

Professional.

EDWIN LINTHICUM,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
Office—Nearly opposite the Court House,
ELLIOTT CITY, MD.
Nov. 27, '69-ly.

HENRY E. WOOTTON,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
Office—Nearly opposite the Court House,
ELLIOTT CITY, MD.
Nov. 27, '69-ly.

IRVING DUFFY, ATTORNEY AND
COUNSELLOR AT LAW,
No. 31 St. Paul Street,
BALTIMORE,
Practices in all the Courts of the State; in the U. S. Courts, in Admiralty and Bankruptcy.
Particular attention given to collection of Mercantile Claims in the lower counties of Maryland.
Jan. 29, '70-ly.

ALEXANDER H. HOBBS,
COUNSELLOR AT LAW,
Attends all the Courts in Baltimore City and the Circuit Court for Howard County, and will be at the Court House in Elliott City the First and Third Tuesday of every month (Orphans Court days),
Mar. 6, '75-ly.

I. Thomas Jones,
ATTORNEY AND COUNSELLOR AT LAW,
No. 32 St. Paul St., Baltimore,
Practices in the Courts of Baltimore City and Howard and adjoining Counties.
Can be found at the Court House in Elliott City on the FIRST AND THIRD TUESDAY OF EVERY MONTH.
Dec. 12, '74-ly.

Wm. A. Hammond,
ATTORNEY AND COUNSELLOR AT LAW,
Can be found at the Court House, Elliott City, on the FIRST AND THIRD TUESDAY OF EACH MONTH.
OFFICE—29 St. Paul St., near Lexington, Baltimore.
July 27, '72-ly.

J. Harwood Watkins,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
ELLIOTT CITY.
OFFICE—At the Court House,
Sept. 12, '74-ly.

JOHN G. ROGERS,
ATTORNEY AT LAW
AND SOLICITOR IN CHANCERY,
Will Practice in Howard, Anne Arundel and the adjoining counties.
Special attention given to Collections, and Remittances made promptly.
Office—In the Court House, Elliott City.
Jan. 6, '72-ly.

J. D. McGUIRE,
Attorney at Law,
Elliott City, Md.
Office Two Doors West of Leishear's Store.
Oct. 7, '76-ly.

DR. JAMES E. SHREVE,
DENTIST,
(Graduate of Baltimore College of Dental Surgery).
Having bought out the good will of Dr. E. C. Cudde, I tender my professional services to his patrons and the public generally at the office formerly occupied by him,
MAIN STREET,
THREE DOORS BELOW LEISHEAR'S STORE.
April 21, '77-ly.

DR. SAMUEL A. KEENE,
ELLIOTT CITY, MD.
Having permanently located himself at Elliott City, I am prepared to practice his Profession in this City and County.
He may be found at his place of business at all hours, except on Wednesdays, engaged. Slight calls promptly attended to.
Oct. 3, '69-ly.

DR. W. C. WATKINS,
Near CLARKSVILLE, Howard County,
Respectfully tenders his Professional Services to the citizens of Howard County.
He will be found at his office when not professionally engaged.
May 1, '69-ly.

WILLIAM B. PETER,
Notary Public,
Real Estate and Collection Agency, and
GENERAL INSURANCE AGENCY,
ELLIOTT CITY, MD.
Estates attended to; Rents and Bills Collected. Money procured on Securities. Purchases and Sales of City and Country Property effected. Property Leased. Money Invested in Ground Rents, Mortgages, &c., &c., &c.
Free of Charge. All kinds of Property Insured at Lowest Rates.
MONEY TO LOAN, at Low Rates, on first Class Securities, in Sums from $1000 to $10,000.
June 24, '71-ly.

Baltimore.

PERSONAL.
NOAH WALKER & CO.,
THE CELEBRATED
CLOTHIERS OF BALTIMORE, MARYLAND,
Announce the introduction of a plan of ordering

CLOTHING & UNDERWEAR
BY LETTER,
to which they call your special attention. They will send on application their improved and accurate FITTING FOR SLIMEST MEASURE and full line of samples from their immense stock of

CLOTHS, CASSIMERES, COATINGS, SHIRTINGS, &c., &c., thus enabling parties in any part of the country to order their Clothing and Shirts direct from them, with the certainty of receiving garments of the very latest style and most perfect Fit.

Goods ordered will be sent by Express to any part of the country.
As well known to the Southern States, they have for forty years past been in all departments of their business, which is a substantial guarantee as to the character of the Goods they will send out. A large and well assorted stock of always on hand, together with a full line of FURNISHING GOODS, including all the latest Novelties in demand at POPULAR PRICES.

READY-MADE CLOTHING

BOYS' & YOUTHS'
READY-MADE CLOTHING from three years up a specialty.
When goods are sent per Express C. O. D. There will be no collection charge on amount of $2 and over.

