

THE TIMES. PUBLISHED BY THE TIMES PUBLISHING COMPANY, OF BALTIMORE, MD. J. E. HILL, Editor. J. H. MORROW, Business Manager.

KEEP OUR EYE ON HIM. A Washington dispatch to the Baltimore Daily News says: "Keep your eye on Gorman," said one of the big Tammany leaders in Congress to the News correspondent, and added: "I am not saying that he will be nominated. I simply advise you to keep your eye on him, and in figuring up the chances of the various Presidential candidates for the Democratic nomination be sure that you make a large allowance for Gorman. Oh, no, I don't know that Tammany has concluded to switch over to him. But to be frank with you, I will say that in my opinion, Gorman is today more likely to be nominated than anybody else, and he is the man to watch, but I am speaking of the present."

THE NAVY OUT OF POLITICS. Secretary Tracy Compliments Senator Gorman for His Good Work. At the presentation through the Baltimore American of a handsome silver service to the cruiser Baltimore, at the Imperial Hotel, recently, Hon. B. R. Tracy, Secretary of the Navy, paid a splendid tribute to Senator Gorman. Referring to the improvement of the navy, he said: "We, gentlemen, all appreciate the important part your State has played in bringing about this new condition of affairs, and I would be most grateful and unjust, if I failed to speak of the able work of your senior Senator, Mr. Gorman, in this direction."

GENERAL NEWS. A Frightful Disaster in the Oil Region of Pennsylvania. A press dispatch from Oil City, Pa., says: "Eighteen miles of death and desolation in the story in brief of the awful catastrophe which has befallen the borders of Oil Creek from Titusville to this point. On both sides of the creek flood and fire have left ruin and wreck, and will take days before the record of death and destruction can be completed. This is the most awful disaster which has ever come to this vicinity and has no rival in the United States except the great fire of 1862. A raging torrent of oil under-landed and topped into the flood, a coal dropped from a locomotive passing over the bridge in the city, a series of explosions along the surface of the creek, and houses, men, women and children were instantly wrapped in flames. The inmates of the houses had but to choose between the record of death and destruction, or to be burned to death. There was no escape, and many chose the easier death and jumped into the water; but even there they were not safe, and every body no far recovered shows that fire helped the work of destruction. Two hundred lives are believed to have been lost by the disaster. The loss to property is estimated at over $2,000,000."

Brager's Brager's Unwonted Bargains. READ EVERY ITEM THAT FOLLOWS—READ EVERY SYLLABLE OF EVERY ITEM—READ EVERY LETTER OF EVERY SYLLABLE OF EVERY ITEM—FOR THERE HAS NEVER BEEN SUCH READING BEFORE. Monday, June 6th. WE'LL OPEN THE FLOODGATES OF SEASONABLE MERCHANDISE—WE'LL TURN LOOSE THE BEST OF EVERYTHING IN OUR HOUSE—WE'LL DETHROW THE HIGHEST FABRICS AND CULMINATE ALL IN ONE. Great, Grand AND— STUPENDOUS SALE! PRICES WILL BE MADE MORE PLAYTHINGS—COST AND VALUE WILL BE SUNK INTO OBLIVION. EVERY DEPARTMENT—EVERY PIECE IN EVERY DEPARTMENT—EVERY YARD IN EVERY PIECE IN EVERY DEPARTMENT WILL LEND AID TO THE INEVITABLE DEVIATION. NOTHING WILL BE FORGOTTEN—BUT THE PREVIOUS PRICES. EVERY PHASE OF FEMINE DRESS-WEAR WILL ENTER INTO A NEW ERA—A NEW CREATION AS IT WERE. SILKS—DRESS-WEAR—NOVELTIES AND NECESSITIES WILL JOIN HANDS UNDER ONE BANNER—PERHAPS NEVER TO RALLY AGAIN—FOR "BRAGER" NEVER DOES THINGS BY HALVES. THIS MIGHTY SALE OF MERCHANDISE WILL NE'ER BE FORGOTTEN—T'WILL LIVE AFTER US—T'WILL BE THE GREATEST OF THE TIMES—T'WILL AID ANOTHER LAUREL TO THE PAME OF "BRAGER OF BALTIMORE."

