The frequency of thunder storms

O'Correspondence is respectfully solicited (throughout the country, and their appall-The frequency of thunder-storms ing consequences in many places, prompts us to make some observations upon atmospheric electricity.

Our remarks upon this subject are gathcred from a philosophical treatise, and while they contain nothing original, embrace facts which are both interesting, and useful to know. Electricity is de fined as a subtle agent without weight, or form, that appears to be diffused throughout all nature, existing in all substances without affecting their volume, or giving any indication of its presence when in a latent or ordinary state. It may be excited or brought into activity by mechanical action, by chemical action, by heat, and by magnetic influence.

Electricity is always found in the air, and appears to increase in strength and quantity with the attitude of the atmosphere. The principal causes which are supposed to produce electricity in the atmosphere are, evaporation from the earth's surface, chemical changes which take place upon the earth, condensation, and variation of temperature in the atmosphere and of the moisture contained

Lightning is accumulated electricity, generally discharged from the clouds to the earth, but sometimes from the earth to the clouds. The identity of lightning and electricity was first established by

Dr. Franklin in Philadelphia, in 1752. The manner in which the fact was de-1st of January, and in many cases only monstrated was as follows: Having made political persecution. The rain wet the string and increased the the conducting power, and vivid sparks flashed from the key.

Franklin afterwards charged Leyden periments. There was great danger in the experiment with the kite, as was afterwards proved when Prof. Richman of periment was instantly killed. vengeance or political proselytism. That the white men accused by Eliza Pinkston did not commit the crime charged is cerkle. We have great faith in the wisdom tain. Her bare word was the only thing against them, and their own assertions and all the probabilities are on their side. Her character is very bad, so that her oath on this point should not be accepted even if she had not since retracted it. Moreover, the failure of her patrons to bring these men to trial or listen to their vindication shows that at New Orleans no credit was given to this part of her testimony on which its political effect hinged. The slandered men have since been expactated as individuals, though a grim, mysterious, indeterminate band of Democratic bulldozers is now made tosponsible in the public mind for the crime. The assertion that the murder and outrage were political is still more against the nature of things. Why should the Democrats have murdered Pinkston, even if they were as ready at murdering as their opponents say they were? He was one of the negroes who had joined a Democratic club, and the pretense that he had thretened to recant affords altogether too slender a ground for the slaughfer done. No one who recapitulates the foul details of the crime could imagine for a moment that they were the result of a merely political design. They bear the marks of fiendish personal hatred and malignity. They indicate private revenge, not public policy. In a word, no more wild and improbable charge was ever made than that which accused the Democratic party of the Pinkston outrage. The temptation to make the charge, whether true or false, was irresistible. The Grand Parade and Pic-Nie of Centre Encampment No. 31, and Centre Lodge No. 40, of this city, which occurred on Monday last, afforded a day of enjoyment to the citizens of this place and the surrounding neighborhood, that will be long remembered by those who witnessed the parade, as well as those the wagon, killing them instantly and who entered into the festivities of the pic nic. As early as 3 o'clock the city presented a gala scene, the streets and other thoroughfares were thronged with eager spectators blending youth and age, wending their way to the romantically situated park of Mr. Gideon Sunderland, which is about half a mile frem this city on Fell's Lane. The procession composed of the Encampment and Lodge of this city, and Providence Lodge of Catons ville, formed in front of the Odd Fellows' Hall, and headed by Emericks excellent band, marched to the Patapsco Mill, and returning they passed through the city with fine display, and in good order to the park. About three o'clock in the upon hortor, and then suddenly turning afternoon the Encampment Drill Association of Baltimore city, accompanied by Democracy, the Republican managers Patterson's band arrived, and proceeded directly to the park. By this time it is estimated that there were, at least, two thousand persons present, and the advent of the Drill Association seemed to add a new impetus to the enjoyment of the occasion. Judge Gary of Baltimore, delivwhich was listened to throughout with enthusiastic interest. Music, dancing, games, and sports of various kinds, added very much to the enjoyment of the occasion, and when the order was given at 101 o'clock at night to strike tents, the assemblage quietly dispersed, to the inspiring tune of "Sweet Bye and Bye." There was not an occurrence to mar the enjoyment of the day, and the temperate and orderly bearing of the entire gathering, reflects honor upon their order, and credit upon the committee of arrangements, Messrs.
