BROOKLYN TABERNACLE. He Preaches on the Timely Topic of Polities, and Says Incidentally That No Man Can Afford to Enter Politics Who Is Not

BROOKLYN, N. Y., Nov. 5 .- In this sermon this forencon, Rev. Dr. Talmage touched on a topic which is just now uppermost, while the agitation in politics circles is raging in all parts of the land. The sermon is pertinent and useful, and is based on the text: Acts xix, 39-"Some therefore cried one thing, and some another; for the assembly was confused; and the more part knew not wherefore they were come together. And they drew Alexander out of the multitude, the Jews putting him forward. And Alexander beckoned with the hand, and would have made his defense unto the people. But when they knew that he was a Jew, all with one voice about the space of two hours cried out, "Great is Diana of the Ephesians."

Ephesus was upside down. It was about the silver question. A manufacture of silver boxes for holding heathen images had called his laborers together to discuss the behavior of one Paul, who had been in public places assaulting image-worship, and consequently very much damaging that particular business. There was great excitement in the city. People stood in knots along the streets, violently gesticulating and calling each other hard names. Some of the people favored the policy of the silversmiths; other people favored the policy of Paul. There were great moral questions involved, but these did not bother them at all. The only question about which they seemed to be interested was concerning the wages and the salaried positions. The silversmith and his compeers had put up factories as great expense for the making of these silver boxes, and how, dates. "And all liars shall have if this new policy is to be inaugurated, their part in the lake which burneth the business will go down, the laborers with fire and brimstone; which is the will be thrown out of employment, and the whole city will suffer. Weli, what is to be done?

panacea for public evils. The convention is called, and, as they want the largest room in the city, they take the theatre. Having there assembled, they all want to get the floor, and they all want to talk at once. You know what excitement that always makes in a convention, where a great many people want to talk at once. Some cried one thing, some he who puts a bribe into the hand of a cried another. Some wanted to de- voter, or plies weak men with mercennounce, some wanted to resolve. After ary and corrupt motives, commits a sin awhile a prominent man gets the floor, against God and the nation. Bribery is and he begins to speak, but they very country. God says "Fire shall consume soon hiss him down, and then the con- the tabernacle of bribery." Have nothfusion, rises into worse uproar, and they ing to do with such a sin, O Christian begin to shout, all of them together, and man! Fling it from the ballot-box. Hand they keep on until they are red in the face and hoarse in the throat, for two long hours crying out: "Great is Diana | without bribes ought never to be carried of the Ephesians! Great is Diana of the at all. Again I ask you as Christian Ephesians!"

excitement we have almost every into political life who is not a tectotalautumn at the elections. While that | cr. goddess Diana has lost worshipers, and her temples have gone into the dust, our American people want to set up a god in place of it, and they want us all to bow down before it; and that god is Political Party. Considering our super-ior civilization, I have to declare to you that the Ephesian idolatry was less of-fensive in the sight of God than is this all-absorbing American partisanship. While there are honest men, true men, Christian men who stand in both politi cal parties, and who come into the autumal elections resolving to serve their city or their state or the nation in the best possible way, I have noticed also that with many it is a mere contest between the ins and outs-those who are trying to stay in and keep the outs out, and those who are out trying to get in and thrust the ins out. And one party cries, "Great is Diana of the Ephesians!" and the other party cries "Great is Diana of the Ephesians! neither of them honest enough to say, "Great is my pocket-Once or twice a year it is my custom to talk to the people about public affairs from what I call a Christian standpoint. and this morning I have chosen for that duty. I hope to say a practical word. History tells us of a sermon once preached amid the Highlands of Scotland-a sermon two hours long-on the sin of luxury, where there were not more than three pair of shoes in the audience, and during our last war a good man went ingave a tract on "The Sin of Dancing" to a man both of whose legs had been amputated! But I hope this morning to present an appropriate and adapted word, as next Tuesday, at the ballotbox, great affairs are to be settle. The Rev. Dr. Emmons, in the early history of our country in Massachusetts, preached about the election of Thomas Jefferson to the Presidency. The Rev. Dr. Mayhew, of Boston, in the early days of our republic preached about the repeal of the stamp act.

There are times when ministers of christ must look off upon public affairs appreciate. The Archduke Albert of and discuss them. We need go back to no example. Every man is, before God, Norwegian boasts of his home of rocks, and the Siberian is pleased with his land of perpetual snow; if the Roman thought that the muddy Tiber was the favored river in the sight of Heaven, and if the Laplander shivers out his eulogy of his native clime, and if the Chinese have pity for anybody born outside of the "Flowery Kingdom," shall not we, born under these fair skies, and standing day by day amidst these glorious civil religious liberties, be public-spirited? I propose to tell the people very plainly what I consider to be their Christian duty at the

First, set yourself against all political falsehood. The most monstrous lies ever told in this country are during the elections. I stop at the door of a Democratic meeting and listen, and hear that the Republicans are liars. I stop at the door of a Republican meeting and listen and hear that the Democrats are scoundrels. Our public men microscoped, and the truth distorted. Who believes a tenth part of what he reads or hears in the autumnal elections? Men who at other seasons of the year are very careful in their speech become peddlers of

