> About Razors .- Barbers often assert that razors get tired of shaving, and that they will perform satisfactorily if permitted to rest for a time. It has been found by microscopic examination that the tired razor, from long stropping by ments of the very Latest Styles and most Perfect the same hand and in the same direction, has the ultimate fibres of its surface or edge all arranged in one direction, like the edge of a piece of cut velvet; but after a month's rest these fibres rearrange in all departments of their business, which is themselves heterogeneously, crossing each other and presenting a saw-like edge, each fibre supporting its fellow, and hence cutting the beard instead of being forced down flat without cutting, as when laid Conventions.

(COMMUNICATED). A convention (Latin convenio) "to meet to have a talk one with another," (Ciccro), (Indian, "a big talk," a meeting of chiefs in council) is a meeting of select men of one party to consult together, to nominate candidates for office, &c., &c. There are three requisites, "Three unities," 'Locus, Tempus et Sumo," (Plautus) Place, Time and Talk. Ours, not being a pious democracy, a pure republic, and mass meetings being only for the purposes of confirmation, not admitting of poses of confirmation, not admitting of full and free talk and consultation, we must resort to the representative system. must resort to the representative system.