NOAH WALKER & CO.
Manufacturers and Dealers in Men's and Boys' Clothing and Furnishing Goods, either ready-made or made to order.
165 and 167 Baltimore Street,
BALTIMORE, MD.
April 1, '70-ly.

Francis W. Plummer,
Good Wood, Smooth Work,
Fine Finish!
PRICES TO SUIT ALL!
SEND FOR CATALOGUE OF FURNITURE!
WALNUT, OAK, ASH, POPLAR!

S. S. LINTHICUM,
LUMBER DEALER,
Cor. Pratt & Green Sts.,
BALTIMORE, MD.,
KEEPS CONSTANTLY ON HAND ALL KINDS OF BUILDING MATERIAL,
Lumber, Shingles, Palings,
Laths, &c.,
ALSO DOOR FRAMES, SASH,
BLINDS, &c.,
Furnished at Manufacturers' Prices.
All orders promptly attended to, and delivered at Depot free of charge.
July 18, '71-ly.

JOHN NICKLAS,
WATCHMAKER & JEWELER
289 W. Baltimore St., cor. of Paca,
BALTIMORE, MD.
PRACTICAL WATCHMAKER.
Offers for sale, at Reduced Prices, Gold and Silver American and Swiss Watches, Gold Jewelry, Sterling Silver Ware, Triple Plated Ware, Clocks, Table Cutlery, &c., &c.
Particular attention paid to the Repairing of Watches and the Manufacture of Hair Jewelry.
April 16, '70-ly.

JOHN NICKLAS,
WATCHMAKER & JEWELER
289 W. Baltimore St., cor. of Paca,
BALTIMORE, MD.
PRACTICAL WATCHMAKER.
Offers for sale, at Reduced Prices, Gold and Silver American and Swiss Watches, Gold Jewelry, Sterling Silver Ware, Triple Plated Ware, Clocks, Table Cutlery, &c., &c.
Particular attention paid to the Repairing of Watches and the Manufacture of Hair Jewelry.
April 16, '70-ly.

JOHN NICKLAS,
WATCHMAKER & JEWELER
289 W. Baltimore St., cor. of Paca,
BALTIMORE, MD.
PRACTICAL WATCHMAKER.
Offers for sale, at Reduced Prices, Gold and Silver American and Swiss Watches, Gold Jewelry, Sterling Silver Ware, Triple Plated Ware, Clocks, Table Cutlery, &c., &c.
Particular attention paid to the Repairing of Watches and the Manufacture of Hair Jewelry.
April 16, '70-ly.

JOHN NICKLAS,
WATCHMAKER & JEWELER
289 W. Baltimore St., cor. of Paca,
BALTIMORE, MD.
PRACTICAL WATCHMAKER.
Offers for sale, at Reduced Prices, Gold and Silver American and Swiss Watches, Gold Jewelry, Sterling Silver Ware, Triple Plated Ware, Clocks, Table Cutlery, &c., &c.
Particular attention paid to the Repairing of Watches and the Manufacture of Hair Jewelry.
April 16, '70-ly.

JOHN NICKLAS,
WATCHMAKER & JEWELER
289 W. Baltimore St., cor. of Paca,
BALTIMORE, MD.
PRACTICAL WATCHMAKER.
Offers for sale, at Reduced Prices, Gold and Silver American and Swiss Watches, Gold Jewelry, Sterling Silver Ware, Triple Plated Ware, Clocks, Table Cutlery, &c., &c.
Particular attention paid to the Repairing of Watches and the Manufacture of Hair Jewelry.
April 16, '70-ly.

JOHN NICKLAS,
WATCHMAKER & JEWELER
289 W. Baltimore St., cor. of Paca,
BALTIMORE, MD.
PRACTICAL WATCHMAKER.
Offers for sale, at Reduced Prices, Gold and Silver American and Swiss Watches, Gold Jewelry, Sterling Silver Ware, Triple Plated Ware, Clocks, Table Cutlery, &c., &c.
Particular attention paid to the Repairing of Watches and the Manufacture of Hair Jewelry.
April 16, '70-ly.

JOHN NICKLAS,
WATCHMAKER & JEWELER
289 W. Baltimore St., cor. of Paca,
BALTIMORE, MD.
PRACTICAL WATCHMAKER.
Offers for sale, at Reduced Prices, Gold and Silver American and Swiss Watches, Gold Jewelry, Sterling Silver Ware, Triple Plated Ware, Clocks, Table Cutlery, &c., &c.
Particular attention paid to the Repairing of Watches and the Manufacture of Hair Jewelry.
April 16, '70-ly.

