The American Farmer For March is full of reasonable instruction, all of it evidently from practical and able hands. In the agricultural department much space is given to matters of practical importance, and the work incidental to the season is abundantly treated. One of a series of valuable contributions to the Tobacco Culture is given in this No., as well as many suggestions for other staple crops. The live stock and poultry departments embrace many appropriate articles of interest to the farmer. It is given of the successful preservation, on a large scale, of green corn fodder, after the French fashion, and the use of the same for stock. The horticultural pages are unusually attractive. Fruit culture and collateral topics, the cultivation of flowers in the garden and the house, and as especially suited to the time of the year, the management of vegetables and "truck" crops, are given special attention. One of the attractive features is the home department for ladies of the farm household, and another is the grange news, addresses, &c. The subscription price of this old journal, with which our farmers ought to be well acquainted, is $1.00 per annum, in advance, or more. Samuel Sand & Son, Baltimore, are the publishers.

HOW WOMEN LOVE DRESS.

BY W. W. CHANE. He sat by a window at twilight, And placidly puffed his cigar. He gazed on a neighboring sky-light, And thought of his bank stock at par. Two voices came upward, as high as The place where he sat, from the street: Two ladies, on "goose" and on "bills," Were holding conversation sweet. Then he mused upon feminine folly And fashion's absurd excess; And he said with a tone melancholy: "How women do love over dress!" "Just get any two of them started, And they'll be a month without clothes." He spoke like a hero, strong-hearted, Who all such frivolity loathes. "And the way they oppress the poor creatures Who build all those dresses and things! They'd like to make marks on their features For a little mistake in the strings." Here a knock at the door. Then a waiter And a new suit of garments appear. "Oh, they're come, have they? Strange they're not later, they?" Quick, light up the whole chandelier! One glance from a proper position Suffices their fate to decide; The things are only "Sittin", The trousers a trifle too wide. "Well, if I don't pitch into that Schindler! I never did see such a bill." Why I told the outrageous old swindler I wanted the linings half silk! "Oh, hang all the scoundrelly tailors! The collar's a half-inch extra in the garden and the trousers—They might be a sailor's! Now wouldn't I look like a guy?" Each glance makes him more and more irate. "Why, they look even worse from behind! I'll blow up the sneaking old pirate; I'll give him a piece of my mind. 'I'm done with the scoundrel, that's certain. Now, if ever I saw such a sight May I be eternally—' (Curtain) The rest wouldn't suit ears polite.)

Sands, formerly Collector of Internal Revenue for the Fifth district of Maryland. Referred. A resolution was adopted asking the Secretary of the Treasury to transmit an estimate of the amount necessary to enable the Mint at Denver to coin both gold and silver, and what time would be required to fit it out for that purpose. The Senate bill to refer the record of the Naval Court of Inquiry in the collision case between the schooner Flight and steamer Tallapoosa to the Court of Claims was passed. The bill making appropriations for the payment of claims reported by the Secretary of the Treasury was considered, and after the claim of Samuel C. Ludington, of West Virginia, was struck out, the bill was passed. The Ludington claim was then referred to the Committee on Claims. The Senate went into executive session and subsequently adjourned. In the House a large number of bills was introduced. Mr. Bright, of Tennessee, offered a resolution, which was adopted, directing the Secretary of the Treasury to inform the House whether he has authorized the sale of any bonds for outstanding legal-tenders at par, adding the gold premium and commission for selling, or on any other terms, and if so, who were the agents employed in their disposal. The bill granting pensions to the officers and soldiers of the war of 1812 was taken up and passed—yeas 217, nays 21. The House then adjourned to allow a Democratic caucus to be held. The treaty of peace, though settled as to the preliminaries, is still under discussion as to the details. The question as to the navigation of the Danube remains in statu quo. A zone will be left between Montenegro and Servia, so as to enable the Porte to maintain communication with Bosnia and Herzegovina. Russia is to have power to cede the Dobrujdja to Romania in exchange for Romania Bessarabia. In the California Assembly yesterday a resolution expressing the belief that Tilden and Hendricks were elected and ought to have been inaugurated, and characterizing as the worst political crime of the century the inauguration of a man who was not elected President, was laid on the table by a vote of 34 to 27. The carnival opened at Memphis, Tenn., yesterday. The King was received at 3 P. M., with a royal salute from the Bluff City Battery. His chariot was escorted by the Chickasaw Guards, the Bluff City Grays and Light Guards. The keys of the city were surrendered by Mayor Flippin, and the King of Misrule is now in charge of the city. Fully 20,000 persons witnessed the ceremonies. Minston Anderson, accused of an attempted outrage on a little girl near Clarksville, Tennessee, was lynched on Friday. The jail was surrounded by an armed mob, who forced the jailer to give up the prisoner. His body was found on Saturday morning suspended from a tree. Kate Claxton, the actress, was married to Charles Stevenson, formerly of Wallack's company, in New York, Sunday night, at the "Little Church around the Corner."