Joel Gutman & Co., BALTIMORE, MD. EVERYTHING DRY GOODS. Silks, Colored Dress Goods, Mourning Goods, Wash Goods, White Goods, Embroideries, Millinery, Trimmings, Infants' Wear, Wraps, Ladies' Parasols, Goggles, Hosiery, Men's Underwear, Curries, Embroidery Goods, Gents' Furnishings, Ladies' Neckties, Perfumery, Toilet Articles.

PATAPSCO FLOUR THE PREMIER FLOUR AMERICA ESTABLISHED 1774. PERFECTION IN FLOUR. OUR PATENT ROLLER FLOURS. A. C. Taylor, ELICOTT CITY, MD. DEALER IN Drugs, Medicines, Chemicals, Fine Toilet Soaps, Brushes, Combs, etc.

THE NOMINEE. The Times would just as gladly support Mr. Cleveland for the Presidency as any other Democrat, but it is really a little amusing to observe how far out of their way some people are going to find arguments for the Ex-President's re-nomination. One argument is that Mr. Cleveland is all right in New York because the Empire State has always done best after factional differences before election. Another is that Mr. Cleveland can hold the mugwumps, and the party fealty of the regulars can be depended upon to prevent any bolt of the latter. Another is that Tammany's interest in local politics renders it desirous of diverting the anti-Tammanies by interesting them in national politics.

Some Inside Facts. If Gorman is a Protectionist, So is Cleveland. "But, Mr. Watterston," said a recent interviewer of Henry Watterston, the famous Kentucky editor, "you have been quoted as discrediting Mr. Cleveland, as a tariff reformer—what about that?" "There has been considerable misconception about that. The way of it was this: Mr. Gorman of Maryland, was being held up to discredit as a protectionist in disguise, and Mr. Cleveland as the only one who is true to the original mores of tariff reform. In answer to this, I simply stated that so far from his being true, Mr. Gorman had gone to the St. Louis Convention in 1888 as Mr. Cleveland's personal representative, that he had taken within him, out of Mr. Cleveland's hands, a cut-and-dried platform, ignoring the President's message of December, 1887, ignoring the Mills bill, and reiterating and reaffirming the tariff straddle we had made at Chicago in 1884; so that if Mr. Gorman was nominated on the tariff so was Mr. Cleveland. But I went on to argue the reverse—that both were sound; that in point of fact all the old sounds were healed, and that all good Democrats were good tariff reformers. Of course, the mere hero-worshippers, who have made an ideal Cleveland, and fallen upon their faces before this image of their own making, have to object, and to explain that what I had said could not possibly be true, although I could, if I had wished, have supplemented it with the statement that Mr. Cleveland was so distrustful of the issue which he had precipitated so sharply that within ten days after he sent his message to Congress he canceled an interview with me, prepared taking the backbone out of it, and that this was withheld upon the urgent advice of friends among them Mr. Gorman. Mr. Cleveland made a good president. He is a man of ability, integrity and courage. But he is not the only Democrat who has made a good president. To say that he is, is to confess a kind of vasalage, to abandon freedom of thought and choice, and in short, to put a dog collar on a great man. On the practical side, Mr. Cleveland is a painstaking and hard worker, conscientious and fearless. On the intellectual and spiritual, a clear dreamer, both subtle and like him. But a man's man, and, as it seems to me, that Mr. Cleveland is wholly unavailable at this time—that his nomination is to invite, if not to insure, defeat, and against it. Men are nothing. They are here to-day and gone to-morrow. Principles, measures, ideas live for all time. But excuse my warmth. I am a bit of a crack when I get on the subject of personal liberty."

From Friend to Friend. Goes the story of the excellence of Hood's Sarsaparilla and what it has accomplished, and this is the strongest advertising which is done on behalf of this medicine. We endeavor to tell honestly what Hood's Sarsaparilla is and what it will do, but what it has done is far more important and far more potent. Its unequalled record of cures is sure to convince those who have never tried Hood's Sarsaparilla that it is an excellent medicine. "Is this hot enough for you?" is a silly question, if by you meet a man who complains of suffering from the blood, to one you will find, on inquiry, that he does not use Ayer's Sarsaparilla to tone up his system and free his blood from irritating humors.

