A Pretty Wedding at St. Panl's Catholic Church-Entertainment by the Gibbons Literary Society-Prospects of Edmondson Avenue Being Extended to Ellicott

St. Paul's Catholic Church here was the scene Wednesday afternoon, at 4.30 o'clock, of a very pretty and fashionable wedding. The bride was Miss Mary E. Wallenhorst, eldest daughter of Justice B. H. Wallenhorst, of Ellicott City, and the groom was Dr. George P. Costello, of Baltimore. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Father Tarro, rector of St. Paul's Church, Ellicott City. The ushers were Mr. Frank A. Wallenhorst, brother of the bride, and Messrs. William Costello, William Doyle and Clifton J. Hill, of Baitimore. The bride wore : fawn-colored ray cloth suit, with bat and gloves to match, and carried la France roses. Wedding marches were played by Miss Blanche Trucheart as the party entered and ettired from the church. The pretty edifice was handsomely decorated with bright flowers, in which white chrysanthemums predominated. Preceding the marriage an elegant luncheon was given the bridal party and friends at the home of the bride's parents, on Main street. Dr. and Mrs. Costello left immediately after the ceremony by train for their future home, No. 1100 Carrollton avenue, Baltimore. Among those present at the church were: Revs Father Williams and Paul, of Washington, D. C.; Justice and Mrs. B. H. Entertertainment at Rock Hill. Thankegiving Day at Rock Hill College was celebrated by the usual literary. musical and dramatic feast which the Gibbons Literary Society is ever able to furnish. Whenever the society in former times announced an entertainment there was sure to be an overflow. They were finally compelled to limit the audiences to invited guests. On Thursday the hall was full to overflowing. Following is the program

A Road That Should be Re-opened. The road which winds along the hill through Mrs. Reus' place, and strikes Sucker Branch near the railroad, was formerly used to reach the farms now reached by the road passing through the Merrick estate. It ran up along the branch the hollow passes by. The road being so close to the branch it was entirely washed away by the flood of 1868. An effort in the near future will be made to reopen this road, as it will save the long hill which commences in the hollow and continues almost uninterruptedly until Mr. Hinmon's new house is reached, over half a mile. A Times representaive in an interview with a prominent resident of that locality was told that an effort would be made sooner or later to extend the road to the Jonestown road inter secting somewhere on Mr. James Gaith er's place. The cost of making this road would be slight in comparison with some other roads, as there are no heavy grades to be overcome. The drive would be one of the most pleasant in the vicin ity of Ellicott City as the branch would present a series of romantic and sequestered scenes quite unequalled by the section of Maryland.

It has been suggested also that in the event of the Edmondson Avenue electric railway reaching this place the Branch would present the most accessible route for reaching the interior of the county and the shortest possible route to Washington. It would traverse the most attractive portions of Howard county.

Death of Mrs. Barbara Miller.

Mrs. Barbara Miller, relict of the late George Miller, died at her home, near Gray's, Baltimore County, on Saturday 19th inst., aged 68 years. The deceased had been an invalid for the past twenty four years. During the flood of July 1868, Mrs. Miller, who then resided in Ellicott City, on the Baltimore county side, was confined to her bed from sickness and had to be removed from her home to a place of safety. The excitement caused a paralytic stroke from which she never recovered. Her husband died some years after the flood Eight children survive her, among them Messrs. August and Harman Miller, of Ilchester, Mr. George Miller, of Orange Grove and Misses Kate, Lizzie, Mary and Nellie Miller. Her funeral took place from St. Paul's Catholic Church, on Monday last, Rev. Father Stern, of Hehester, officiating. The interment was in the Catholic Cemetery near this city.

The Electric Light Plant.

An additional boiler has been put in by the electric light company here which will insure a large amount of reserve power in case of accident. The number of lights greatly increased during the summer, assuring the success of the enterprise. The enterprise has become a purely local one, sustained by local capital and should be heartinvite capital and settlement. Those who are using the light would not now be without it, and in some respects it is superior to gas, certainly more convenient. Mr. Schreiber, who is the practical man connected with the concern, is making every effort to put the power in such a condition as will fully meet all demands in the way of furnishing a good and reliable light.

Driving Accident.

Mr. William B. Owings, deputy clerk of the Circuit Court and son of clerk John H. Owings, met with a severe accident Sunday while returning to his home in the Sixth district from a visit to Ellicott City. When near Columbia his horse became frightened and wheeled suddenly, throwing him forcibly upon a pile of stones. Four of his front teeth were knocked out and his head was badly cut and bruised. He was also hurt about the body, and it was supposed he had received internal injury. He was taken home in an almost unconscious condition and medical aid summoned. His condition has greately improved in the past few days.