In the far East there is a place where once a year, they let the people do as they please and say what they please and the place is full of uproar, misrule and wickedness, and they call it the "Devil's Day." The nearest approximation to that in this country has been the first Tuesday in November. The community at such times seems to say "Go to, now; let us have a good time at lying," Prominent candidates for office are denounced as unprincipled and renegade. A smart lie will start in the corner of a of the whole continent. What garbling of speechs! What misrepresentation of individual antecedents. The trouble is that we have in this country two great manufactories of lies—the Republican manufactory of lies and the Democratic manufactory of lies and they are run day and night, pel, more than 600, managing postoffices. and they turn out balf a dozen a day, all and over 3,000,000 carning independent

Nothing is more the hundreds of thousands of foreigners curious than to see the prodigious leaps disgust must they have for the land of their adoption! The only good thing about it is that many of them cannot understand the English language. But suppose the German, and Italian, and Swedish, and French papers translate it all and peddle out the infernal stuff to to their subscribers.

Nothing but Christianity will ever stop such a flood of indecency. The Christian religion will speak after awhile. The billingsgate and low scandal through which we wade almost every autumn must be rebuked by that religion which speaks from its two great mountains. from the one mountain intoning the witness against thy neighbor," and from the other mount making plea for kind-ness and love and biessing rather than board to the bound of this enormous cursing. O, Christian men, frown upon animal." falsehood! Remember that a political lie is as black as any other kind of a lie. God has recorded all the faisehoods that have been told at the city, state or national elections since the foundation of this government; and, though the perpetrators and their victims day judgment will be awarded.

The falsehoods that Aaron Burr breathed into the ear of Blenner-God's book to-day as the lies that were printed last week about our local candisecond death."

Again, I counsel you as Christian men to set yourselves against the misuse of (from a spring-board) from fifty-four to money in political campaigns. Of the fifty-six feet, but how this dwindles "Call a convention," says someone; thousands of dollars already spent this when his strength is compared with that for all ages a convention has been a autumn, how much of the amount do of the grasshopper! you suppose has been properly used? You have a right to spend money for the publishing of political tracts, for the establishment of organizations for the earrying out of what you consider to be statistics and by facts.

Printing and renting of public halls and political meetings cost money, but one of the most appalling sins of this men to set yourselves against the dissi-The whole scene reminds me of the pations that hover over the ballot-box. Let me say that no man can afford to go Stilt-walking.

The custom of walking upon stilts years.' dates from the earliest times, and in the art there have been some distinguished that he was right. professors who have attained a remarkable degree of proficiency. Some of them are said to have danced upon a tight rope like regular acrobats.

In the eighteenth century, at Namur, in France, stilt combats were a favorite game among the young men. Most of these stilt fights took place during the fctes of the carnival and other great occasions. The Marechal Saxe was in 1748 entertained with one of the tourneys.

Five or six hundred young men were divided into two opposing bands, formed themselves into brigades, wearing costumes of different colors, and advanced against each other. The stilts were about four feet high. The combatants carried no weapons-it was against the rules to do so-they had their elbows and their stiits, by a vigorous use of which they did their best to place their enemies hors de combat. The struggle often lasted for two hours, the combatants swaying from side to side, advancing, retreating, crouching towards the earth, or springing up to avoid a wellto a hospital distributing tracts, and aimed blow. The battles often waxed hot and furious, but did not by any means necessarily result in the death of those engaged in it. As long as it lasted the flags of the rival factions floated from the windows of the townhall. The spectators, many of them women, did all they could by their presence, cries, and gestures to excite the combatants to way through, in imitation of cattle, if

From one of their stilt fights the Namuprois won a privilege the import-Austria at his entrance into the Low Countries was greeted by the Governor responsible for his own duty. If the of Namur, who promised to bring before him "two troops of warriors, who, without being either on foot or on horseback, would afford him the spectacle of a new mode of fighting." The Archduke was so much charmed with the exhibition that he accorded to the inhabitants of the town the privilege of being exempt perpetually from the duties on beer. In Gascony, the Landes shepherds used stilts so as to be sufficiently highly perched to be able to survey their flocks scattered among the heath and brushwood. The stilts they used were very high; they mounted them early in the morning, an did not quit their elevated position until evening. In order to get upon them, they climbed the roof of a stable or the vindow of a house. The stilts were furnished with rests like stirrups for the feet, and the lower ends were shod with one, to keep the wood from being worn down or broken. They were attached to the thigh in such a way as to permit the knees being freely bent. Each man was further provided with a long pole, which he used for climbing up to his position, and for support when he wished to rest. These shepherds moved with wonderful agility, clearing hedges and wide ditches without difficulty.

