Crude thoughts as from the Editorial Department Evening Review.

A column dedicated Mothers as they Home Circle of Evening Review.

Mind Your Own Business.

These are just the words we looked through "Web Un-bridged" we could not find four words that expressed their meaning as these. Believe the four words were made direct reference to the grumbler-log mischiefmakers.

People who never mind their own business are very much a class of animals as theorems, selfish dogs, that are always barking and napping some. We wonder if they would relate a lecture? We will ask the few questions just to find out if you think the world and people in it will live and prosper without the tremendous anxiety, carry on your shoulders by keeping an eye on everything and everything in the whole neighborhood and all the sides? Can't Mrs. A. mean sweet cake without you lying all night for fear there is going to be a wedding and you will not invited? Can't Jennie have a new gown, but you must immediately see, know the price, and for what social occasion it was purchased or die of curiosity? Can't I get it and his wife go by but you'll be going to see somebody if have slighted you?

Did God make you and on purpose to superintend his universe, and everybody's affairs as assume the control of the free will? He gave men? Is this the pipe and plan for existence and duty, to forever be meddling with somebody's business? It gives us that tired feeling to think of the great some people take to gather the smallest item of news. They leave their own garden to grow for a week, while they are trying to build up before everybody the fee they pull from their neighbors. They do everything but mind their own business. They never speak of their own faults or follies. No indeed; the time the whole town is criticizing and talking about is their own good work.

People who don't mind their own business bring more misery into families, societies and churches than everything else combined. They turn the pleasant and peaceful stream of good will into a loathsome pool. Minding your own business will make peaceful homes, happy neighbors and a sweet conscience that will make us know why Jesus loved the peace-makers, and said of them: Blessed are the peace-makers, for they shall be called the children of God. Now this is plain talk, but if the shoe does not fit you then do not put it on, but should it fit the longer you wear it the better it will be for you and the community.

GOOD COUNSEL

No young men can hope to rise in society or perform worthily his part in life without a fair moral character. The basis of such a character is a virtuous, fixed sense of moral obligation, sustained and invigorated by the fear and love of God. The youth who possesses such a character can be trusted. Integrity, justice, benevolence, truth are not with him words without meaning. He feels and knows their sacred import and aims in the tenor of his life to exemplify the virtues they express. Such a man has decision of character; he knows what is right and is firm in pursuing it; he thinks and acts for himself, and is not to be made the tool of unprincipled and time-serving politicians to do the dirty work of party. Such a man has true worth of character; his life is a blessing to himself, to his family, to society and to the world, and he is pointed out to future generations as a proper example for the rising youth to emulate.

Correct Speaking

All young people should acquire, in killed.

There is not an ache or pain that can be reached externally that cannot be "killed" in a few minutes by the use of Elliott's Emollient Oil Liniment. Rub it on the affected part and the pain will soon disappear. Full half pint bottle, 25c.

early life, the habits of correct speaking and writing, and to stand on, as early as possible, any use of slang words and phrases. The longer you live the more difficult the language will be; and if the golden age of youth, the proper season for the acquisition of language, be passed in its abuse, the unfortunate victim, if neglected, is very properly doomed to talk slang for life.

Money is not necessary to procure this education. Every man has it in his power. He has no rely to use the language which he hears instead of the slang which he hears to form his taste from the best of speakers, and best poets in the country; to treasure up choice phrases in his memory and habituate himself to their use, avoiding at the same time that pedantic precision and bombast which show the weakness of vain ambition rather than the polish of an educated mind.

Two Ways.

There are two ways of starting on life's journey. One is to begin where your parents are ending—magnificent mansions, splendid furniture, and an elegant turnout. The other is to begin a little nearer where father and mother—of blessed memory—began. You see you can go up as easily and gracefully, if events show it would be safe, but it would be trying and awkward to come down. And it costs much now to live. And business fluctuates and health is uncertain and temptations from the side of pride are strong, and many a young man who does not mean to be extravagant, has been led along and rather than face the position and descent manfully, has tried to keep up by embezzlement and been called a swindler. Our prisons are rapidly being filled by those who make the mistake of being gliding at the top of the ladder.

Married Men

There is an expression in the face of a good married man who has a good wife that a bachelor face can not possess. It is indescribable. He is a little nearer the angels than the handsomest young fellow living. You can see that his broad breast is a pillow for somebody's head, and that little finger pulled his wife's good married man. It is only the good married man that leaves you an example one that leaves you an example. The good one can protect all his family. He is generally agreeable to all, and yet never leave a doubt on any mind that there is a problem little woman at home worth all the world to him.

Rabbits and partridges have just one week longer in which to enjoy the freedom and solitude of their native haunts and then the stillness will be broken by the crack of the sportsman's rifle and gun. The law for shooting this game expires November 15th. Rabbits are reported unusually plentiful and while there is not an abundance of partridges there is at least enough to afford good sport.

KIDNEY TROUBLES

The kidneys are essential organs for keeping the body free from impurities. If they should fail to work death would ensue in very short time.

Inflammation or irritation caused by some feminine derangement may spread to some extent to the kidneys and affect them. The cause can be so far removed by using Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound that the trouble will disappear.

When a woman is troubled with pain or weight in loins, backache, swelling of the limbs or feet, swelling under the eyes, an uneasy, tired feeling in the region of the kidneys, she should lose no time in commencing treatment with
