Doings About Town

A sleety sidewalk's got a minstrel troupe skinned a half-dozen city blocks when it comes to real enjoyment. There's nothing like it. It's a combination of skating rink, howling alley and ice pond. You take one step forward and slide back two, and the only way to reach your destination is to turn around and start in the opposite direction. Centreville certainly had its share of the sleety-sidewalk combination last week, and to watch a group of pedestrians wending their way carefully down the different thoroughfares was nothing if not extraordinarily funny. One dignified gentleman, with a very pompous tread and couldn't fall if I wanted to air, would suddenly begin a wild zig-zag.

eration of gesticulations, followed by a double sailor's horn-pipe jig backwards, culminating in a gentle sprawl in the street. The accompanying cut gives a better description than would a volume of words. And thus the fun and falling went on! But finally the sleet disappeared after nearly forty-eight hours' duration, and Centreville "went out, neither did it mean."

Only a few more... weather.

"The course of true love never runs smoothly," but when it receives such a terrific jolt all at once, then we're liable to lose faith in it altogether, is the experience of a rather uncertain age, Lizzie Thomas is a colored domestic employed in the home of a family in Centreville, and some weeks ago she became attracted by the face of an inmate in the Centreville jail. "Love will find a way," and so in a few days the colored man was living on the face of the land, smoking the best cigars, eating, chewing the best tobacco, and being like a Prince from the ivory band of the smitten one. Affection ripened into more sacred feelings, and the man promised that as soon as he was set free he would immediately hunt the services of a minister. The happy bride-to-be, with due preparation arranged her trousseau, and finally the wedding day arrived. So did the bride, but the groom did not—at least he has not yet. And now the bride has decided to wonder whether her fiance has not been...

things not worth the trouble, over griefs that do not pay; now we have a chance to borrow, something general in nature—let us worry o'er it's come! starting on the job today. (Other was a) cultured phrases we'll ask to go to. Name, we're sweating over 'falling and' via comet with its fall. So Centreville came to jolly, and all be merrily. Let us talk of naught but Holey, let us show this 'muley comet that a people dressed can wait!

Runaway at Funeral. While services were being conducted over the remains of the late Col. Charles H. Thompson, at McDowell, Talbot county, Friday of last week, the horse attached to the hearse became frightened and ran from McDowell to St. Michaels, a distance of five miles. The body had not been placed in the hearse and the funeral was only delayed thereby.

The body of Col. Thompson was buried beside that of his foster-daughter, Edith May Thompson Woodill, who was murdered last June by James "Red" Eastman.

Has Women Suffrage Bill. Senator Dodson, of Talbot county, is preparing to introduce a bill to enable the women of Easton to vote in municipal elections. The Mayor and City Council of Easton decided to ask for the necessary legislation after a large number of the most prominent women of the town had presented their views to the local governing body, and there seems to be an overwhelming sentiment among the women of the town for equal participation in the direction of municipal affairs.