DEED. BENSON. On Sunday, June 5, MARY A. BENSON, aged 9 years, 9 months and 11 days, United States daughter of Dr. John A. Benson, of Cockeysville, Md., died at her residence, 1212 North Avenue, Baltimore, Md., at one o'clock, P.M., of typhoid fever, and was buried at 10:30 A.M. Interment at St. Paul's Church.

WANTED. A Young lady desires a situation as COMPTON for a lady or GIVERESS for the United States, English, Music and French. Address MISS 'K', care Postmaster, Colton, Nelson Co., Virginia.

WANTED. Thorough huster on liberal salary to conduct exclusively Howard county. Best stock and lowest prices. Address MISS 'K', care Postmaster, Colton, Nelson Co., Virginia.

WANTED. A Young lady desires a situation as COMPTON for a lady or GIVERESS for the United States, English, Music and French. Address MISS 'K', care Postmaster, Colton, Nelson Co., Virginia.

WANTED. Thorough huster on liberal salary to conduct exclusively Howard county. Best stock and lowest prices. Address MISS 'K', care Postmaster, Colton, Nelson Co., Virginia.

WE CAN STAND IT NOW. Generally if there is any mistake in a newspaper's bill for subscription, the subscriber maintains that it is in his favor. In other words that the bill is too large. We have, however, been agreeably surprised twice in one day by subscribers who have insisted that our bills were too small and that in each case the subscriber's indebtedness was a dollar more than our bill showed. When in the first instance, on the recent occasion referred to, our subscriber made this statement, we gasped and fell from the editorial tripod, and it was only the money and the reassurance of the devil, who had come in to see what was the matter, that convinced us that it was not all a wild, delightful dream. We almost fainted again when, within an hour, the second subscriber came along and insisted on paying us a dollar more than we asked of him, but our first experience had partially prepared us for the sensation, and ever since we have felt as accustomed to getting an unexpected dollar as we are to being cussed for charging a year too many.

INSANITY IS GRAVE TO THE INCREASE. It is asserted, and with apparent reason, that the tendency of our modern civilization is to over-educate the brain at the body's expense. Yet insanity is developed in people who cannot be accused of brain cultivation, excessive or otherwise. Whatever the difference in the bodies of those who are insane and those who are sane, there is the difference in the conclusion that it constitutes one of the gravest dangers of society.—Baltimore American.

INSANITY IS GRAVE TO THE INCREASE. It is asserted, and with apparent reason, that the tendency of our modern civilization is to over-educate the brain at the body's expense. Yet insanity is developed in people who cannot be accused of brain cultivation, excessive or otherwise. Whatever the difference in the bodies of those who are insane and those who are sane, there is the difference in the conclusion that it constitutes one of the gravest dangers of society.—Baltimore American.

INSANITY IS GRAVE TO THE INCREASE. It is asserted, and with apparent reason, that the tendency of our modern civilization is to over-educate the brain at the body's expense. Yet insanity is developed in people who cannot be accused of brain cultivation, excessive or otherwise. Whatever the difference in the bodies of those who are insane and those who are sane, there is the difference in the conclusion that it constitutes one of the gravest dangers of society.—Baltimore American.

INSANITY IS GRAVE TO THE INCREASE. It is asserted, and with apparent reason, that the tendency of our modern civilization is to over-educate the brain at the body's expense. Yet insanity is developed in people who cannot be accused of brain cultivation, excessive or otherwise. Whatever the difference in the bodies of those who are insane and those who are sane, there is the difference in the conclusion that it constitutes one of the gravest dangers of society.—Baltimore American.

INSANITY IS GRAVE TO THE INCREASE. It is asserted, and with apparent reason, that the tendency of our modern civilization is to over-educate the brain at the body's expense. Yet insanity is developed in people who cannot be accused of brain cultivation, excessive or otherwise. Whatever the difference in the bodies of those who are insane and those who are sane, there is the difference in the conclusion that it constitutes one of the gravest dangers of society.—Baltimore American.

INSANITY IS GRAVE TO THE INCREASE. It is asserted, and with apparent reason, that the tendency of our modern civilization is to over-educate the brain at the body's expense. Yet insanity is developed in people who cannot be accused of brain cultivation, excessive or otherwise. Whatever the difference in the bodies of those who are insane and those who are sane, there is the difference in the conclusion that it constitutes one of the gravest dangers of society.—Baltimore American.