JOHN NICKLAS,
WATCHMAKER & JEWELER
289 W. Baltimore St., cor. of Paca,
BALTIMORE, MD.
PRACTICAL WATCHMAKER.
Offers for sale, at Reduced Prices, Gold and Silver American and Swiss Watches, Gold Jewelry, Sterling Silver Ware, Triple Plated Ware, Clocks, Table Cutlery, &c., &c.
Particular attention paid to the Repairing of Watches and the Manufacture of Hair Jewelry.
April 16, '70-ly.

JOHN NICKLAS,
WATCHMAKER & JEWELER
289 W. Baltimore St., cor. of Paca,
BALTIMORE, MD.
PRACTICAL WATCHMAKER.
Offers for sale, at Reduced Prices, Gold and Silver American and Swiss Watches, Gold Jewelry, Sterling Silver Ware, Triple Plated Ware, Clocks, Table Cutlery, &c., &c.
Particular attention paid to the Repairing of Watches and the Manufacture of Hair Jewelry.
April 16, '70-ly.

JOHN NICKLAS,
WATCHMAKER & JEWELER
289 W. Baltimore St., cor. of Paca,
BALTIMORE, MD.
PRACTICAL WATCHMAKER.
Offers for sale, at Reduced Prices, Gold and Silver American and Swiss Watches, Gold Jewelry, Sterling Silver Ware, Triple Plated Ware, Clocks, Table Cutlery, &c., &c.
Particular attention paid to the Repairing of Watches and the Manufacture of Hair Jewelry.
April 16, '70-ly.

JOHN NICKLAS,
WATCHMAKER & JEWELER
289 W. Baltimore St., cor. of Paca,
BALTIMORE, MD.
PRACTICAL WATCHMAKER.
Offers for sale, at Reduced Prices, Gold and Silver American and Swiss Watches, Gold Jewelry, Sterling Silver Ware, Triple Plated Ware, Clocks, Table Cutlery, &c., &c.
Particular attention paid to the Repairing of Watches and the Manufacture of Hair Jewelry.
April 16, '70-ly.

The Journal of Apeia has been busy in registering the burial places of all the Bonapartes. The record is a curious one in some respects, though why it is compiled at this particular moment may be a matter of doubt. The original family vault was at Treviso; next to it came a grave in the Capital of Tuscany; afterward an emigration to Corsica; but the most curious are the records of the Bonapartes' parents in the cemetery of the Invalides, Paris. At St. Louis were interred Louis, who died in 1816, and Napoleon Charles, his son, died in 1831. At Viterbo lie the ashes of Lucien, who "departed this life in 1810," and at Florence those of Joseph (1811), Pauline (1825), Caroline (1830), Charlotte (1830), Jerome Napoleon, son of Jerome (1816); Catherine of Wurtemberg, Jerome's second wife; and Julie, wife of Joseph. The "King of Rome" found a tomb at Vienna, as did Charles Jerome and Cardinal Fesch. One of the Bonapartes, Achille Murat, left his bones in Florida; and Murat himself had his grave dug by a gang of Calabrian assassins. Josephine reposes beneath the pavement of the little Church of Incel, at Malmaison, where her husband and she were buried. The late Emperor, as all know, sleeps at Chislehurst, awaiting, perhaps, some return to Paris and the Invalides as proved the death-wound of the Orleans Dynasty. Of the Beauharnais pedigree it is noted that Francois Alexander, the celebrated "Emperor" and "King of Rome," were entombed at Paris; Eugene, her son, at Munich; Hortense, with her mother, at Malmaison; the Duke of Leuchtenberg, at St. Petersburg; and Augustus, son of Eugene, at Lisbon. So the record runs on, carrying us at times even as far as America, with Zenaida, Alexander, Josephine, Joachim, and Elizabeth, until we find the Corsican journalist moralizing over this "dispersion in death of a family which, united in life, might have held the Empire of the world."

For many years the farmers of the United States have been told of the importance of growing more root crops. The "King of Rome" found a tomb at Vienna, as did Charles Jerome and Cardinal Fesch. One of the Bonapartes, Achille Murat, left his bones in Florida; and Murat himself had his grave dug by a gang of Calabrian assassins. Josephine reposes beneath the pavement of the little Church of Incel, at Malmaison, where her husband and she were buried. The late Emperor, as all know, sleeps at Chislehurst, awaiting, perhaps, some return to Paris and the Invalides as proved the death-wound of the Orleans Dynasty. Of the Beauharnais pedigree it is noted that Francois Alexander, the celebrated "Emperor" and "King of Rome," were entombed at Paris; Eugene, her son, at Munich; Hortense, with her mother, at Malmaison; the Duke of Leuchtenberg, at St. Petersburg; and Augustus, son of Eugene, at Lisbon. So the record runs on, carrying us at times even as far as America, with Zenaida, Alexander, Josephine, Joachim, and Elizabeth, until we find the Corsican journalist moralizing over this "dispersion in death of a family which, united in life, might have held the Empire of the world."

