Nothing Can be Worse than to be Conquering Night and Day.

A Positive Cure for Diarrhoea, &c. STONBERGER'S INDIAN GUM SYRUP.

Haynes's Magazine for August.

The number opens with a superbly illustrated paper on the White Mountains.

Under the title of "The Golden Treasures of Kurium, William C. Prime contributes a very entertaining paper on General Di Cosimo's recent discoveries in Cyprus.

There are three illustrated poems—Lucy Larcom's "Fried Brook," Thomas Davidson's "Spiced Scotch Balm," and the "Black Gravel."

Dr. John W. Dwyer contributes a paper, with fifteen illustrations, on the Diffraction Spectrum, showing exactly what light, heat, and acoustics are in the last scientific analysis.

The Tammany Society has published in circular form the various letters from prominent Democrats read before it, on the Fourth of July, 1877, and among them we find the following from Senator Wm. Pinkney White:

Dear Sir,—I regret extremely that it is not in my power to accept the invitation of the Tammany Society, to gather with them at the Wigwam on the 4th prox., to "observe with fitting ceremonies the Nation's Birthday."

It was a darker stain, that an Executive could, unchallenged, summon the army of the United States to the seat of Government, and encamp it in the very shadow of the Capitol, to enforce, if need be, that wrong upon Congress, when we reflect that, under the Constitution, those very soldiers were but the creatures of the people.

While we denounce the chicanery by which the popular will was circumvented, and fraudulent certificates concocted as to subject the theory of the Electoral College system, and to compel patriotic men in Congress, actuated by a laudable desire to preserve the public peace, to submit to an arbitrament which, in my poor judgment, was outside of the Constitution, still let us believe that this strain upon our Republican government will only serve to strengthen it in the hearts of the people, and suggest to the mind of some statesman such an amendment to the Constitution as will protect us in the future from the villainies of Returning Boards, and the tricks of their abettors.

It will be remembered that General T. C. Anderson carried the Hayes electoral vote of this State to Washington, and that there was at the time considerable mystery connected with the non-delivery of the vote to the presiding officer of the Senate.

How can I have a clear and brilliant complexion? Simply by using Dr. Bull's Blood Mixture and observing the rules of health.

This must not, and it cannot be. We shall not whine over and lament the dead past; we shall not disturb the living present; but we must and shall provide such safeguards for the future, that no such crisis for our country's peace shall ever again occur.

There is no concealment on the part of the Republicans in recognizing Nicholas as the rightful Governor of Louisiana the Administration relied upon the resolution of the Nicholas Senate, made while the inquiry of the Commission was in progress.

Persecution they construe to mean prosecution, and political conduct, as they understand it, includes perjury! The Louisiana Senate pledged itself against persecution for political conduct; and now we are gravely told that the indictment of certain public officers for perjury is a violation of the Senate's pledge!

It would seem, however, from our Republican contemporaries, that Gov. Nichols is a man of great talents, and that if the indicted members of the Returning Board are convicted, he will pardon them. He feels himself committed in good faith to do that. How committed? It can only be that he knew at the time that a false return was to be sworn to for the benefit of Mr. Hayes, and that he connived at it in consideration of an agreement to recognize him as Governor.

At the same time the country will be very exacting in one thing, and that is that all the rights of the accused shall be respected. Like every person charged with crime, they are entitled to the presumption of innocence in their favor.

The Public Printer has just delivered the first annual report on the internal commerce of the United States. This report covers a wide range of subjects, embracing the economy of transport by rail; the competitive forces which exert an influence over the internal commerce of the country, and the principal commercial movements of the country.

It is announced from Madrid that 15,000 soldiers are to be sent next month to Cuba. It would be a matter of interest to know how many soldiers have been sent out from Spain during the past ten years to crush the Cuban revolt; but it is a matter concerning which statistics are not likely to be forthcoming.

—The Rev. A. Le Roy's simple attachment to railroad coaches, for the purpose of excluding dust and cinders when the windows are open, is now undergoing a test on the Washington and Annapolis road.

—Packard is industriously and insidiously inflicting the Republicans in the strongholds west of the Mississippi. Having mined beneath the President's policy at Des Moines and blown it higher than the moon, so far as Republican sentiment in that State is concerned, he has pitched his moving discomfit at Omaha where he is closely associated with the radical newspapers and agitators.

—Pope Pius, on Saturday and Sunday, gave three audiences, which was doing remarkably well for a man who was bulletined on both sides of the water as dead. It is beyond dispute, however, that the Pope's health is steadily declining, the burden of years pressing every day more heavily on his shoulders; and though he still bears up bravely, persisting in celebrating mass standing, his death is liable to occur at any moment.

—There is no prospect of the peach-growers of the Peninsula getting any relief from the Philadelphia, Wilmington and Baltimore railroad company. The president has made his reply to the memorial of the growers, and he does not see his way clear to readjust the freight charges as they desire.

The Astor, Tilden, and Trinity Church, New York, which as a work of art has recently been attracting so much attention, is likely to be the subject of a memorial from aggrieved Low Churchmen in the next Diocesan Convention.

The practice of impoverishing the estates of decedents by means of imposing and extravagant funerals is severely criticized in a recent opinion delivered by Judge Rheme, of the Orphans' Court of Luzerne county, Pennsylvania.

—Nothing definitely implicating Marshall Douglas, of North Carolina, in the frauds committed by Deputy Franks, was developed at the latter's trial, but it was resolved by the jury that he had a very vague idea of how business was conducted in his office, and a decidedly inadequate sense of his responsibility.

—It looks now as though it might become one of the first duties of Congress to send a competent committee to the Rio Grande, and ascertain for itself exactly what is going on there.

A review of the British corn trade the past week says that there is some variance in the reports of the condition of the wheat crop. In many sections the effects of the wet, cold spring are very manifest in this thin and dwarfed appearance, while in others the indications are all in favor of an average crop.

The rescals who did the dirty work for the great conspiracy which resulted in putting Hayes in the chair of the President are evidently determined that they shall not now be cast aside as useless tools. While Packard and Pitkin are ready to turn State's evidence, and expose the details of that part of the crime accomplished in Louisiana, Levisse, one of the Hayes electors in that State, is demanding the Brazilian mission as the price for keeping his mouth shut.

—There was but little movement of consequence on the London Stock Exchange last week, and speculative business ruled dull throughout. Reports of Russian reverses, also the movement of the British fleet to Besika Bay, temporarily depressed prices, but there was a full recovery before the close.