INSANITY IS GRAVE TO THE INCREASE. It is asserted, and with apparent reason, that the tendency of our modern civilization is to over-educate the brain at the body's expense. Yet insanity is developed in people who cannot be accused of brain cultivation, excessive or otherwise. Whatever the difference in the bodies of those who are insane and those who are sane, there is the difference in the conclusion that it constitutes one of the gravest dangers of society.—Baltimore American.

INSANITY IS GRAVE TO THE INCREASE. It is asserted, and with apparent reason, that the tendency of our modern civilization is to over-educate the brain at the body's expense. Yet insanity is developed in people who cannot be accused of brain cultivation, excessive or otherwise. Whatever the difference in the bodies of those who are insane and those who are sane, there is the difference in the conclusion that it constitutes one of the gravest dangers of society.—Baltimore American.

INSANITY IS GRAVE TO THE INCREASE. It is asserted, and with apparent reason, that the tendency of our modern civilization is to over-educate the brain at the body's expense. Yet insanity is developed in people who cannot be accused of brain cultivation, excessive or otherwise. Whatever the difference in the bodies of those who are insane and those who are sane, there is the difference in the conclusion that it constitutes one of the gravest dangers of society.—Baltimore American.

INSANITY IS GRAVE TO THE INCREASE. It is asserted, and with apparent reason, that the tendency of our modern civilization is to over-educate the brain at the body's expense. Yet insanity is developed in people who cannot be accused of brain cultivation, excessive or otherwise. Whatever the difference in the bodies of those who are insane and those who are sane, there is the difference in the conclusion that it constitutes one of the gravest dangers of society.—Baltimore American.

INSANITY IS GRAVE TO THE INCREASE. It is asserted, and with apparent reason, that the tendency of our modern civilization is to over-educate the brain at the body's expense. Yet insanity is developed in people who cannot be accused of brain cultivation, excessive or otherwise. Whatever the difference in the bodies of those who are insane and those who are sane, there is the difference in the conclusion that it constitutes one of the gravest dangers of society.—Baltimore American.

INSANITY IS GRAVE TO THE INCREASE. It is asserted, and with apparent reason, that the tendency of our modern civilization is to over-educate the brain at the body's expense. Yet insanity is developed in people who cannot be accused of brain cultivation, excessive or otherwise. Whatever the difference in the bodies of those who are insane and those who are sane, there is the difference in the conclusion that it constitutes one of the gravest dangers of society.—Baltimore American.

INSANITY IS GRAVE TO THE INCREASE. It is asserted, and with apparent reason, that the tendency of our modern civilization is to over-educate the brain at the body's expense. Yet insanity is developed in people who cannot be accused of brain cultivation, excessive or otherwise. Whatever the difference in the bodies of those who are insane and those who are sane, there is the difference in the conclusion that it constitutes one of the gravest dangers of society.—Baltimore American.

INSANITY IS GRAVE TO THE INCREASE. It is asserted, and with apparent reason, that the tendency of our modern civilization is to over-educate the brain at the body's expense. Yet insanity is developed in people who cannot be accused of brain cultivation, excessive or otherwise. Whatever the difference in the bodies of those who are insane and those who are sane, there is the difference in the conclusion that it constitutes one of the gravest dangers of society.—Baltimore American.

INSANITY IS GRAVE TO THE INCREASE. It is asserted, and with apparent reason, that the tendency of our modern civilization is to over-educate the brain at the body's expense. Yet insanity is developed in people who cannot be accused of brain cultivation, excessive or otherwise. Whatever the difference in the bodies of those who are insane and those who are sane, there is the difference in the conclusion that it constitutes one of the gravest dangers of society.—Baltimore American.

INSANITY IS GRAVE TO THE INCREASE. It is asserted, and with apparent reason, that the tendency of our modern civilization is to over-educate the brain at the body's expense. Yet insanity is developed in people who cannot be accused of brain cultivation, excessive or otherwise. Whatever the difference in the bodies of those who are insane and those who are sane, there is the difference in the conclusion that it constitutes one of the gravest dangers of society.—Baltimore American.