WEDNESDAY.

In the United States Senate, yesterday, a bill was reported to incorporate the Suburban Railway Company of Washington, D. C. Mr. Thurman introduced a bill to prohibit members of Congress from becoming sureties on certain bonds. Mr. Beck spoke in favor of his resolution declaring it unnecessary and inexpedient to impose taxes at this time for the purpose of providing for the $37,000,000 asked for by the Secretary of the Treasury for the sinking fund, and against the purchase of any bonds for the reduction of the national debt bill till the further order of Congress, after which the resolution was referred to the finance committee. In the House, a bill was passed to carry into effect the convention between the United States and China, concluded in 1859, and to give the Court of Claims jurisdiction in certain cases. Mr. Kelley, of Pa., spoke at length in the resumption question, being a reply to the speech of Mr. Garfield, delivered some time since. In the Maryland Senate, yesterday, a petition was presented from the Baptist preachers of Baltimore, praying the passage of a local option bill for Baltimore city. Leave was granted for the introduction of a bill authorizing the House of Correction managers to hire convicts as laborers on the proposed Maryland canal. Favorable report was made on a bill to prevent the admission of any girl under 16 years of age and of any boy under 14 years to a drinking place, concert saloon or theatre, unaccompanied by parent or guardian; also on the bill providing for inspection of petroleum illuminating oils, and on the bill providing for the use of the State boat to excursions for the poor in summer. Favorable report was also made on a bill to authorize Baltimore county commissioners to purchase and erect for the "belt" of that county. A bill was passed to limit the fees of Charles county State's attorney to $1,000 per annum. A bill was engrossed taking from Baltimore city registers their heretofore perquisites for fuel, office rent and stationery. The bill to ratify Comptroller Woolford's action as to his distribution of the public school fund was passed by yeas 15, nays 8. In the House of Delegates, unfavorable report was adopted on the bill to extend jurisdiction to Justices of the peace in cases of assault and battery; also unfavorably on the bill in favor of striking out the "poll-tax" provision of the bill of rights; also on the bill relating to sale of mortgaged premises; also on the bill to have one ferry commissioner instead of two, as at present; also on the bill to abolish the office of supervising inspector of tobacco, but this bill was substituted for the unfavorable report by a vote of 50 to 19, and the bill was read a first time. The bill fixing $800 instead of $50, as now, for oyster and eating-house licenses for permission to sell spirituous liquors was amended to read $100, and ordered engrossed for a third reading. The bill fixing the salary of the commissioner of fisheries at $1,500 and of his assistant at $900 was ordered engrossed for a third reading. A memorial of officers of the Sixth Maryland Regiment, asking investigation of the charges made against