DR. TALMAGE CELEBRATES THE EX-TINGUISHMENT OF THE DEBT.

A Great Day In the History of the Brooklyn Tabernacle-Dr. Talmage Speaks of the Rejoicings of Israel After the Passage Over the Red Sea. BROOKLYN, May 28.—This was one of the greatest days in the history of Brooklyn | tian Herald office, you would know how Tabernacle. The music, instrumental and | deep their sympathy, how large their sacricongregational, was of the most joyous type-the hymns, the prayers and the sermon were celebrative of the entire extinguishment of the floating debt of $140,000. accumulated from the disasters which required the building of three immense churches. Text, Exodus xv, 20, 21: "And Miriam, the prophetess, the sister of Aaron, took a timbrel in her hand, and all the women went out after her with timbrels and with dances. And Miriam answered them, Sing ye to the Lord, for he hath triumphed gloriously; the horse and his rider hath he thrown into the sea."

Sermonizers are naturally so busy in getting the Israelites safely through the parted Red sea and the Egyptians submerged in the returning waters that but little time is ordinarily given to what the Lord's people did after they got well up, high and dry, on the beach. That was the beach of the Red sea, which is at its greatest width 200 miles and at its least width 12 miles. Why is the adjective "Red" used in describing this water? It is called the Red sea because the mountains on its western coast look as though sprinkled with brick dust, and the water is colored with red seaweed and has red zoophyte and red coral. This sea was cut by the keels of Egyptian, Phoenician and Arabic shipping. It was no insignificant pond or puddle on the beach of which my text calls us to stand. I hear upon it the sound of a tambourine, for which the timbrel was only another name. An instrument of music made out of a circular hoop, with pieces of metal fixed in the sides of it, which made a jingling sound, and over which hoop a piece of parchment was distended, and this was beaten by the knuckles of the performer. deliverance from the pursuing Egyptians, a little more of the festive into our religious services and drive out the dolorous and funereal, and the day may come when Israelitish host was the celebration of their its tightened parchment until you are all victory. They had crossed. They had triumphed. They were free.

More wonderful was this victory and defeat than when the hosts of Richard overcame the hosts of Saladin at Azotus, than when at Bannockburn Scotland was set free, than when the Earl of Northumberland was driven back-at Branham Moor, than when at the battle of Wakefield York catapult or spear. And Miriam answered them, Sing ye to the Lord, for he bath triumphed gloriously; the horse and his rider bath he thrown A GLORIOUS TRIUMPH.

Brooklyn Tabernaele today feels much as Moses and Miriam did when they stood on the banks of the Red sea after their safe emergence from the waters. By the help of God and the generosity of our friends here and elsewhere, our $140,000 of floating church debt is forever gone, and this house, which, with the ground upon which it stands, represents $410,000, I this day reconsecrate to God the Father, God the Son and God the Holy Ghost. A stranger might ask how could this church got into debt to an amount that would build several large churches. My answer is, Waves of destruction, stout as any that ever rolled across the Red sea of my text. Examine all the pages of church history, and all the pages of the world's history, and show me an organization, sacred or secular, that ever had to build three great structures, two of them destroyed by fire. Take any of your biggest life insurance companies, or your biggest storchouses, or your biggest banks, or your biggest newspaper establishments and let them have to build three times on the same foundation, and it would cost them a struggle, if not demolition. My text speaks of the Red sea once crossed, but one Red sea would not have so much overcome us. It was with us Red sea after Red sea. Three Red seas! Yet today, thanks be to God, we stand on the shore, and with organ and cornet in absence of a timbrel we chant: "Sing ye unto the Lord, for he hath triumphed gloriously.

But why the great expense of this struc-ture? My answer is, the immensity of it and the firmness of it. It cost over $31,000 to dig the cellar, before one stone was laid, reaching as the foundation does from street to street, and then the building of the house was constructed in a way, we are told by experienced builders who had nothing to do with it, for durability of foundation and wall such as characterizes hardly any other building of this city. To the day of your death and mine, and for our children and grandchildren after us, it will stand here a house of God and a gate of heaven.

For me personally this is a time of glad ness more than tongue or pen or type can ever tell. For 24 years I had been building churches in Brooklyn and seeing them burn down, until I felt I could endure the strain no longer, and I had written my resignation as pastor and had appointed to read it two Sabbaths ago and close my work in Brook-lyn forever. I felt that my chief work was yet to be done, but that I could not do it with the Alps on one shoulder and the Hymalayas on the other. But God has interfered, and the way is clear, and I am here and expect to be here until my work

Why should I want to go away from Brooklyn? I have no sympathy with the popular seatiment which defames our beloved city. Some people make it a part of their religion to exceriate and belittle the place of their residence, and there has been ers, or readers who have had a whole regimore damage, financial and moral, done to our city by this hypercriticism than can ever be estimated. The course of our city fly on the neck of pharaoh's war charger, has been onward and upward. We have a citizenship made up of hundreds of thousands of as good men and women as inhabit he earth, and I feel honored in being a

THANKS TO GOD AND KIND FRIENDS. My thanks must be first to God and then to all who have contributed by large gift or small to this emancipation. Thanks to the men, women and children who have helped and sometimes helped with self sacrifices that I know must have won the applause of the heavens. If you could only read with me a few of the thousands of letters that have come to my desk in The Chrisfice has been. "I have sold my bicycle and now send you the money," is the language of one noble young man who wrote to The Christian Herald. "This is my dead son's gift to me, and I have been led to send it to you," writes a mother in Rhode Island. A blind octogenarian invalid in York, Pa., sends his mite and his prayer. Thanks to all the newspaper press. Have you no-ticed how kind and sympatheticall the secular newspapers have been, and of course all the religious newspapers, with two or three nasty exceptions? You say that newspapers sometimes get things wrong. Yes, but which of us does not sometimes get things wrong. If you want to find a man who has never made a mistake, do not waste your time by looking in this pulpit. Thanks to the editors and reporters and publishers. Gentlemen of the Brooklyn and New York printing press, if you never report anything else that I say, please to repert that. Yes, I see you are getting it all