The Edmondson Avenue Line. There is little in the way of the Edmondson Avenue, Catonsville and Ellicott City Electric Railway coming here now since the company has obtained the necessary franchise in Baltimore city. While nothing can be obtained definitely, at present, it is evident the company making strenuous efforts to run electric cars out this direction. The Avenue is already graded and finished to within

ed. That there would be a demand for property along the line goes without saving. The company in seeking the right of way for future operations has had some difficulty in getting past a part of the Garret estate just outside of the city limits. The board of county commissioners of Baltimore county in session on Wednesday granted the company the necessary privileges at that point, with the additional right to "grade when and where necessary."

Mr. Isaiah Balderson, an employe of Thistle Cotton Mills, at Ilchester, met with a painful accident Saturday last while working in the carding toom of the mill. His left hand was caught in the machinery and crushed so badly that Drs. S. J. Fort and B. J. Byrne, who were called in, found it necessary to amputate three of the fingers.

Teacher's Association

Oella Items. In years gone by the office of Justice of the Peace was a much sought after position, but such is not the case now, and particularly so at this place. Oella is probably the only place where the emoluments of the office are so inadequate that the office really goes a begging. Last January, so we are informed, Gov. Brown appointed two of our citizens to this office, but both positively refused to qualify. So the magistrate business has been rendered a dead letter. Mr. and Mrs. Louis Wrest, of near Oelia, were tendered a surprise party on Thanksgiving eve, by a large company of friends from Baltimore and elsewhere. The opposition to the Orange Grove bridge project in this vicinity was doubtless largely due to the deplorable condition of the road leading from this place to Ellicott City. The road has been turned over to the county, but owing to the fact that funds are not ye available, nothing has been done toward improving its condition.

Could not the Ellicott City Council be prevailed upon to place another electric light on the river road leading to Oella, at that dangerous point just within the city limits? The one already Cotterill, Minnie and Bertie Holtman, ted by the traveling public and another Maggie Fisher, Alma Wickert, Maggie placed at the point named would cause showers of praise to fall upon the heads of the city fathers.

The two cities of Baltimore an Washington contain together nearly one million of inhabitants. In former years the distance between Ellicott City and Baltimore was estimated at ten miles but now the two places have substantially grown together. Formerly the town of Sligo was considered to be six miles from Washington. Brightwood avenue connecting the two places, is for the greater part well built upon, and the vacant spaces are being rapidly filled. With the exception of six miles, there i a turnpike all the way from Ellicott City to Sligo, and by this road the measured distance is twenty-eight miles. This road takes the farmers' products to market. If they be fruits or perishable vegetables, they are not injured in transit. It passes through limestone and will carry lime and all the variety of fertilizers almost to the farmer's field. If an intended immigrant to Maryland passes over this road, he must be so impressed with the agricultural advantages of the State as to determine to make a purchase and settle here. This canno be said of all thoroughfares.

It may be claimed for this road that for way travel and freight it has no competition, whereas the road on the old stage line must compete in this respect with both the Baltimore and Potomac and the Baltimore and Ohio, running almost alongside of the last named road. Where the Patuxent river forms the boundary between the counties of Howard and Montgomery its banks are bold and romantic. For picnics and summer excursions they would afford superior attractions. Their supply of fine building stone or rubble for McAdam and concrete roads are practically inexhaus! ible. The river itself has numerous water powers which properly developed would become exceedingly valuable. During the summer, boarders resort i large numbers to the neighborhood of Sandy Springs. With increased facilities, doubtless the two cities would greatly increase this supply of periodical visitors. All that a man bath he will

At the Cosmos Club last night Prof. James Mooney read an interesting paper before the Anthropological Society upon the biographic nomenclature of the Potomac River. The Indians of this region were a part of the Powhatan Confederacy, which claimed all of tidewater Virginia and both shores of the Chesapeake nearly to the entrance of the Susmore of life. The date was changed at quehanna. The Powhatan language belonged to the Algonquin stock, and was Chestertown and Kent county, who did | cognate with the Delaware, the Massanot wish the wholesale hanging to take chuset, and the Ojibwa. The word Potomac appears on Smith's map as Patawomeck, the name of a principal settlement which Jefferson in his Notes on Virginia locates at the mouth of Potomac Creek in Stafford County Va. As is the case with Indian local names generally, especially in the East, it was the name not of a stream, but of a district including a settlement. The Jesuit father, Jacker, declares that the word relates to "small fishes." He gives the general meaning as "the river full of swarms of small fry where fishes spawn in shoals." Another authority says that the form of the word should be Pedhamok, meaning "they are coming by water." Still another idea advanced is that the term meant "bushy or brushy river." The rendering "river of swans" has no authority.

Hall's Ca tarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work.
