Use is hardly more than another name for fashion. It is the mode of the day that determines what to wear. To wear the small clothes and full bottomed wigs of our grandfathers today would be most ungrammatical, and yet in the old time it would have been equally an error to appear without them. This is a constantly fluctuating rule of which it is true the principle remains the same, but of which the application varies constantly. Everybody recognizes it, and everybody is more or less influenced by it. It is needless to point out that to be too far behind or too much in advance of the changing fashion is to be deplorable, but it is just here, it may be remarked, that this principle passes into that of elegance.—Boston Courier.

How Indians Prepare Grasshoppers.
When grasshoppers are very abundant and in prime condition the Indians dig a hole, build a fire in the bottom of it and drive the swarms of insects into it from all directions. Then they cover the opening with blankets. The hoppers thus killed are taken out and put into bags with salt. Afterward they are spread out to dry in the sun. The wings and legs are removed before eating.—Washington Star.

Fraud in Coffee Grinding.
It is in the grinding of coffee that the greatest opportunity for fraud occurs. Here there is a chance to mix in any quantity of cheap substances, that are ground in so that the grains of the product are all of the same size. The purpose of this is to force absolutely no protection short of chemical or microscopical analysis. The compound taken on the aroma of whatever the opening with blankets. The hoppers thus killed are taken out and put into bags with salt. Afterward they are spread out to dry in the sun. The wings and legs are removed before eating.—Washington Star.