For many years the farmers of the United States have been told of the importance of growing more root crops. The "King of Rome" found a tomb at Vienna, as did Charles Jerome and Cardinal Fesch. One of the Bonapartes, Achille Murat, left his bones in Florida; and Murat himself had his grave dug by a gang of Calabrian assassins. Josephine reposes beneath the pavement of the little Church of Incel, at Malmaison, where her husband and she were buried. The late Emperor, as all know, sleeps at Chislehurst, awaiting, perhaps, some return to Paris and the Invalides as proved the death-wound of the Orleans Dynasty. Of the Beauharnais pedigree it is noted that Francois Alexander, the celebrated "Emperor" and "King of Rome," were entombed at Paris; Eugene, her son, at Munich; Hortense, with her mother, at Malmaison; the Duke of Leuchtenberg, at St. Petersburg; and Augustus, son of Eugene, at Lisbon. So the record runs on, carrying us at times even as far as America, with Zenaida, Alexander, Josephine, Joachim, and Elizabeth, until we find the Corsican journalist moralizing over this "dispersion in death of a family which, united in life, might have held the Empire of the world."

For many years the farmers of the United States have been told of the importance of growing more root crops. The "King of Rome" found a tomb at Vienna, as did Charles Jerome and Cardinal Fesch. One of the Bonapartes, Achille Murat, left his bones in Florida; and Murat himself had his grave dug by a gang of Calabrian assassins. Josephine reposes beneath the pavement of the little Church of Incel, at Malmaison, where her husband and she were buried. The late Emperor, as all know, sleeps at Chislehurst, awaiting, perhaps, some return to Paris and the Invalides as proved the death-wound of the Orleans Dynasty. Of the Beauharnais pedigree it is noted that Francois Alexander, the celebrated "Emperor" and "King of Rome," were entombed at Paris; Eugene, her son, at Munich; Hortense, with her mother, at Malmaison; the Duke of Leuchtenberg, at St. Petersburg; and Augustus, son of Eugene, at Lisbon. So the record runs on, carrying us at times even as far as America, with Zenaida, Alexander, Josephine, Joachim, and Elizabeth, until we find the Corsican journalist moralizing over this "dispersion in death of a family which, united in life, might have held the Empire of the world."

For many years the farmers of the United States have been told of the importance of growing more root crops. The "King of Rome" found a tomb at Vienna, as did Charles Jerome and Cardinal Fesch. One of the Bonapartes, Achille Murat, left his bones in Florida; and Murat himself had his grave dug by a gang of Calabrian assassins. Josephine reposes beneath the pavement of the little Church of Incel, at Malmaison, where her husband and she were buried. The late Emperor, as all know, sleeps at Chislehurst, awaiting, perhaps, some return to Paris and the Invalides as proved the death-wound of the Orleans Dynasty. Of the Beauharnais pedigree it is noted that Francois Alexander, the celebrated "Emperor" and "King of Rome," were entombed at Paris; Eugene, her son, at Munich; Hortense, with her mother, at Malmaison; the Duke of Leuchtenberg, at St. Petersburg; and Augustus, son of Eugene, at Lisbon. So the record runs on, carrying us at times even as far as America, with Zenaida, Alexander, Josephine, Joachim, and Elizabeth, until we find the Corsican journalist moralizing over this "dispersion in death of a family which, united in life, might have held the Empire of the world."

For many years the farmers of the United States have been told of the importance of growing more root crops. The "King of Rome" found a tomb at Vienna, as did Charles Jerome and Cardinal Fesch. One of the Bonapartes, Achille Murat, left his bones in Florida; and Murat himself had his grave dug by a gang of Calabrian assassins. Josephine reposes beneath the pavement of the little Church of Incel, at Malmaison, where her husband and she were buried. The late Emperor, as all know, sleeps at Chislehurst, awaiting, perhaps, some return to Paris and the Invalides as proved the death-wound of the Orleans Dynasty. Of the Beauharnais pedigree it is noted that Francois Alexander, the celebrated "Emperor" and "King of Rome," were entombed at Paris; Eugene, her son, at Munich; Hortense, with her mother, at Malmaison; the Duke of Leuchtenberg, at St. Petersburg; and Augustus, son of Eugene, at Lisbon. So the record runs on, carrying us at times even as far as America, with Zenaida, Alexander, Josephine, Joachim, and Elizabeth, until we find the Corsican journalist moralizing over this "dispersion in death of a family which, united in life, might have held the Empire of the world."

