

The Marriage of Great Men.

Robert Burns married a farm girl, with whom he fell in love while they worked together in a plowed field. He was irregular in his life, and committed the most serious mistakes in conducting his domestic affairs.

Milton married the daughter of a country squire, and lived with her but a short time. He was an austere literary recluse, while she was a rosy country lass, who could not enjoy the restraint imposed upon her; so they separated. Subsequently, however, she returned and they lived tolerably happy.

Queen Victoria and Prince Albert were cousins, and about the only example in the long line of English monarchs where in the marital vows were secretly observed, and sincere affection existed.

Shakespeare loved and wedded a farmer's daughter. She was faithful to her vows, but we could hardly say the same of the bard himself. Like most of the great poets, he showed too little discrimination in bestowing his affections on the other sex.

Washington married a woman with two children. It is enough to say she was worthy of him, and they lived as married people should live—in perfect harmony with each other.

John Adams married the daughter of a Presbyterian clergyman. Her father objected on account of John being a lawyer. He had a bad opinion of the morals of the profession.

John Howard, the great philanthropist, married his nurse. She was intelligent, and besides this, she was fifty-two years old, while he was but twenty-five—He wouldn't take "No" for an answer, and they were married and lived happily until she died, which occurred two years afterward.

Peter, the great Russian, married a peasant. She made an excellent wife and a sagacious Empress.

Humboldt married a poor girl because he loved her. Of course they were happy.

It is not generally known that Andrew Jackson married a lady whose husband was still living. She was an uneducated but amiable woman, and was most devotedly attached to the old warrior and statesman.

John C. Calhoun married his cousin, and their children, fortunately, were neither diseased nor idiotic; but they did not evince the intellect of the great State's rights advocate.

ABOUT NAILS.—Many people are puzzled to understand what the terms "four-penny," "six-penny," and "ten-penny" mean as applied to nails. "Four-penny" means four pounds to the thousand nails, or "six-penny" six pounds to the thousand, and so on. It is an old English term, and meant at first "ten-penny" nails (the thousand being underfoot); but the old English clipped it to "ten-penny" and from that it degenerated until "penny" was substituted for "pounds." So when you ask for four-penny nails nowadays you want those of which a thousand will weigh four pounds. When a thousand nails weigh less than one pound, they are called tacks, brads, etc., and are reckoned by ounces.

—The father of Tom Thumb is a punner in the Chicago poorhouse. Tom quarreled with him when a boy, and has never visited him since. He has fourteen sons and daughters in all, several of whom are wealthy.

—You may talk about the "lean and hungry Cassius," but did you ever take a solid view of the man who has run a store for ten years without advertising?—Brookville Democrat.

—When it comes to destroying sleep, a toothache will double discount a cat concert and beat it ninety-seven points out of a possible hundred.—Carthage Republican.

—A mule will behave himself eleven years and six months just to get one off-hand shot at a middle shirt stud.