INSANITY IS GRAVE TO THE INCREASE. It is asserted, and with apparent reason, that the tendency of our modern civilization is to over-educate the brain at the body's expense. Yet insanity is developed in people who cannot be accused of brain cultivation, excessive or otherwise. Whatever the difference in the bodies of those who are insane and those who are sane, there is the difference in the conclusion that it constitutes one of the gravest dangers of society.—Baltimore American.

INSANITY IS GRAVE TO THE INCREASE. It is asserted, and with apparent reason, that the tendency of our modern civilization is to over-educate the brain at the body's expense. Yet insanity is developed in people who cannot be accused of brain cultivation, excessive or otherwise. Whatever the difference in the bodies of those who are insane and those who are sane, there is the difference in the conclusion that it constitutes one of the gravest dangers of society.—Baltimore American.

INSANITY IS GRAVE TO THE INCREASE. It is asserted, and with apparent reason, that the tendency of our modern civilization is to over-educate the brain at the body's expense. Yet insanity is developed in people who cannot be accused of brain cultivation, excessive or otherwise. Whatever the difference in the bodies of those who are insane and those who are sane, there is the difference in the conclusion that it constitutes one of the gravest dangers of society.—Baltimore American.

INSANITY IS GRAVE TO THE INCREASE. It is asserted, and with apparent reason, that the tendency of our modern civilization is to over-educate the brain at the body's expense. Yet insanity is developed in people who cannot be accused of brain cultivation, excessive or otherwise. Whatever the difference in the bodies of those who are insane and those who are sane, there is the difference in the conclusion that it constitutes one of the gravest dangers of society.—Baltimore American.

INSANITY IS GRAVE TO THE INCREASE. It is asserted, and with apparent reason, that the tendency of our modern civilization is to over-educate the brain at the body's expense. Yet insanity is developed in people who cannot be accused of brain cultivation, excessive or otherwise. Whatever the difference in the bodies of those who are insane and those who are sane, there is the difference in the conclusion that it constitutes one of the gravest dangers of society.—Baltimore American.

INSANITY IS GRAVE TO THE INCREASE. It is asserted, and with apparent reason, that the tendency of our modern civilization is to over-educate the brain at the body's expense. Yet insanity is developed in people who cannot be accused of brain cultivation, excessive or otherwise. Whatever the difference in the bodies of those who are insane and those who are sane, there is the difference in the conclusion that it constitutes one of the gravest dangers of society.—Baltimore American.

INSANITY IS GRAVE TO THE INCREASE. It is asserted, and with apparent reason, that the tendency of our modern civilization is to over-educate the brain at the body's expense. Yet insanity is developed in people who cannot be accused of brain cultivation, excessive or otherwise. Whatever the difference in the bodies of those who are insane and those who are sane, there is the difference in the conclusion that it constitutes one of the gravest dangers of society.—Baltimore American.

INSANITY IS GRAVE TO THE INCREASE. It is asserted, and with apparent reason, that the tendency of our modern civilization is to over-educate the brain at the body's expense. Yet insanity is developed in people who cannot be accused of brain cultivation, excessive or otherwise. Whatever the difference in the bodies of those who are insane and those who are sane, there is the difference in the conclusion that it constitutes one of the gravest dangers of society.—Baltimore American.

INSANITY IS GRAVE TO THE INCREASE. It is asserted, and with apparent reason, that the tendency of our modern civilization is to over-educate the brain at the body's expense. Yet insanity is developed in people who cannot be accused of brain cultivation, excessive or otherwise. Whatever the difference in the bodies of those who are insane and those who are sane, there is the difference in the conclusion that it constitutes one of the gravest dangers of society.—Baltimore American.

INSANITY IS GRAVE TO THE INCREASE. It is asserted, and with apparent reason, that the tendency of our modern civilization is to over-educate the brain at the body's expense. Yet insanity is developed in people who cannot be accused of brain cultivation, excessive or otherwise. Whatever the difference in the bodies of those who are insane and those who are sane, there is the difference in the conclusion that it constitutes one of the gravest dangers of society.—Baltimore American.

