Predicted His Own Death. 'I believe I am going to die before I can light the lamp in the light house and see that it stays lighted' These were the words of Joseph H. Benson, keeper of the Bombay Hook light along the Delaware Bay, who returned to the little house back of the government reservation, she found her husband's property true—he was dead. Benson was stricken with a mild stroke of heart trouble on Friday afternoon, but he attended to the light as usual. He was 78 years old and had been keeper of the Bombay Hook light for 54 years. He had 12 children.
