Mr. Donaldson, about 4:30, suggested Air. Donaidson, about 4:30, suggested that as it would be necessary to leave one of the party now and then, in order to make the trip as long as possible, the journalists should draw lots to see who should get out should draw lots to see who should get out first. Numbers were written on separate slips of paper, tossed into a hat, shaken, and following is the order in which they were drawn: Herald, 1; World, 2; Sun, 3; Graphic, 4; Tribune, 5. At 5:11 the bal-loon had sunk to an altitude of 250 feet. Prof. Donaldson explained that the sinking was caused by the setting of the sun. The was caused by the setting of the sain. The drag-rope, 350 feet long, the letting out and pulling in of which was like throwing out and pulling in ballast, trailed along the ground. It cracked branches of trees like pipe stems, tore boards from fences, left a narrow path through fields of grain which

At 6:20 the rope caught and the balloon was made to descend, and the party landed form house and yet some milk. near a farm house and got some milk. The balloon ascended again at 6:52, crossed the Piermont branch of the Eric railroad, in the township of Ramapo, and landed on a farm in the township near the Summer residence of Charlotte Thompson, the ac-tress, who was visited. She accepted readily an invitation to ascend, and in half an hour the party were off again with Miss Thompson in company. After going about two or three miles she was landed, and returned home in her carriage which had followed.

At 10 r. M. the air-ship was over the Hudson, opposite West Point, and only 40 feet above the ground. During the night only eight pounds of ballast were thrown out.

At 5:24 A. M. on Saturday the grappling hook was thrown out and in a few seconds the party were landed on the farm of Wm. Cooms, in Greenport, Columbia county, four miles from Hudson. The Graphic, Herald, and World representatives then got out and left for Hudson. The anchor was then loosened, and in three minutes the balloon was 2,200 feet in the air. At 9 clock it was 8,300 feet, nearly a mile and three-quarters. The sun was very hot, the thermometer registering 70°. The balloon drifted slowly southward towards New York. BALTIMORE HORSE AND MULE MARKET. such matters state that they have never known the horse and mule market of this city to be so quiet as it is at present. The quietness has prevailed for severil weeks, and there is nothing to indicate a change for the better. Last week the market brightened up for a few days, but as soon as it became generally known that there was a demand for horses, several shipments arrived from the West, and the market resumed its old form. The arrivals during the past week, although not large, have been greatly in excess of the demand, and consequently the market centinues to decline. The horses that have arrived are as a general thing good, and are held at moderate prices. The sales have been from the prices low. Indeed, the market is so dull that no good average scale of prices can be given. The following is as near an average as it is possible to give, and even then the prices quoted would very likely fall lower if the dealers could find good cash buyers. Carriage horses are held at prices ranging from $1,000 to $2,000 per span, according to atyle, color and speeds.
