The Nostrums of Quackery.

Political, financial, military, industrial, moral and fantastical nostrums in great profusion and variety are offered to the country just now by men and quacks who were thrown into a state of alarm by the recent strikes and riots.

It is said that we must have a strong centralized government, always ready to display its power, in an overwhelming way, at any point of danger, and ever prepared to prevent discontent from turning into disturbance.

It is said that we must have a first-class military establishment, a great regular army, perhaps one hundred thousand men, infantry, cavalry and artillery.

It is said that the Government should create prosperity, and prevent the troubles that arise from the want of it, by an unlimited issue of cheap money, paper currency, enough of it to go around, and give every man all he needs.

It is said that the Government should employ the idle and aid the needy by giving subsidies from the Treasury to corporations that would prosecute public works, and especially by giving Tom Scott a subsidy of its credit to the amount of two hundred and thirty-three millions of dollars for the building of the Texas Pacific Railroad.

It is said that the Government should prohibit the existence of those trade unions and workingmen's societies which have brought their about and that you cannot abolish such unions and societies, which exist in every civilized country, and seem to be a necessary feature of the modern system of industry.

It is said that there would be no ground of trouble if people would live on bread and water, and he might have added, without clothes; it was said by several tetral orators that the cause of the use of liquor was the cause of all the evils of the times; and it has lately been said by a distinguished clergyman of the Presbyterian Church, that the restoration of the Jews to Palestine was the one thing needed to bring about the millennium.

It is said that the enslavement of the discontented would improve their condition; and a delegation of those indescribably wretched colliers of Scranton lately waited upon a leading man there, and presented a petition which contained these words, printed in yesterday's Sun: "We will bind ourselves to be your slaves, to sell early and late as you shall permit for you, during one or five years, and never will ask you for one cent of wages, if you will only give us and our families plain and sufficient food, such clothing as we really need, houses to live in, doctors and medicines when we are sick, and bury us when we die."

rumors of the intention of the Mormons to abandon their homes in Utah and remove to some secluded locality where they will be safe for the present from the hordes of the Gentiles, have come to us with the regularity of the returning seasons ever since outsiders first invaded the territory.
