THE Judiciary Convention of the Democratic party which met in Baltimore on Wednesday last nominated Francis A. Court and Robert T. Banks for Register respectively.

THE blame for the filibustering scene which has just disgraced the United States Senate must be laid chiefly at Mr Roscoe Conkling's door. Unfortunately for Mr. Conkling's happiness he labors rights guaranteed thereunder and all entitle him to the name of "The great were chosen by this new and unbeard of created for his especial benefit. What a mercy it would be if he could only be occasionally spanked and sent to bed without his supper.

How serious may be the result of the idle gossip of a country village is strikingly illustrated in the conviction of Miss Duer of manslaughter at Snow Hill. No one beyond the borders of that town can the death of Miss Hearn. Not one scintilla of testimony tending to show that the shooting was intentional was given excepting a few contradictory statements of a belief to that effect made by Miss Hearn when she was ill, nervous and hysterical from the effects of the quantity of cloral which had been given her. We doubt if the case would ever have reached the court had it not been for the wild rumors concerning the alleged excentric habits of Miss Duer which were made people, to be found in all towns, whose has to pay for not choosing to regulate her actions by the code set up by other public confidence which is confimembers of her sex. it don't matu ly it is more pleasant to thresh the other fellow, yet one or the other must be done. Mr. Conkling deserved the insult he received, and now it remains for him to resent it in a more manly way than by saying to Mr. Lamar that "you are another." Generally cowards are not particular what they say, because when the test comes they unhesitatingly take it back. A brave man is very careful what he says because he means to stand up to it, and he don't wish to say more than he is able to stand up to. .

enjoyment and success of Pinafore are significant and interesting, for the very fact that they show a healtny and simple taste which was not to be assumed in an age of opera bouffe. It is not, after all, the burlesque and parody, but the manner and spirit of them, which are significant. Thac scray's Rebecca and Rowena does not harm Ivanhoe, certainly, while his Prize Novelists are an effective antidote to the sentimentality and shallowness and essential falsity of the parodied novels. Public taste could not have been more shrewdly admonished or recalled to a maulier and sincerer standard than by those amusing squibbs. Disraeli could never again "take in" the clear-headed boy who had laughed ever Codlingsby, and all the rest of that kind of literature would have lain under suspicion.