For many years the farmers of the United States have been told of the importance of growing more root crops. The "King of Rome" found a tomb at Vienna, as did Charles Jerome and Cardinal Fesch. One of the Bonapartes, Achille Murat, left his bones in Florida; and Murat himself had his grave dug by a gang of Calabrian assassins. Josephine reposes beneath the pavement of the little Church of Incel, at Malmaison, where her husband and she were buried. The late Emperor, as all know, sleeps at Chislehurst, awaiting, perhaps, some return to Paris and the Invalides as proved the death-wound of the Orleans Dynasty. Of the Beauharnais pedigree it is noted that Francois Alexander, the celebrated "Emperor" and "King of Rome," were entombed at Paris; Eugene, her son, at Munich; Hortense, with her mother, at Malmaison; the Duke of Leuchtenberg, at St. Petersburg; and Augustus, son of Eugene, at Lisbon. So the record runs on, carrying us at times even as far as America, with Zenaida, Alexander, Josephine, Joachim, and Elizabeth, until we find the Corsican journalist moralizing over this "dispersion in death of a family which, united in life, might have held the Empire of the world."

For many years the farmers of the United States have been told of the importance of growing more root crops. The "King of Rome" found a tomb at Vienna, as did Charles Jerome and Cardinal Fesch. One of the Bonapartes, Achille Murat, left his bones in Florida; and Murat himself had his grave dug by a gang of Calabrian assassins. Josephine reposes beneath the pavement of the little Church of Incel, at Malmaison, where her husband and she were buried. The late Emperor, as all know, sleeps at Chislehurst, awaiting, perhaps, some return to Paris and the Invalides as proved the death-wound of the Orleans Dynasty. Of the Beauharnais pedigree it is noted that Francois Alexander, the celebrated "Emperor" and "King of Rome," were entombed at Paris; Eugene, her son, at Munich; Hortense, with her mother, at Malmaison; the Duke of Leuchtenberg, at St. Petersburg; and Augustus, son of Eugene, at Lisbon. So the record runs on, carrying us at times even as far as America, with Zenaida, Alexander, Josephine, Joachim, and Elizabeth, until we find the Corsican journalist moralizing over this "dispersion in death of a family which, united in life, might have held the Empire of the world."

For many years the farmers of the United States have been told of the importance of growing more root crops. The "King of Rome" found a tomb at Vienna, as did Charles Jerome and Cardinal Fesch. One of the Bonapartes, Achille Murat, left his bones in Florida; and Murat himself had his grave dug by a gang of Calabrian assassins. Josephine reposes beneath the pavement of the little Church of Incel, at Malmaison, where her husband and she were buried. The late Emperor, as all know, sleeps at Chislehurst, awaiting, perhaps, some return to Paris and the Invalides as proved the death-wound of the Orleans Dynasty. Of the Beauharnais pedigree it is noted that Francois Alexander, the celebrated "Emperor" and "King of Rome," were entombed at Paris; Eugene, her son, at Munich; Hortense, with her mother, at Malmaison; the Duke of Leuchtenberg, at St. Petersburg; and Augustus, son of Eugene, at Lisbon. So the record runs on, carrying us at times even as far as America, with Zenaida, Alexander, Josephine, Joachim, and Elizabeth, until we find the Corsican journalist moralizing over this "dispersion in death of a family which, united in life, might have held the Empire of the world."

For many years the farmers of the United States have been told of the importance of growing more root crops. The "King of Rome" found a tomb at Vienna, as did Charles Jerome and Cardinal Fesch. One of the Bonapartes, Achille Murat, left his bones in Florida; and Murat himself had his grave dug by a gang of Calabrian assassins. Josephine reposes beneath the pavement of the little Church of Incel, at Malmaison, where her husband and she were buried. The late Emperor, as all know, sleeps at Chislehurst, awaiting, perhaps, some return to Paris and the Invalides as proved the death-wound of the Orleans Dynasty. Of the Beauharnais pedigree it is noted that Francois Alexander, the celebrated "Emperor" and "King of Rome," were entombed at Paris; Eugene, her son, at Munich; Hortense, with her mother, at Malmaison; the Duke of Leuchtenberg, at St. Petersburg; and Augustus, son of Eugene, at Lisbon. So the record runs on, carrying us at times even as far as America, with Zenaida, Alexander, Josephine, Joachim, and Elizabeth, until we find the Corsican journalist moralizing over this "dispersion in death of a family which, united in life, might have held the Empire of the world."

For many years the farmers of the United States have been told of the importance of growing more root crops. The "King of Rome" found a tomb at Vienna, as did Charles Jerome and Cardinal Fesch. One of the Bonapartes, Achille Murat, left his bones in Florida; and Murat himself had his grave dug by a gang of Calabrian assassins. Josephine reposes beneath the pavement of the little Church of Incel, at Malmaison, where her husband and she were buried. The late Emperor, as all know, sleeps at Chislehurst, awaiting, perhaps, some return to Paris and the Invalides as proved the death-wound of the Orleans Dynasty. Of the Beauharnais pedigree it is noted that Francois Alexander, the celebrated "Emperor" and "King of Rome," were entombed at Paris; Eugene, her son, at Munich; Hortense, with her mother, at Malmaison; the Duke of Leuchtenberg, at St. Petersburg; and Augustus, son of Eugene, at Lisbon. So the record runs on, carrying us at times even as far as America, with Zenaida, Alexander, Josephine, Joachim, and Elizabeth, until we find the Corsican journalist moralizing over this "dispersion in death of a family which, united in life, might have held the Empire of the world."

