Work and Wages.

A comparison of the wages earned by mechanics, artisans and laborers in this country with those of the various Countries of Europe shows that our working classes are remarkably well paid, and also that they are able to buy more for the money that they earn. A report on the "State of Labor in Europe" has just been issued by the State Department in reply to a call for information upon those points made by the House of Representatives. The Secretary issued a circular letter to the Consuls at the various ports of Europe, calling upon them to furnish the required information. It has been tabulated and systematized and made to tell clearly a very interesting story. It appears that the week's wages of an agricultural laborer in France is $3.15, in Germany $2 87, in Italy $3 50, in England $3.60—the highest receiving about 60 cents per day. What American laborer white or colored, will work for that? The house-building trades show a still greater contrast. In Belgium the brick-layers earn $6 per week, in France $4, in Germany $3.60, in Italy $3.45, in England 8.12, in Ireland $7 58, in New York $12 to 15. Carpenters, gas-fitters, masons, painters, plasterers, slaters, &c., are paid in about the same ratios. Ordinary laborers, porters, &c. earn per week in Belgium $3, in Germany $2.01, in Italy $2.60, in Spain $3, in England $5, in Scotland 4.50, in New York $6 to $9. It is thus seen that even at this time when wages are lower than they have been in this country, our rates of wages are more than twice those of Belgium, three times those of France and Germany, more than three times those of Italy and Spain and one and a-half larger than those of England or Ireland. Farm labor with board in France for a man is $1 36 per week, for a woman—and in all Continental Europe the woman work in the fields almost like beasts of burden—a woman earns only $1.10 per week.

The comparison of the purchasing power of the wages thus earned is still further to the advantage of the American operative. Beef in Belgium fit for roasting sells at 20 cents, i mp steaks 20 cents, fit for soup 16 cents, the best cuts proportionately higher. In France the same grades are higher, cheap roasting pieces selling at 22 cents per pound; in Italy 20 cents, in England 22 cents. The same grades sell in New York from 12 cents to 16 cents. The natural result of this is the well-known fact that the laboring classes of Europe eat meat very rarely, while in this country the ordinary laborer gets meat three times a day, if he wants it. Flour in France is 4 cents per pound; in Germany 5 ½, in Italy 10 cents in Switzerland 7, in England 3½ to 4½ cents, in Ireland 4 cents, in Scotland 4. in New York 8 cents, to 5, in Chicago 2½ cents to 5. The difference in the cost of wheat bread in Europe, except in certain localities, is not very different from its cost here. The Ammericans have also an immense advantage in the cheapness and variety of fresh vegetables. The cost of fuel, except in Spain and Italy, where it is enormously high, does not differ very much. A ton of coal in Germany costs about $3 10, in Italy $11, in Spain $9, in England $3.65 to $4.58, in New York $4 to $5.25. It is thus seen that the American laborer not only gets higher wages but could live better on the low wages of Europe. It is remarked in the report that some of the happiest laboring class in Europe are those where the wages are least, as in France and Italy; while in those where the wages are highest, as in England and Scotland, there is most discontent and suffering. This is attributed to the frequency of strikes, with their inevitable losses, and to the intemperance which so often results with idleness. The American laboring classes are better paid, better housed and clothed and fed, by far better educated and have more substantial happiness than any other in the world. This is the chief reason why labor agitations, Communism, Socialism, are so feeble and farcical in this happy land.—Balto. Gazette.