In Time of War. The latest invention in appliances of war is in the shape of an illuminating projectile with which the Italian government has been making experiments. It consists of a species of candle which pro duces a most intense light. Lies raw and scalloped It is thus we are able to explain the proand panned and stewed. Crawling lies digious and rapid jumps of the squirrel, the hare, and, above all, the jerboa.

This is a small animal, somewhat re sembling the kangaroo. It is an inhabiby Christian people who never lie except during elections, and lies by people who lant of the sandy deserts and wide always lie but beat themselves in a poligrassy plains of Asia, and the east of Europe, Africa, and Australia. Its hind legs are very long, and it does not walk upon four feet, but carries on locomotion who come here to live think of us? What | it takes when alarmed, the most accomplished pursuer having difficulty in catching it. In extremity, it takes ten feet at a bound; and in ordinary movements, at least three or four feet.

No animal in this respect is more highy gifted than the frog. Certain serpents also throw themselves forward to great distances It is by similar movements that fishes, as the trout, salmon, etc., swimming in streams broken up by cataracts, are able to surmount a!l the obstacles they meet in ascending them. The whale jumps from tifteen to twenty feet out of the sea. Says Barthez, "! command "Thou shalt not bear false strikes the water so suddenly and swiftly with its tail that it seems for an instant

Nothing, however, among the larger species is equal to the wonderful leaping power of insects. The most remarkable is the flea, which the Arabs call "the father of leaping." It clears, at a single leap, a distance a hundred times the length of its own body, and its strength may have gone into the dust, in the last | is so enormous that it can drag a weight twenty-four times as heavy as itself. Then there is the grasshopper, which jumps two hundred times higher than hasset, the slanders that Lieutenant- its own body. Some naturalist speaks General Gage proclaimed about George of the legs of this insect as being "like Washington, the misrepresentations in high pillars, between which the suspen-regard to James Monroe are as fresh on ded body is balanced just before it is projected forward."

To realize how really wonderful the power of these small creatures is, we should compare these facts with the distance which is thought extraordinary for a man to leap. Some celebrated leaper of ancient times is said to have cleared

A Lightning Calculator.

The Boston Traveller says that Prof. Truman Henry Safford, of Williams Colthe best; you have a right to appeal to lege, is one of the most remarkable the reason of men by argument and lightning calculators now living. A gentleman who had heard of his power, and wished to test it, once said to him "I have a little problem for you, Professor Safford. I was born August 15, 1852, at three in the afternoon. This is June 20, 1883, and it is just three o'clock. Now can you tell me my age in seconds?" Professor Safford frowned bent his head, and began to walk rapidly up and down, twisting his mustache, and clasping and unclasping his hands in his nervous way.

After a moment or so he returned the answer, which was somewhere in a paper containing the problem worked out, and said, with a superior smile Well, Professor, I'll give you credit for great genius, but you're several thousand out." The Professor stretched out his hand for the paper, and running over the said, contemptuously, 'Humph! You've left out the leap-And further investigation showed

A Substitute to do Penance.

A Kobe (Japan) paper copies a queen advertisement which has been hung out on the board by a rich man at Matsuragata, Nagasaki. The notice explains itself : "When my daughter was sick I prayed the Kompira of Sanuki Province for her recovery, pledging to let her pay a thanksgiving visit to the temple by creeping on her hands and feet all the she recovered. The prayer was heard and she recovered by the miraculous in fluence of the Almighty Deity. But, af ter all, it is impossible for a tender girl to creep several hundreds of miles to Sanuki. I should therefore like to find a substitute for her, and if anyone offer ing himself or herself for such be found suitable to the task, I will offer such a person $1000."

One full cup (haif a pint) of ground coffee, one quart of boiling water, white of an egg and the crushed shell of same one half cup of cold water to settle it. Stir up the eggshell and the white, beaten with the coffee, and a very little cold water; mix gradually, with the boiling water in the coffee-boiler. Stir from the sides and top as it boils up. Boil rapidly twelve minutes; pour in the cold water and take from the fire, setting it gently upon the hearth to settle. In five minutes pour it off carefully into your coffepot, which should be previously well scalded. A Britannia coffeepot will be found the best, as it can be made in it and sent direct to the table. Coffee is quickly spoiled after it boils.

AN INTERESTING SKETCH.

Nothing appeals so strongly to a mother's affection as her daughter just budding into womanhood. Following is an instance: "Our daughter, Blamche, now 15 years of age, had been terribly afflicted with nervousness, and had lost the entire use of her right arm. She was ha such a condition that we had to keep her from school and abandon her music lessons. In fact, we feared St. Vitus dance, and are positive but for an invaluable remedy she would have had that terrible affliction. We had employed physicians, but she received no benefit from them. The first of last August she weighed but 75 pounds, and although she has taken only three bottles of Nervine she now weighs 100 pounds; her nervousness and symptoms of St. Vitus dance are entirely gone, she attends school regularly, and studies with somfort and ease. She has recovered complete ise of her arm, her appetite is splendid, and no money could procure for our daughter the eatth Dr. Miles' Nervine has brought her.
