A Plain Talk on Fertilizers.

The study of fertilizers brings out the fact clearly that they are capable of supplying plant-food to crops, and that crops grow better and more abundantly by their use.

We believe that there is evidence to show that the difference in price between the fertilizers in many localities, and the value of the crop raised by the aid of the fertilizer, is sufficient to afford a profit.

With the advent of this season should come the humblest of all pleasures, a grateful people that another year of health and happiness has been accorded to us.
