Pettengill's Newspaper Directory for 1878.

Pettengill's Newspaper Directory for 1878 is not a mere agglomerative list of newspapers thrown into shape according to the ordinary alphabetical process: it is what it sets out to -a Directory-an Advertiser's Hand-book. It is the most complete book of the kind ever published. It is full of arrangement looking to the accommodation of all kinds of business men who desire to reach the public through newspapers: Even the most general list forms a careful selection of papers, according to natural geographical division. The adverti-ser is enabled to make his own selections from the New England Section, the Middle Section, the Western Section, the Pacille Section, the Southern Section, or from British America. The same list is also furnished by counties. Beyond this, if he wishes to select classes of papers, here is presented for his use a list of all the daily papers; another of all the weekly and monthly papers with circulations over 5,000 each; another of Religious weeklies; and still another of Agricultural and Horticultural papers. If assistance is needed to better this, the Agency is, of course, ready to supply the want by personal coursel and constant attention. The good advice to advertisers, which covers many pages of the book, is worth more than ten Neuspaper Directory is the spokesman for no less than S,615 papers, in all parts of the counof a tone worthy of a book compiled upon such thoroughly scientific and practical prin-

GENERAL SUMMARY MONDAY.

The United States Senate was not in session on Saturday, having adjourned from Friday until to-day. In the House the session was occupied in the discussion of the bill to regulate inter-State transportation by railroad, and to prohibit unjust discriminations by common carriers, the principal objections urged against the bill being that its meaning was buried away in such a mass of verbiage as to render it almost unintelligible. An amendment to the bill was adopted prohibiting pooling arrangements between railroad companies.

Missionary enterprises continue to follow in the path of Stanley's discoveries in Africa. Recently a Catholic mission started from France. Now an industrial Christian mission has been set on foot by philanthropic merchants of London and Liverpool, to be located above the first rapids of the Congo, and two missionaries, Messrs. Craven and Strom, have already proceeded thither. The mission will prepare the way for the extension of commerce and steam navigation in the interior of Ethiopia and the development o its valuable natural resources.

Hon. R. W. Thompson, Secretary of the Navy, with a party of about thirty gentlemen, arrived at Norfolk, Va., Saturday morning by the Baltimore boat. The usual salutes by the flagship Powhatan and receiving ship Franklin were fired. The navy-yard was visited, after which the party embarked on the steamer Pamlico for an excursion to the scene of the Huron wreck and other points of interest along the North Carolina coast. They return this evening.

The order for the expedition to remove the Ute Indians to New Mexico has been countermanded to await action by Congress. Everything was in readiness at Fort Leavenworth to start just as the order was received.

WEDSESBAY.

In the United States Senate, yesterday, Mr. Matthews gave notice that on Tuesday next he would ask the Senate to consider the bill known as the Texas and Pacific railroad bill. The postoffice appropriation bill was further considered, and the Senate, by a vote of 82 to 28, decided that Mr. Maxey's amendment, providing a subsidy for a mail steamship line between the United States and Brazil, was not in order. The bill was then passed. The finely modulated voice of the Indian is especially adapted to imitate the different calls and cries of the denizens of the forest, and with a trumpet of birch bark, he will imitate to the life, the plaintive low of the cow-moose, and the responsive bellow of the bull. Early morning, twilight, or moonlight are all favorapresented in the House of Representatives ble to this manner of hunting. The Indian, having selected a favorable position for his purpose, generally on the margin of a lake, heath, or bog, where he can readily conceal himself, puts his birchen trumpet to his mouth, and gives the call of the cow-moose, in a manner so startling and truthful that only the educated ear of an Indian could detect the counterfeit. If the call is successful, presently the responsive bull moose is heard crashing through the forest, uttering his bloodcurdling bellow or roar, and rattling his horns against the trees in challenge to all rivals, as he comes to the death which awaits him.