For many years the farmers of the United States have been told of the importance of growing more root crops. The "King of Rome" found a tomb at Vienna, as did Charles Jerome and Cardinal Fesch. One of the Bonapartes, Achille Murat, left his bones in Florida; and Murat himself had his grave dug by a gang of Calabrian assassins. Josephine reposes beneath the pavement of the little Church of Incel, at Malmaison, where her husband and she were buried. The late Emperor, as all know, sleeps at Chislehurst, awaiting, perhaps, some return to Paris and the Invalides as proved the death-wound of the Orleans Dynasty. Of the Beauharnais pedigree it is noted that Francois Alexander, the celebrated "Emperor" and "King of Rome," were entombed at Paris; Eugene, her son, at Munich; Hortense, with her mother, at Malmaison; the Duke of Leuchtenberg, at St. Petersburg; and Augustus, son of Eugene, at Lisbon. So the record runs on, carrying us at times even as far as America, with Zenaida, Alexander, Josephine, Joachim, and Elizabeth, until we find the Corsican journalist moralizing over this "dispersion in death of a family which, united in life, might have held the Empire of the world."

For many years the farmers of the United States have been told of the importance of growing more root crops. The "King of Rome" found a tomb at Vienna, as did Charles Jerome and Cardinal Fesch. One of the Bonapartes, Achille Murat, left his bones in Florida; and Murat himself had his grave dug by a gang of Calabrian assassins. Josephine reposes beneath the pavement of the little Church of Incel, at Malmaison, where her husband and she were buried. The late Emperor, as all know, sleeps at Chislehurst, awaiting, perhaps, some return to Paris and the Invalides as proved the death-wound of the Orleans Dynasty. Of the Beauharnais pedigree it is noted that Francois Alexander, the celebrated "Emperor" and "King of Rome," were entombed at Paris; Eugene, her son, at Munich; Hortense, with her mother, at Malmaison; the Duke of Leuchtenberg, at St. Petersburg; and Augustus, son of Eugene, at Lisbon. So the record runs on, carrying us at times even as far as America, with Zenaida, Alexander, Josephine, Joachim, and Elizabeth, until we find the Corsican journalist moralizing over this "dispersion in death of a family which, united in life, might have held the Empire of the world."

For many years the farmers of the United States have been told of the importance of growing more root crops. The "King of Rome" found a tomb at Vienna, as did Charles Jerome and Cardinal Fesch. One of the Bonapartes, Achille Murat, left his bones in Florida; and Murat himself had his grave dug by a gang of Calabrian assassins. Josephine reposes beneath the pavement of the little Church of Incel, at Malmaison, where her husband and she were buried. The late Emperor, as all know, sleeps at Chislehurst, awaiting, perhaps, some return to Paris and the Invalides as proved the death-wound of the Orleans Dynasty. Of the Beauharnais pedigree it is noted that Francois Alexander, the celebrated "Emperor" and "King of Rome," were entombed at Paris; Eugene, her son, at Munich; Hortense, with her mother, at Malmaison; the Duke of Leuchtenberg, at St. Petersburg; and Augustus, son of Eugene, at Lisbon. So the record runs on, carrying us at times even as far as America, with Zenaida, Alexander, Josephine, Joachim, and Elizabeth, until we find the Corsican journalist moralizing over this "dispersion in death of a family which, united in life, might have held the Empire of the world."

For many years the farmers of the United States have been told of the importance of growing more root crops. The "King of Rome" found a tomb at Vienna, as did Charles Jerome and Cardinal Fesch. One of the Bonapartes, Achille Murat, left his bones in Florida; and Murat himself had his grave dug by a gang of Calabrian assassins. Josephine reposes beneath the pavement of the little Church of Incel, at Malmaison, where her husband and she were buried. The late Emperor, as all know, sleeps at Chislehurst, awaiting, perhaps, some return to Paris and the Invalides as proved the death-wound of the Orleans Dynasty. Of the Beauharnais pedigree it is noted that Francois Alexander, the celebrated "Emperor" and "King of Rome," were entombed at Paris; Eugene, her son, at Munich; Hortense, with her mother, at Malmaison; the Duke of Leuchtenberg, at St. Petersburg; and Augustus, son of Eugene, at Lisbon. So the record runs on, carrying us at times even as far as America, with Zenaida, Alexander, Josephine, Joachim, and Elizabeth, until we find the Corsican journalist moralizing over this "dispersion in death of a family which, united in life, might have held the Empire of the world."

