THE MARYLAND PUBLIC SHOOOL LAW. Some important alterations in the Public School law were made by the last Legislature, which many ardent friends of public education deem unwise, and which may result in defeating the object of the law to a considerable extent. The most important tactics they are employing prove that they of these changes is the fourth section of the third chapter. The clause reads: "They" compulsory retirement, and if they are defeated in their object, it will only be (the State Board of Education) "shall enact because of an excess of that quality which by-laws for the administration of the Public School System not at variance with this Act; and shall have the power to suspend or and shall have the power to suspend or the public business of the power to suspend or the pow senoisystem not at variance with this Act, and shall have the power to suspend or remove any examiner or teacher who may be found inefficient in or incompetent for the discharge of duties assigned him," Act.

In order to show the conflict of authority which this interpolated clause has created in the law it is only necessary to quote part of section 5, chapter 4, entitled, Duties of the County School Commissioners.

Among the prescribed duties of the County School Commissioners.

Among the prescribed duties of the County School Commissioners is the election of "a person not a member of the Board, who shall serve as Secretary, Treasurer and Examiner." These clauses, it will be seen, have the elements of strife and dissatisfaction in them to a very dangerous degree.

While the County Board is given the sole power of appointing the Examiner, the State Board may remove him for causes which they are the sole judges of. The State Board of Education consists of the Governor, Principal of the State Normal School, and four ether wareness elected. State Board of Education consists of the Governor, Principal of the State Normal School, and four other persons selected cases in the desert-wasted South; and in from among the Presidents and Examiners of the several County Boards. The Govorth the State has two much other husof the several County Boards. The Governor of the State has two much other bus- of the down-trodden Southern white, wrote, iness on his hands to devote his time to the Public Schools, and the four persons sclected by him from the Examiners and Presidents of the several School Boards have very meagre opportunities of know- a ing much about the Public schools beyond their own counties; and thus the Principal and who have never been suspected of dis-honesty or untruth, the negroes are very grossly intimidated. The Kuklux faction still exist as a kind of invisible empire." Still, according to Mr. Hill, the cup of Southern, and particularly of Georgian, misery is full; only one additional calam-ity is reserved in the store house of Con-gressional legislation, and that is the civil rights bill. of the State Normal School being the act. ing man of the State Board, shapes the policy and exercises almost exclusive control in the matter of the Public Schools, consequently is in a position to exercise almost unlimited powers over the schools of the State. He may at will dismiss examiners and teachers, and make by-laws to control every County Board in the State.

The power to dismiss officers at will, who are and must be appointed by a separate and distinct power is one of the most dangerous conflicts of authority that can be devised, and the moment the State Board or the acting member of that Board, the Principal of the State Normal School attempts to exercise this dangerous prerogations.

It is the threat of the spoiled child or like the suicidal mutterings of the mortier, Brigham Young was enabled to find the lake, near the shores of which he founded a great city. mills as adequate compensation. Mr. Hinckley asserts that the rates they are paid by the department is less than they receive for the lowest grade of freight, the should then have a higher opinion of such as bricks and pig iron carried on platform cars. He proposes to continue the postal cars on the road till the first of January if the department will allow them now than at any time since the close of the and after the first of August, if the Government continues to use the cars, it will be understood by the Railroad Company that their terms are agreed to, which arrangement is to continue till the first of next January. If Mr. Jewell, the newly appointed Postmaster General, after he arrives and takes possession of the office, desires to open the question again, President Hinckley signifies his willingness to do so. The Railroad Company demand thirteen mills per linial foot of cars used per mile as an adequate compensation for their services in transporting the mails.

President Hinckley also suggests that the department advertise for proposals for carrives and the proposal carrives and the close of the state and placed on the statements contained in t the rate named by the Senate committee, and after the first of August, if the Government continues to use the care, it will rehabilitation, while on the other hand, the department advertise for proposals for carrying the mails between Baltimore and Philadelphia and guarantees that they will be received. It is claimed that other roads receive much higher compensation for transporting the mails than the P., W. &. B. Company.

THE BEECHER-TILTON SCANDAL.-This greatest scandal of the age is still in a blessed state of uncertainty; and the plot seems to thicken every day, as new characters are introduced. Mr. Tilton has been parties, finds a species of revenge in ridisued for libel by one of his friends for the purpose of bringing the matter before the which are constantly issuing from State Courts, where the testimony can be sifted, and National Committees.