INSANITY IS GRAVE TO THE INCREASE. It is asserted, and with apparent reason, that the tendency of our modern civilization is to over-educate the brain at the body's expense. Yet insanity is developed in people who cannot be accused of brain cultivation, excessive or otherwise. Whatever the difference in the bodies of those who are insane and those who are sane, there is the difference in the conclusion that it constitutes one of the gravest dangers of society.—Baltimore American.

INSANITY IS GRAVE TO THE INCREASE. It is asserted, and with apparent reason, that the tendency of our modern civilization is to over-educate the brain at the body's expense. Yet insanity is developed in people who cannot be accused of brain cultivation, excessive or otherwise. Whatever the difference in the bodies of those who are insane and those who are sane, there is the difference in the conclusion that it constitutes one of the gravest dangers of society.—Baltimore American.

INSANITY IS GRAVE TO THE INCREASE. It is asserted, and with apparent reason, that the tendency of our modern civilization is to over-educate the brain at the body's expense. Yet insanity is developed in people who cannot be accused of brain cultivation, excessive or otherwise. Whatever the difference in the bodies of those who are insane and those who are sane, there is the difference in the conclusion that it constitutes one of the gravest dangers of society.—Baltimore American.

INSANITY IS GRAVE TO THE INCREASE. It is asserted, and with apparent reason, that the tendency of our modern civilization is to over-educate the brain at the body's expense. Yet insanity is developed in people who cannot be accused of brain cultivation, excessive or otherwise. Whatever the difference in the bodies of those who are insane and those who are sane, there is the difference in the conclusion that it constitutes one of the gravest dangers of society.—Baltimore American.

INSANITY IS GRAVE TO THE INCREASE. It is asserted, and with apparent reason, that the tendency of our modern civilization is to over-educate the brain at the body's expense. Yet insanity is developed in people who cannot be accused of brain cultivation, excessive or otherwise. Whatever the difference in the bodies of those who are insane and those who are sane, there is the difference in the conclusion that it constitutes one of the gravest dangers of society.—Baltimore American.

INSANITY IS GRAVE TO THE INCREASE. It is asserted, and with apparent reason, that the tendency of our modern civilization is to over-educate the brain at the body's expense. Yet insanity is developed in people who cannot be accused of brain cultivation, excessive or otherwise. Whatever the difference in the bodies of those who are insane and those who are sane, there is the difference in the conclusion that it constitutes one of the gravest dangers of society.—Baltimore American.

INSANITY IS GRAVE TO THE INCREASE. It is asserted, and with apparent reason, that the tendency of our modern civilization is to over-educate the brain at the body's expense. Yet insanity is developed in people who cannot be accused of brain cultivation, excessive or otherwise. Whatever the difference in the bodies of those who are insane and those who are sane, there is the difference in the conclusion that it constitutes one of the gravest dangers of society.—Baltimore American.

INSANITY IS GRAVE TO THE INCREASE. It is asserted, and with apparent reason, that the tendency of our modern civilization is to over-educate the brain at the body's expense. Yet insanity is developed in people who cannot be accused of brain cultivation, excessive or otherwise. Whatever the difference in the bodies of those who are insane and those who are sane, there is the difference in the conclusion that it constitutes one of the gravest dangers of society.—Baltimore American.

INSANITY IS GRAVE TO THE INCREASE. It is asserted, and with apparent reason, that the tendency of our modern civilization is to over-educate the brain at the body's expense. Yet insanity is developed in people who cannot be accused of brain cultivation, excessive or otherwise. Whatever the difference in the bodies of those who are insane and those who are sane, there is the difference in the conclusion that it constitutes one of the gravest dangers of society.—Baltimore American.

INSANITY IS GRAVE TO THE INCREASE. It is asserted, and with apparent reason, that the tendency of our modern civilization is to over-educate the brain at the body's expense. Yet insanity is developed in people who cannot be accused of brain cultivation, excessive or otherwise. Whatever the difference in the bodies of those who are insane and those who are sane, there is the difference in the conclusion that it constitutes one of the gravest dangers of society.—Baltimore American.

INSANITY IS GRAVE TO THE INCREASE. It is asserted, and with apparent reason, that the tendency of our modern civilization is to over-educate the brain at the body's expense. Yet insanity is developed in people who cannot be accused of brain cultivation, excessive or otherwise. Whatever the difference in the bodies of those who are insane and those who are sane, there is the difference in the conclusion that it constitutes one of the gravest dangers of society.—Baltimore American.