that regiment as to the July riot, was referred to the militia committee. The town of Havre de Grace was ordered to be incorporated a city. A Senate bill was passed defining the duties of the treasurer of Prince George's county, and allowing that officer a clerk. The House bill authorizing the purchase of Ferry Bar bridge by Baltimore city and Anne Arundel county was defeated. A bill was passed to enable Baltimore city to protect its interests in the Western Maryland railroad as guaranteed stockholder, and also the bill authorizing issue of preferred stock by that road, and purchase of the same by the city; also confirming the action of the comptroller in distribution of the public schools fund; also providing penalties for embezzlement of money and other valuables; also the bill to regulate the sale of firewood in Baltimore city; the exacting clause of Senate bill providing a new mode of superseding magistrates' judgments was stricken out. The House bill requiring the names of informers in criminal indictments to be written on the indictments—chiefly intended in reference to sale of liquor on Sunday and to minors—was unfavorably reported upon in consequence of a clerical error in the bill. The carnival at New Orleans yesterday afforded as usual a brilliant spectacle. The weather was fine. The King of the Carnival paraded through the streets with his followers in fantastic forms and garbs, illustrative of the heroes of mythology. There were thirty groups. The Mystic Krewe of Comus appeared in procession last night, occupying twenty-one cars, illustrating the Metamorphoses of Ovid. The festivities concluded with a grand reception of the King at the Exposition Hall, with masked balls throughout the city. At Memphis, Tenn., the day was also beautiful, and King Misrule reigned, and crowds of maskers during the day amused the throngs of visitors and citizens. At night the gorgeous pageant of the Memphis was witnessed by dense masses of people, who packed the line of procession. The themes chosen by the Memphis were the myths of South Greece and those of Norseland or Scandinavia. There were seventeen tableaux. A grand ball closed the carnival. The carnival was celebrated at St. Louis last night without any concerted programme. The streets were full of maskers and spectators, and there were half a dozen different processions, none on the extreme scale of the more Southern cities. The masquerade balls in progress at night were almost innumerable. The funeral of the late ex-Senator Wade, at Jefferson, Ohio, yesterday, was largely attended. At the residence Rev. Dr. Dickinson, of the Congregational Church, made a brief address. A short prayer followed by Rev. C. L. Shipman, of the Girard (Pa.) Unitarian Church. The resolutions of respect adopted by the Ohio Legislature were read, and an address delivered by Hon. S. A. Northway on behalf of the bar of Ashtabula county. The remains were interred in the village cemetery. The pall-bearers were Hon. O. H. Fitch and Henry Fassett, of Ashtabula; Hon. Abner Kellogg and N. E. French, of Jefferson; Judges Ranney, Tilden and Caldwell, of Cleveland, and Hon. Z. Chandler, of Michigan.