For many years the farmers of the United States have been told of the importance of growing more root crops. The "King of Rome" found a tomb at Vienna, as did Charles Jerome and Cardinal Fesch. One of the Bonapartes, Achille Murat, left his bones in Florida; and Murat himself had his grave dug by a gang of Calabrian assassins. Josephine reposes beneath the pavement of the little Church of Incel, at Malmaison, where her husband and she were buried. The late Emperor, as all know, sleeps at Chislehurst, awaiting, perhaps, some return to Paris and the Invalides as proved the death-wound of the Orleans Dynasty. Of the Beauharnais pedigree it is noted that Francois Alexander, the celebrated "Emperor" and "King of Rome," were entombed at Paris; Eugene, her son, at Munich; Hortense, with her mother, at Malmaison; the Duke of Leuchtenberg, at St. Petersburg; and Augustus, son of Eugene, at Lisbon. So the record runs on, carrying us at times even as far as America, with Zenaida, Alexander, Josephine, Joachim, and Elizabeth, until we find the Corsican journalist moralizing over this "dispersion in death of a family which, united in life, might have held the Empire of the world."

For many years the farmers of the United States have been told of the importance of growing more root crops. The "King of Rome" found a tomb at Vienna, as did Charles Jerome and Cardinal Fesch. One of the Bonapartes, Achille Murat, left his bones in Florida; and Murat himself had his grave dug by a gang of Calabrian assassins. Josephine reposes beneath the pavement of the little Church of Incel, at Malmaison, where her husband and she were buried. The late Emperor, as all know, sleeps at Chislehurst, awaiting, perhaps, some return to Paris and the Invalides as proved the death-wound of the Orleans Dynasty. Of the Beauharnais pedigree it is noted that Francois Alexander, the celebrated "Emperor" and "King of Rome," were entombed at Paris; Eugene, her son, at Munich; Hortense, with her mother, at Malmaison; the Duke of Leuchtenberg, at St. Petersburg; and Augustus, son of Eugene, at Lisbon. So the record runs on, carrying us at times even as far as America, with Zenaida, Alexander, Josephine, Joachim, and Elizabeth, until we find the Corsican journalist moralizing over this "dispersion in death of a family which, united in life, might have held the Empire of the world."

For many years the farmers of the United States have been told of the importance of growing more root crops. The "King of Rome" found a tomb at Vienna, as did Charles Jerome and Cardinal Fesch. One of the Bonapartes, Achille Murat, left his bones in Florida; and Murat himself had his grave dug by a gang of Calabrian assassins. Josephine reposes beneath the pavement of the little Church of Incel, at Malmaison, where her husband and she were buried. The late Emperor, as all know, sleeps at Chislehurst, awaiting, perhaps, some return to Paris and the Invalides as proved the death-wound of the Orleans Dynasty. Of the Beauharnais pedigree it is noted that Francois Alexander, the celebrated "Emperor" and "King of Rome," were entombed at Paris; Eugene, her son, at Munich; Hortense, with her mother, at Malmaison; the Duke of Leuchtenberg, at St. Petersburg; and Augustus, son of Eugene, at Lisbon. So the record runs on, carrying us at times even as far as America, with Zenaida, Alexander, Josephine, Joachim, and Elizabeth, until we find the Corsican journalist moralizing over this "dispersion in death of a family which, united in life, might have held the Empire of the world."

For many years the farmers of the United States have been told of the importance of growing more root crops. The "King of Rome" found a tomb at Vienna, as did Charles Jerome and Cardinal Fesch. One of the Bonapartes, Achille Murat, left his bones in Florida; and Murat himself had his grave dug by a gang of Calabrian assassins. Josephine reposes beneath the pavement of the little Church of Incel, at Malmaison, where her husband and she were buried. The late Emperor, as all know, sleeps at Chislehurst, awaiting, perhaps, some return to Paris and the Invalides as proved the death-wound of the Orleans Dynasty. Of the Beauharnais pedigree it is noted that Francois Alexander, the celebrated "Emperor" and "King of Rome," were entombed at Paris; Eugene, her son, at Munich; Hortense, with her mother, at Malmaison; the Duke of Leuchtenberg, at St. Petersburg; and Augustus, son of Eugene, at Lisbon. So the record runs on, carrying us at times even as far as America, with Zenaida, Alexander, Josephine, Joachim, and Elizabeth, until we find the Corsican journalist moralizing over this "dispersion in death of a family which, united in life, might have held the Empire of the world."