As a church we from this day make new departure. We will preach more instruc-tive sermons. We will offer more faithful orayers. We will do better work in all departments. We will in the autumn resume our lay college. We will fill all the rooms of this magnificent pile with work for God and suffering humanity. More prayers have been offered for this church and on both sides the sea than for any church that has ever existed, and all those prayers will be answered. Clear the track for the Brooklyn Tabernacle! "Sing ye to the Lord, for he hath triumphed gloriously; the horse and his rider hath he thrown into the sea."

But do you not now really think that the Miriam of my text rejoiced too soon? Do you not think she ought to have waited till The Israelites, standing on the beach of the Israelitish host got clear over to Caathe Red sea, were making music on their nan before she struck her knuckles against the timbrel or tambourine? Ah, my friends, Miriam was right. If we never shouted victory till we got clear through the struggles of this life, we would never shout at all. Copy the habit of Miriam and Moses. may get the grip. Do not be too glad about your conversion, for you might fall from grace. Do not rejoice too soon over a church's deliverance, because there might be disasters yet to come. Oh, let us have no more adjourned gratitude! The time to thank God for a rescue from temptation is the moment you have broken the wine flask. The time to thank God for your salvation is the moment after the first flash of par-don. The time to be grateful for the com-fort of your bereft soul is the first moment of Christ's appearance at the mausoleum of Lazarus. The time for Miriam's tambourine to sound its most jubilant note is the moment the last Israelite puts his foot on the sand of the parted inland ocean. Alas!

that when God's mercies have such swift wings, our praises should have such leaden A CAVALRY CHARGE. Notice that Miriam's song in my text had for its burden the overthrown cavalry. It was not so much the infantry or the men on foot over whose defeat she rejoiced with ringing timbrel, but over the men on horseback-the mounted troops! "The horse and his rider bath he thrown into the sea." There is something terrible in a cavalry charge. You see it is not like a soldier afoot, thrusting a bayonet or striking with a sword, using nothing but the strength of his own muscle and sinew, for the cavalryman adds to the strength of his own arm the awful plunge of a steed at full gallop. Tremendous arm of war is the cavalry! Josephus says that in that host that crossed the Red sea there were 50,000 caval-rymen. Epaminondas rode into battle with 5,000 cavalrymen and Alexander with 7,000. Marlborough depended on his cavalry for the triumph at Blenheim. It was not alone the snow that despoiled the French armies in retreat from Moscow, but the mounted Cossacks. Cavalrymen decided the battles of Leuthen and Leipsic and Winchester and Hanover Courthouse and Five Forks. Some of you may have been in the relentless raids led on by Forrest or Chalmers or Morgan or Stuart of the southern side, or Pleas-anton, or Wilson or Kilpatrick or Sheridan of the northern side. The army saddies are the thrones of battle. Hurricanes in stirrups are the cavalrymen. No wonder that Miriam was chiefly grateful that the Egyptian cavalrymen, pursuing the Israelites down to midway the Red sea, were unsaddled, unstirruped, unhorsed. Miriam struck thecenter of the tambourine with the full force of her right hand when she came to that bar of the music, "The horse and his rider bath he thrown into the sea." Ah, my friends, it is the mounted troubles that we must fear. The little troubles we can endure. The cinder in the eye, the splinter under the nail, the thorn in the foot, the social slight, the mean fling, the invidious comparison or the remarks that Come, look me in the face while I utter the word God commands me to speak to you, "No weapon formed against you shall prosper." Don't throw away your tambourine. You will want it as sure as you sit there and I stand here, and the tune you will yet play on it, whether standing on Beach of Time or Beach of Eternity, will be the tune that Miriam played when she cried, "Sing ye to the Lord, for he hath triumphed gloriously; the horse and his rider bath he thrown into

I expect to have a good laugh with you in heaven, for the Bible says in Luke, sixth chapter, twenty-first verse, "Blessed are ye that weep now, for ye shall laugh." We shall not spend all eternity psalm singing, but sometimes in review of the past, as Christ says, we shall laugh. There is nothing wrong in laughter. It all depends on what you laugh at, and when you laugh, and how you laugh. Nothing it seems will more thoroughly kindle our heavenly hilarities after we have got inside the pearly gate than to see how in this world we got seared at things which ought not to have frightened usat all. How often we work ourselves up into a great stew about nothing! The Red sea before may be deep, and the Egyptian cavalry behind us may be well mounted, but if we trust the Lord we will go through no more hurt by the water than when in boyhood we rolled our garments to the knee and barefoot crossed the meadow brook on the old homestead. The olds may seem to be all against you, but I guess it will be all right with you if you have God on your side and all the angelic, cherubic, scraphic and archangelic kingdoms. "If Ged be for you, who can be against you?" Lay hold of the Lord in prayer, and you will go free, as did Richard Cecil with £20 of missionary money in his saddlebags, and the highwaymen grabbed his horse by the bridle and told him to deliver, and he prayed God for safety, and suddenly one of the robbers said: "Mr. Cecil, I once heard you preach.
