

SOMER SECOND THOUGHTS.—A bad man is one who grasps at a strawberry and gets a nettle instead.

Individuality is everywhere to be spared and respected as the root of everything good:

Let a man overcome anger by love, evil by good, the greedy by liberality, the liar by truth.

The chains of habit are generally too small to be felt till they are too strong to be broken.

Happiness can be built on virtue alone, and must of necessity have truth for its foundation.

Domestic rule is founded upon truth and love. If it has not both of these, it is nothing better than a despotism.

Contentment abides with truth. You will generally suffer for wishing to appear other than what you are, whether it be richer, greater, or more learned. The mask soon becomes an instrument or torture.

Oh! if men would use as much diligence in rooting out vices and planting virtues, as they do in proposing questions, there would not be so great evils committed here and there among the people, nor so much relaxation in monasteries.

An ingenious Nevada lawyer has raised a point of law in behalf of a client who is under sentence of death. During the trial the prisoner was compelled to expose his arms and show certain marks that a witness asserted were there, thus proving his identity. His counsel objected on the ground that this was compelling a witness in effect to testify against himself—a thing a prisoner cannot be forced to do in a criminal prosecution, and on this ground a new trial is demanded.

—When a man sees five ladies coming towards him walking all abreast, a high fence on one side of him and a muddy street on the other, he tries to look pleasant, but the expression he puts on instead would frighten a bear.

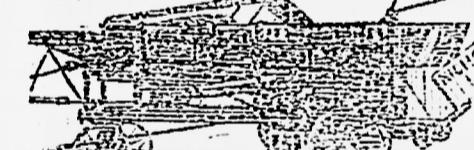

—A cynical writer says: "Take a company of boys chasing butterflies; put long-tailed coats on the boys, and turn the butterflies into dollars, and you have a beautiful panorama of the world."

—Bob Ingersoll made $20,000 by abusing the Bible last year, and a Toronto clergyman died from starvation. Isn't it about time for another flood?

CHRONIC AFFLIGMENTS.

The proper treatment of chronic cases of disease requires a thorough knowledge of physiology and pathology. Such knowledge is not attained in a month but by years of experience. We have in this city many persons who have during the last four or five years made many remarkable cures, and those treated say that for all forms of chronic disease no doctor in Baltimore is more competent and more successful. Call at my office, 160 West Fayette street. Here I treat patients without the use of the knife, and remove tumors by electrolysis. His electrical instruments are of the latest improvement, in fact out of his hands manufactured with the latest according to his own devices. The doctor is a physician and a gentleman, and any calling on him can depend on his judgment and skill.—From Saturday Standard, Jan. 25, '73-ly.
