A Book on Poultry.-Hon. Geo. Colton has issued a handsome illustrated catalogue of choice pure bred poultry from his farm in Howard county known as Chestnut Ridge. The fancy fowls comprise the best breeds of Asiatics, French oreeds, Polish fowls, game fowls, American Dominiques, Spanish, sultans and bantams. The catalogue contains many useful hints as to how to make a nest properly, the proper food for sitting hens and the manigement and feeding of fowls; also remedies for various diseases. There are a number of handsome engravings in the book of the choice varieties of fowls. There is a supplement accompanying this useful volume containing other engravings of choice birds and also a comical ballad on the Electoral Commission written in Mr. Colton's well-known humorous and telling style with quaint illustrations. The publication is highly creditable to Mr. Colton's enterprise and good taste, and will furnish a valuable manual to all those interested upon the subject of how to manage a poultry yard and to raise fine breeds | train. of fowls. The Chestnut Ridge poultry yard is one of the most complete in the state, and receives the careful supervision of Mr. Colton.

> Personal .- Dr. C. K. Nelson, vicepresident of St. John's College, favored us with a visit, one day this week, and we were glad, indeed, to see him. The Doctor is a distinguished educator and a Southern geotleman of kind impulses and affable manner. He is traveling in the interest of St. John's College, an institution where many of Maryland's illustrious sons, including Reverdy Johnson, were educated. It is strange that persons will send their sons to institutions of learning out of the State, when St. John's College, with its able corps of professors, offers an education as thorough and as cheap as any college in the country.

Knights of Pythins. -- Fidelily Lodge, No. 61, K. of P., of this city, gave a grand parade and pic-nic yesterday. There was a large attendance of Knights from Baltimore and the day was one of great pleasure for all participants. The 1.30 train from Baltim ore brought many members of the lodges of that city, and they were received at the depot by Fidelity Lodge and escorted to Sunderland's Park, where the afternoon and evening were spent in enjoyment, and at 11 o'clock the visiting lodges returned by special

> Messas, Epirons: News having been scarce in this locality for some time, your correspondent from this place has been compelled to remain quiet, but being constantly on the alert to take notice of all worthy occasions, it certainly affords me great pleasure to inform you of the vast amount of pleasure we folks have been recently enjoying. The first occasion, of which I shall speak, is a grand complimentary dance given by Mr. Gustavus Warfield and lady at their beautiful residenc, near Glenwood, on Thursday evening, Sept. 4. It was resplendent with glittering lights, and the fair ladies, for which the neighborhood is prominent people from Howard and Car- noted, began to assemble about 8.30 began, and the excellent music rendered by Draper's band from Baltimore, inspired all with its charms. Dancing continued till midnight, when refreshments were served, and such a table we never saw before, adorned in the most beautiful style with pyramids of fruits, flowers, &c. and literally groating beneath its weight of nice things. After refreshments, dancing was again resumed and continued till the light of day showed us how rapidly and pleasantly time had flown. With early dawn we bade farewell to the happy host and hostess, and left for our homes meditating on the most pleasant evening we had ever spent.

After being disappointed on two former occasions, the Glenwood Social Club held their first complimentary picwoods, near Glenwood. The Club has Martinsburg; Misses Bully, Macy, Baltlmore; Miss Stinson, Catonsville; Miss Dillow Georgico, Mr. Jay, Baltimore; Hon, Richard Snowden, Prince George's upon too much of your valuable space, I close. Truly yours, DICK DEADEVE.

"ELLIOTT." MATE, XIX. 11.

Over the rippling waters One dreamy August day, Went the little mariner Into the heavenly bay.
Beyond the misty twilight
That hides it from our view,
The sails are furled—he's waiting, O mother sad, for you.

From where the gleaming jasper walls. Arise, the loved and lost one calls. Yea, loved! but lost, oh never! The angels stretched their hands The glory of Beulah's lands.

And hore from you your darling— We mortals call'd him dead; O'er our dim, earthly vision The veil's in mercy spread. Yet just within the pearly gates "Tis there the "little angel" waits.

O, Father! guard our treasure In safety on Thy breast, Until we come to meet him "Where the weary are at rest." "Thy will be done!" O keep us, That we may never stray When thou dost point the way. But much of light and much of joy, Is buried with an only boy !

Bultimore, Md.—Dear Sir: I am glad to state that your treatment of my case has realized my greatest hopes. For more than twenty years I have been troubled with the Fistula in ano and Ulcers that were weeping for some weeks past. I have been relieved of both, and do not think I shall be troubled with them again, and by a process almost painless I have been cured radically and permanently, as I ful-ly believe, of this terrible disease, and I shall take great pleasure in recommending your treatment to my friends and all those who are troubled with Piles, Fissure and Fistula
