He said to the child, "What ails you, my child? Are you afraid of me? I don't look very naughty, do I? Thus addressed. the child sobbed out,"Take off your nose." excuse me, excuse my son." "But, madam," said Arago, "what does he mean?"

and with false noses, and he had got so motionless hulk. excited that he could think of nothing else. "By an unfortunate occurrence," she added, "we got into the same carriage with you, who, for some good reason, no doubt, are prolonging the Carnival. But you see what a deplorable result has followed. Let me then beg of you to have pity upon a poor mother, and take off your nose." "But, madam!" said Arago, stupefied. "A little more and my child will have convulsions," shricked the mother. "Take off your nese."

"But, madam," said Arago, in despair, "that is impossible; this is not a false nose, but my own." "Impossible! impossible!" cried the agonized lady. "Touch it," said Arago. The lady gave a pull at the Senator's nose, but it did not come off in her hands, as she expected. "A thousand pardons," she said, "but pray, O! pray, hide it with your hat!" So Arago continued his journey with his nose in his hat, and the child's screams most accomplished naturalist." gradually subsided. Arago himself tells the story with much glee.

-- M. Thiers is said to have left the enormous fortune of $2,700,000, and if this really be the fact, there will be a good deal of wonderment as to where it all came from. He hadn't a penny of patrimony. His father, whatever might have been his original status, became an army contractor, and being obliged to retire from that business for discreditable conduct, his children were thrown upon the world. One became a courier and applied to his brother, who scarcely knew of his existence, for he had been separated in childhood from the rest, for a place, and was provided with an Asia-tic Consulship! M. Thiers had a sister, commonly reputed to be not much better than she should be, who gave him a deal of trouble. She placarded over a store which she opened in Paris her relationship to the Minister, and tried by this means to induce him to satisfy her demands. It is to be presumed that M. Thiers's wealth is the result of the very sagacious investment of the moneys he derived from his works, with the accumulaproperty has risen so enormously in value in the past forty years that purchases made by him in middle life would very likely have quintupled in value. Guizot did not leave $5,000 a year.

-Some time ago a gentleman went to see a friend who was very fond of show and fine things, and who, besides other jewels, was in the habit of wearing a ring containing valuable precious stones. His visitor said to him: "My good friend, of what use are those splendid stones in the ring on your finger?"

"None at all," replied the gentleman. "Well, then, I'm better off than you are, for I have two precious stones, which are of use to a great number of people, and which gain me more than forty pounds every year." The gentleman begged to be allowed to see these wonderful stones, and his friend see these wonderful stones, and his friend took him to his mill and showed him the between the Patapaco and Railroad Bridges, two mill-stones.

-Mrs. Elizabeth Webber, who died of hydrophobia in Boston the other day, was bitten through the nail of the second finger of the right hand, on July 31, by her own pet dog. Pains in her arm appeared on Sept. 28, which she attributed to rheumatism; they increased, and the physicians called it "a bad cold." Even after she turned away from water with aversion, and her throat had swollen frightfully, so that she gasped for breath, the physicians persisted that it was not hydrophobia. She was carried to the City Hospital, strapped to a mattress, and barking like a dog. She died in threequarters of an hour after her arrival. The hospital physicians unanimously pronounced the disease hydrophobia.

Dr. I. J. Martin's STANDARD FAMILY MEDICINES.

THESE truly valuable Medicines have most of them been before the public for over thirty years, and wherever they have been intro-duced, have acquired a high reputation. The extensive experience of the Proprietor, enables him to place before the community Good and RELIABLE FAMILY MEDICINES, such as need only a fair trial to become fully appreciated. They are composed of the Purest Materials, selected with great care, and combined in accordance with the most recent discoveries in Pharmacy and Chemistry, and in the most accurate manner.

A large number of the most reliable certi ficates could be produced in testimony of their virtues, but the proprietor is willing to rest them upon their own intrinsic merits. It is no small praise that many intelligent physicians have given them their entire ap-

Ayer's Sarsaparilla

Is widely known as one of the most effectual remedies ever discovered for cleansing the system and purifying the It has stood the test of years, with a constantly growing reputation, based on its intrinsic virtues, and sustained by its remarkable cures. So mild as to be safe and beneficial to children, and yet so searching as to effectually purge out the great corruptions of the blood, such as the scrotulous and syphilitic contamination. Impurities or diseases that have lurked in the system for years soon yield to this powerful antidote, and disappear. Hence its wonderful cures, many of which are publicly known, of Scrofula, and all scrofulous diseases, Ulcers, Eruptions, and eruptive disorders of the skin, Tumors, Blotches, Boils. Pimples, Pustules, Sores, St. Anthony's Fire, Rose or Erysipelas, Tetter, Salt Rheum, Seald Head, Ringworm, and internal Ulcerations of the Uterus, Stomach, and Liver. It also cures other complaints, to which it would not seem especially adapted, such as Dropsy, Dyspepsia, Fits, Neuralgia, Heart Disease, Female Weakness, Debility, and Leucorrhoea, when they are manifestations of the scrofulous poisons. It is an excellent restorer of health and strength in the Spring. By renewing the appetite and vigor of the digestive organs, it dissipates the depression and listless languor of the season. Even where no disorder appears, people feel better, and live longer, for cleansing the blood. The system moves on with renewed vigor and a new lease of life.
