Doings About Town

A sleety sidewalk's got a minstrel troupe skinned a half-dozen city blocks when it comes to real enjoyment. There's nothing like it. It's a combination of skating rink, bowling alley and ice pond. You take one step forward and slide back two, and the only way to reach your destination is to turn around and start in the opposite direction. Centreville certainly had its share of the sleety-sidewalk combination last week, and to watch a group of pedestrians wending their way carefully down the different thoroughfares was nothing if not exasperatingly funny. One dignified gentleman, with a very pompous tread and couldn't-fall-if-I-wanted-to air, would suddenly begin a wild conglomeration of gesticulations, followed by a double sailor's horn-pipe jig backwards, culminating in a gentle sprawl in the street. The accompanying cut gives a better description than would a volume of words. And thus the fun and falling went on. But finally the sleet disappeared after nearly forty-eight hours' duration, and Centreville "wept not, neither did it moan."

Only a few more... before baseball weather.

"The course of true love never runs smoothly," but when it receives such a terrific jolt all at once, then we're liable to lose faith in it altogether, is the experience of a dusky maiden, of Centreville, of a rather uncertain age. Lizzie Thomas is a colored domestic employed in the home of a family in Centreville, and some weeks ago she became attracted by the face of an inmate in the Centreville jail. "Love will find a way," and so in a few days the colored man was living on the fat of the land, smoking the best cigarettes, chewing the best tobacco, and faring like a prince from the lavish hand of the smitten one. Affection ripened into more sacred feelings, and the man promised that as soon as he was set free he would immediately hunt the services of a minister. The happy bride-to-be, with due preparation arranged her trousseau, and finally the wedding day arrived. So did the bride, but the groom did not—at least he has not yet. And now the brown-haired maiden is wondering whether her fiancee has not with...

things not worth the trouble, over griefs that do not pay; now we have a chance to borrow, something genuine in nature—let us worry o'er this comet, starting on the job today. Other wise in cultured phrases we'll ask to go to blame, we're sweating over Halley and his comet with its tail. So Centreville cease to jolly, and all be melancholy, let us talk of naught but Halley, let us show this muley comet that a people doomed can wait!

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is not a common, every-day cough mixture. It is a meritorious remedy for all the troublesome and dangerous complications resulting from cold in the head, throat, chest or lungs. Sold by all dealers.

Runaway at Funeral. While services were being conducted over the remains of the late Col. Charles H. Thompson, at McDaniels, Talbot county, Friday of last week, the horses attached to the hearse became frightened and ran from McDaniels to St. Michaels, a distance of five miles. The body had not been placed in the hearse and the funeral was only delayed thereby.

The body of Col. Thompson was buried beside that of his foster-daughter, Edith May Thompson Woodfill, who was murdered last June by James "Bob" Eastman.

Pneumonia Follows a Cold but never follows the use of Foley's Honey and Tar, which stops the cough, heals the lungs, and expels the cold from your system. Take at first sign of a cold and avoid a dangerous illness. Sold by all dealers.

Has Women Suffrage Bill. Senator Dodson, of Talbot county, is preparing to introduce a bill to enable the women of Easton to vote in municipal elections. The Mayor and City Council of Easton decided to ask for the necessary legislation after a large number of the most prominent women of the town had presented their views to the local governing body, and there seems to be an overwhelming sentiment among the women of the town for equal participation in the direction of municipal affairs.

The extra vitality required to digest the cow's winter foods is drawn from her milk secreting organs, weakening them and cutting down the milk supply. Fairfield's Milk Producer makes winter foods digestible, strengthens all organs and increases milk in quantity and quality.