For many years the farmers of the United States have been told of the importance of growing more root crops. The "King of Rome" found a tomb at Vienna, as did Charles Jerome and Cardinal Fesch. One of the Bonapartes, Achille Murat, left his bones in Florida; and Murat himself had his grave dug by a gang of Calabrian assassins. Josephine reposes beneath the pavement of the little Church of Incel, at Malmaison, where her husband and she were buried. The late Emperor, as all know, sleeps at Chislehurst, awaiting, perhaps, some return to Paris and the Invalides as proved the death-wound of the Orleans Dynasty. Of the Beauharnais pedigree it is noted that Francois Alexander, the celebrated "Emperor" and "King of Rome," were entombed at Paris; Eugene, her son, at Munich; Hortense, with her mother, at Malmaison; the Duke of Leuchtenberg, at St. Petersburg; and Augustus, son of Eugene, at Lisbon. So the record runs on, carrying us at times even as far as America, with Zenaida, Alexander, Josephine, Joachim, and Elizabeth, until we find the Corsican journalist moralizing over this "dispersion in death of a family which, united in life, might have held the Empire of the world."

For many years the farmers of the United States have been told of the importance of growing more root crops. The "King of Rome" found a tomb at Vienna, as did Charles Jerome and Cardinal Fesch. One of the Bonapartes, Achille Murat, left his bones in Florida; and Murat himself had his grave dug by a gang of Calabrian assassins. Josephine reposes beneath the pavement of the little Church of Incel, at Malmaison, where her husband and she were buried. The late Emperor, as all know, sleeps at Chislehurst, awaiting, perhaps, some return to Paris and the Invalides as proved the death-wound of the Orleans Dynasty. Of the Beauharnais pedigree it is noted that Francois Alexander, the celebrated "Emperor" and "King of Rome," were entombed at Paris; Eugene, her son, at Munich; Hortense, with her mother, at Malmaison; the Duke of Leuchtenberg, at St. Petersburg; and Augustus, son of Eugene, at Lisbon. So the record runs on, carrying us at times even as far as America, with Zenaida, Alexander, Josephine, Joachim, and Elizabeth, until we find the Corsican journalist moralizing over this "dispersion in death of a family which, united in life, might have held the Empire of the world."

A patent has just been granted to Loring Hocking, one of the editors and proprietors of the Evening Bulletin and Morning Call (newspapers of San Francisco), for a method of rapid telegraphing of the initials of stereotyped plates. It is claimed that by this process an entire page of a newspaper can be transmitted by telegraph in from fifteen to thirty minutes. Delivering the copy directly from the instrument in such a form that it can be handed immediately to the printer. In other words, the copy will be a sub-tantial reproduction of the original, except that it may be given in a larger sized letter if desired. The stereotype plate requires no preparation for the purpose of telegraphic transmission other than the filling of all its depressions or spaces between the faces of the letters with a non-conducting substance, which may be quickly applied, the faces of the type being left clean by means of an equally simple process. The plate thus prepared is placed upon a cylinder arranged to revolve as fast as to present a fresh successive letter to fingers attached to a traveling frame. As the cylinder bearing the plate revolves the frame gradually advances by the operation of a screw and thus each and every line is successively presented to the fingers or magnetic points already mentioned. Necessarily the circuit is open when the points are passing over the non-conducting surface, but as often as metal type presents itself to said fingers the circuit is closed and the corresponding magnetic points or pens at the receiving station make the record there in the same letter as the original, delineated in a series of fine lines, either upon chemically prepared or ordinary paper, fixed upon a rotating cylinder at said receiving station.

Dr. H. V. Redfield writes an interesting letter to the Commercial on the effects of the European war in the South. He found a Georgia planter of the first magnitude disgusted beyond measure because corn and flour had gone up 30 percent, and cotton had gone down 20 percent. In Columbia, S. C., he encountered a philosophic and materialistic old negro who worked about on odd jobs, made from 30 to 75 cents a day and had to support himself and family out of that, with meat at 30 cents a pound and beef at 40 cents. Corn bread and cheap molasses, he said, was all the food of many colored families. He did not want his family back in slavery, but if he could get back to the paternal rule of his old master would prefer bondage to freedom, with corn-meal at 30 cents a peck. Under the institution, he said mournfully, he never heard of wars nor the price of corn-meal, but the master always had plenty. Himself he had the punch of an Alderman, and the mules were so fat that when he tried to ride them he would roll off. He might not see the return of slavery, but his children would be forced back into it by hunger. Dr. Redfield, in a deep and costly error, repeated this year in spite of the advice and appeal of the press, of planting cotton and not food or fodder, and contrasts strikingly the case of the Tennessee planter whom he met and found rejoicing in the possession of a 500-acre field of corn, representing a crop of 30,000 bushels, that at the war price of 65 cents was a fortune. "Yes," concludes the correspondent, "yes, East Tennessee will be largely benefited, for it is a corn-growing section, and has the great Southern market immediately at hand. But the benefit of spots here and there where corn is grown is inadequate compensation for the injury brought upon the planters and laborers of the cotton States."

</