard times which have made shipwreck of so many mercantile men, brought the climax to our Elkton financier, and he walked off as stated, leaving the creditors to close out the store. William McClelland, Sr., the father of our subject, the lot was closed out on Monday and the room locked up. The defaulting and decamping merchant it seems kept a journal, in which he noted down among current events, the parties' names with whom he had pecuniary trans actions, and who helped him over difficulties by shaving his notes and other obliga tions. On these friends in time of sore need, we learn he reflects in his journal with considerable asperity. This is one of the matter of course results under all similar circumstances, although it is self-evident that if the men, who are thus anathamatised, refused to advance anything, and take the risks at a higher per cent that undoubted securities are commonly nego
