In the United States Senate, Monday, Mr. Wallace, from the committee on appropriations, reported a resolution fixing Wednesday, June 25, at 5 P. M., for the finel adjournment of the extra session, but on objection to its consideration by Mr. Windom it went over until Tuesday. No business of interest was transacted, and the Senate at an early hour, went into executive session.

In the House, the reading of a bill introduced by Mr. Martin, of West Virginia, to reorganize the United States army concamed the morning hour, after which the President's message vetoing the supplementary judicial bill was read. A motion to pass the bill over the veto was lostyeas 104, nays 76-not the necessary twothirds. The House then adjourned. The dwelling of J. F. Reynolds, near Jonesboro, Ga., was burned Monday morning, and his two daughters, aged 13 and 16, perished. Mr. Reynolds was badly burned in rescuing his wife. The fire poriginated in the girls' room, but they were so overcome by the smoke that they could do nothing, and their father endeavored incifectually to break down the door. He then went for his wife and barely escaped with her. That balloon which was to go from Montreal to New York, Saturday, made forty miles of the journey, and then ignominiously came to the ground. The navigetor, a newspaper man, made a narrow escape from death. Aerial navigation is evidently one of the things that no fellow