THURSDAY.

In the United States Senate, yesterday, the only business of importance transacted was the passage of what is known as the "long bond bill," for the investment of savings, unenclosed bonds to make the annual interest 1 per cent per annum, payable semi-annually in United States legal tender notes or in gold on the option of the United States. In the House, the fortification appropriation bill was passed. A message was received from the President asking the bill authorizing a special Court for the Southern district of Mississippi, to be laid at Senator, Miss., on the second Monday in March. Mr. Garfield spoke in reply to the speech of Mr. Kelley, delivered Tuesday. In the Maryland Senate, yesterday, leave was granted for a bill to prevent the sale of liquor within one mile of Catonsville, Baltimore county. Favorable report was made on House bill repealing the law making a husband liable for debts contracted by his wife previous to marriage; also on the bill providing for inspection of petroleum in Baltimore; also on the joint resolution for the erection of a monument to Baron De Kalb. A Senate bill providing for local option in several election districts of Dorchester county State's attorney to $1,000 per annum. A bill was engrossed taking from Baltimore city registers their heretofore perquisites for fuel, office rent and stationery. The bill to ratify Comptroller Woolford's action as to his distribution of the public school fund was passed by yeas 15, nays 8. FRIDAY.

The proceedings of Congress yesterday were devoid of special interest. In the Senate, Mr. Whyte presented the petition of Hamilton Ester & Sons and other business men of Baltimore, remonstrating against the passage of an income tax bill. Mr. Sargent made a speech against the unlimited immigration of Chinese to the United States. The Senate adjourned until Monday next. Almost the entire session of the House was taken up in the discussion of a report from the committee on accounts authorizing the several committees charged with investigating the expenditures in the several executive departments to employ experts. The republicans generally opposed such employment. The report was adopted. The deficiency appropriation bill, which appropriates $55,000, was passed. In the Maryland Senate, yesterday, a bill was reported to provide for adjustment and settlement of the financial difficulties between the State and the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company. Also favorably a bill appropriating $30,000 this year and $15,000 next year for support of the State militia; also a bill empowering Baltimore city to purchase any bridge or highway connected with the city. Resolutions were passed requesting Congress to pass the Mexican war soldiers' pension bill; also the resolutions asking repeal of the federal tax on tobacco. The Senate bill providing arbitration in matters of dispute between employers and employees was passed, also the bill to permit the University of Maryland to dispose of its property. In the House, unfavorable report was made by the judiciary committee on the amendment to the law relating to advance mortgages. The bill naming the exemptions from taxation in the State was discussed at length and ordered to a third reading without any amendment. A bill was passed authorizing Baltimore county commissioners to borrow $500,000; also a bill imposing a fine of $500 for merchandise brokerage without license. The bill proposing to amend the constitution so that corporations can be formed only by a general law, except for municipal purposes, was permanently laid on the table. Judge Pinkney's proposed amendment to the constitution, prohibiting Baltimore city from contracting any debt unless by legislative authorization, and prohibiting subscriptions to railroads or any internal improvement, was rejected. A bill was passed to adjust the boundary line between Maryland and West Virginia. A bill making it a misdemeanor, and imposing a penalty therefor, for getting intoxicated, was laid on the table after considerable discussion in committee of the whole. —Sharpsburg, Ky., has a natural mathematician in Ruben Fields, who, while he knows not one figure from another, correctly solves intricate problems in his mind, without hesitation, computes the time of day almost in an instant, and tells how many revolutions the driving wheel of a locomotive will make between given points. He cannot read or write.

Remarkable Swimming.

A Mile on Horseback Over the Missouri River. One of the most remarkable escapades of modern times is that of Henry Johnston, of Clay county, who made a swim over the Missouri river from Kansas city to Hartman. It was the reckless and daring event of the age. The Missouri river, opposite this city, is about a half mile in width and is quite rapid, inasmuch as it whirls rapidly against the rocky bluffs at this point after having rolled restlessly on from the mountains two thousand miles above. It is one of the worst curves in the river and one of the last places which could be selected to ferry the river on horseback. It was about midnight when the stranger rode down to the river bank near the bridge. He was full of whisky and quite loud in his exclamations of disappointment when he was informed that the ferry boat was not running. He rode from the bridge to a point on the river just above the first pier, and plunged into the current of the Missouri river opposite Broadway. It was not dark, for the moon was visible, and the shouts of the reckless horseman, as he urged on his horse, attracted the police and the night watchman. The current was so rapid that horse and rider made little progress across the river until after the crib of the swinging span had been passed. There was nothing to be seen except the head of the horse and the head and shoulders of the reckless rider; these could be seen on the surface of the current as it fluted by. The horse and rider disappeared from this side long before any notice was received that either had reached the Clay county shore. But "blood will tell," and the mettle of Johnston's horse saved its drunken master's life. About 1 o'clock Harlem was aroused by cries for help on the river bank nearly opposite the school-house. A man and horse were found mired in the mud on the river bank, and help was wanted. The river bank at that point is a slough of mud just now, and the tired horse and his sobbing rider were helpless and waiting for assistance. Horses and ropes were brought, and, with a united effort of the citizens of Harlem, the reckless horseman and his brave animal were taken from the river. It is the worst case of mental aberration on record. Johnston is at home, under care of his friends, but he will live in history as the man who swam the Missouri river in midwinter on horseback.