INSANITY IS GRAVE TO THE INCREASE. It is asserted, and with apparent reason, that the tendency of our modern civilization is to over-educate the brain at the body's expense. Yet insanity is developed in people who cannot be accused of brain cultivation, excessive or otherwise. Whatever the difference in the bodies of those who are insane and those who are sane, there is the difference in the conclusion that it constitutes one of the gravest dangers of society.—Baltimore American.

INSANITY IS GRAVE TO THE INCREASE. It is asserted, and with apparent reason, that the tendency of our modern civilization is to over-educate the brain at the body's expense. Yet insanity is developed in people who cannot be accused of brain cultivation, excessive or otherwise. Whatever the difference in the bodies of those who are insane and those who are sane, there is the difference in the conclusion that it constitutes one of the gravest dangers of society.—Baltimore American.

INSANITY IS GRAVE TO THE INCREASE. It is asserted, and with apparent reason, that the tendency of our modern civilization is to over-educate the brain at the body's expense. Yet insanity is developed in people who cannot be accused of brain cultivation, excessive or otherwise. Whatever the difference in the bodies of those who are insane and those who are sane, there is the difference in the conclusion that it constitutes one of the gravest dangers of society.—Baltimore American.

INSANITY IS GRAVE TO THE INCREASE. It is asserted, and with apparent reason, that the tendency of our modern civilization is to over-educate the brain at the body's expense. Yet insanity is developed in people who cannot be accused of brain cultivation, excessive or otherwise. Whatever the difference in the bodies of those who are insane and those who are sane, there is the difference in the conclusion that it constitutes one of the gravest dangers of society.—Baltimore American.

INSANITY IS GRAVE TO THE INCREASE. It is asserted, and with apparent reason, that the tendency of our modern civilization is to over-educate the brain at the body's expense. Yet insanity is developed in people who cannot be accused of brain cultivation, excessive or otherwise. Whatever the difference in the bodies of those who are insane and those who are sane, there is the difference in the conclusion that it constitutes one of the gravest dangers of society.—Baltimore American.

INSANITY IS GRAVE TO THE INCREASE. It is asserted, and with apparent reason, that the tendency of our modern civilization is to over-educate the brain at the body's expense. Yet insanity is developed in people who cannot be accused of brain cultivation, excessive or otherwise. Whatever the difference in the bodies of those who are insane and those who are sane, there is the difference in the conclusion that it constitutes one of the gravest dangers of society.—Baltimore American.

INSANITY IS GRAVE TO THE INCREASE. It is asserted, and with apparent reason, that the tendency of our modern civilization is to over-educate the brain at the body's expense. Yet insanity is developed in people who cannot be accused of brain cultivation, excessive or otherwise. Whatever the difference in the bodies of those who are insane and those who are sane, there is the difference in the conclusion that it constitutes one of the gravest dangers of society.—Baltimore American.

INSANITY IS GRAVE TO THE INCREASE. It is asserted, and with apparent reason, that the tendency of our modern civilization is to over-educate the brain at the body's expense. Yet insanity is developed in people who cannot be accused of brain cultivation, excessive or otherwise. Whatever the difference in the bodies of those who are insane and those who are sane, there is the difference in the conclusion that it constitutes one of the gravest dangers of society.—Baltimore American.

INSANITY IS GRAVE TO THE INCREASE. It is asserted, and with apparent reason, that the tendency of our modern civilization is to over-educate the brain at the body's expense. Yet insanity is developed in people who cannot be accused of brain cultivation, excessive or otherwise. Whatever the difference in the bodies of those who are insane and those who are sane, there is the difference in the conclusion that it constitutes one of the gravest dangers of society.—Baltimore American.

INSANITY IS GRAVE TO THE INCREASE. It is asserted, and with apparent reason, that the tendency of our modern civilization is to over-educate the brain at the body's expense. Yet insanity is developed in people who cannot be accused of brain cultivation, excessive or otherwise. Whatever the difference in the bodies of those who are insane and those who are sane, there is the difference in the conclusion that it constitutes one of the gravest dangers of society.—Baltimore American.